

VALUE OF SONGS IN SCHOOL ROOM

Entertaining Lecture Delivered by Miss Emily C. Jessup Last Evening.

POINTS MADE BY THE SPEAKER

The Mission of Music and How to Teach it to the Children—An Interesting Program.

Miss Emily C. Jessup's lecture last evening, in the Lafayette school assembly room, on children's songs and the philosophy of teaching music to children, was attentively listened to by a large audience composed mostly of public school teachers. The occasion was of additional interest from the fact that Miss Jessup illustrated all of her song quotations by singing, Mrs. A. H. Peabody playing the piano accompaniments, and as the lecturer has established a reputation for fine voice, and thoroughly understands her topic, she was able to make the program more interesting, and held the attention of her listeners to the close of the evening.

TOPICS DISCUSSED.

Miss Jessup was introduced by Prof. W. A. Wetzel, supervisor of music in the public schools, and in her address made these points: Music is a recreation, its value in the public schools, the aesthetic possibilities of music in the realm of feeling and emotions, moral help of music to the child; early training in music for children so that when they have left school they may be the better able to appreciate the higher realms of the art; suggestions as to gaining the desired end in teaching music to the young, and the historic approach to the art; the correlation of music with the studies in the regular curriculum; creative work, the creation of a class of listeners who will have a more adequate and realistic comprehension of music which they never would have had had not a careful training been made in early life. Emphasizing on the above, the lecturer said in part:

THE MISSION OF MUSIC.

"Music in the schools is the united movement of all children, and that which promotes unity and suppresses any extreme individuality is the ultimate end of the public schools. Athletics is the only other subject in the school similar to the chorus in this respect. The value of music in the schools is its aesthetic possibilities in the realm of feeling, its social character in promoting unity in the schools; in giving immediate pleasure to the child, and in giving a general education to the child which may lay a foundation for a specific one after leaving school. Music is an agent in the cultivation of feelings. Train the thoughts and feelings, and conduct will take care of itself. It is not enough to train the thoughts of the individual, for his every-day existence, his emotions, his higher thoughts should be so fostered that he may be fitted to take part in the ethical problems of civilization. Some may say:

"Of what use are the 15 minutes a day during which children sing the songs and a few exercises? The answer is that, by awakening the imagination, the feelings, the emotions, in their songs, and by being able to listen intelligently to good music, they are laying a foundation for the higher duties of life, which in the long run, will overcome the sordid part of the lives of nations."

"With this point in view, we will try to see how our end can be accomplished. At the end of six or eight years of music study the child should be able to sing a piece with more understanding of its subject than it carries a few degrees in difficulty."

"In French, by M. Luther, should have more significance than 'Hail to the Shore.' The different terms of musical forms should have meaning to him—definitions of forms, canon, ballad, chorale, etc. Sketches of the lives of composers for the upper grades. Elementary harmony and the simple uses of chords can be taught so that the student can better study the works of the masters. The character and significance of the songs can be developed from year to year, until at the time of leaving school the children have the same study of the subject that is now given as a special course in higher institutions."

HOW TO TEACH MUSIC.

"Correlation: Even now music is sometimes taught in an isolated manner. It is sometimes a subject put in the middle of the afternoon's program as a reward and perhaps in the lower grades. In the higher grades the music is apt to go with less spontaneity and life than in the lower grades. Does it not seem that this comes through lack of contact with other interests of the child? What does the average boy care for the sentiment, 'Wide over the world, thro' field and fold, the wind moans'?"

SIR KNIGHT WM. H. MANEELEY

32d Degree of Mary Commandery, Philadelphia, Recovers From Bright's Disease.

During convalescence week in San Francisco, Mr. Knight (Wm. H. Maneeley) of 1804 N. Seventeenth street, Philadelphia, or Mary Commandery, called at the office of the Jno. J. Fulton Co. to report his recovery.

He stated that he had both Bright's Disease and Diabetes for 9 years and had gotten so low he could not sleep for a half hour at a time, and had to be put in ice packs. A leading physician sent him word that he had had several cases recover under a preparation made in California called Fulton's Compound. Maneeley sent for it. The third night he got the first natural sleep in months and improvement was then gradual but continuous, until he is now the picture of health.

Among other well-known Philadelphia men who had recovered he mentioned Richard Ellbert, Mrs. E. T. Snow of 1815 Columbia avenue, also two residents of Kensington, whom he told of it. Also the wife of a physician and several others. Maneeley will know how to approach Mr. Maneeley to get the eternal truth as to the genuineness of this product.

We again announce to the world the curability of chronic Bright's Disease and Diabetes in fully 87 per cent of all cases.

The immediate interests of the pupil are the keynote to the restoration of some as an art. The other subjects in the curriculum are, or should be, closely connected with his life. Songs should be selected which should have something to tell his audience, in the middle ages were of more importance than the melody. Epics, chanting and recitative, were the first vocal forms. If the pupil understands the story of the song, or the significance of the words, as in a patriotic song, he can tell this story in melody as well as in speech. His words will not run into the other as in Italian, where the heart is singing along the star-spangled banner. Train the voice from the words of the song. A vocal exercise is of no benefit if sung over and over again in a mechanical fashion, and the teacher is not introduced into the study in order to produce a composer; it is for the purpose of awakening desire for expression, to stimulate the imagination.

OBJECT LESSON CITED.

Miss Jessup, in referring specifically to correlation, spoke of the fact of drawing teacher had for giving the apple as an object lesson. Finally one boy started in to draw a horse, and the teacher, who had not taken the apple as directed, replied he was drawing a horse to eat the apple up.

A special feature of the evening was the piano playing of Mrs. A. H. Peabody, who favored the audience with several instrumental solos from standard composers, which required a high order of technical powers. She showed herself an accomplished pianist, and was commended by many friends at the close of the evening.

FRANCE WILL COMPEL VENEZUELA TO COME TO TIME

Washington, Oct. 13.—American grievances against Venezuela may be settled by diplomacy, while France, in the absence of any diplomatic relations at Caracas, may yet be compelled to resort to a show of force. Despite the assurances of foreign office officials at Paris it is said here that the French ultimatum has been practically ready to dispatch for a week or more and that France has the full assent of the Washington government to adopt an effective course against Venezuela. To affect the removal of the French ultimatum and the restoration of French property seized by the Caracas government.

This briefly is the situation tonight. The French ultimatum will be held up until further information has been received from the French embassy here and the state department. So far as Judge Coghlan, the American special commissioner, has reported to the department, there is nothing in the situation at Caracas that can be set by patient and firm diplomacy. American and French property, it is contended, has been seized unjustly by President Castro, but ample precedent is found in history for the settlement without resort to force of problems far more complicated than the present issue.

While not prepared to announce definitely its exact course of action, the Washington government has let it be known informally its belief that American grievances against Venezuela, although severe, can be settled without the assistance of American warships. This information was not given to the effect of the intention of forestalling a resort by France to force, but was in answer to the earnest request of the Paris government. Public opinion in France is rapidly becoming exhausted over the delay of the government in proceeding against Venezuela and this fact necessarily acts as a spur in the conference between Paris and Washington. This government will give diplomatic assistance against Venezuela, but it is not prepared to establish a blockade against Venezuela, having already assured itself that the Monroe doctrine is not involved in any way.

In diplomatic circles the opinion is expressed that the Venezuelan president should yield before a pacific blockade is established. The aversion on the part of France and the United States to the use of warships in this case arises from the fact that the blockading of Venezuelan ports at this time will affect not so much Venezuela as it will the creditor powers to whom a portion of the customs receipts has been awarded by the Hague tribunal until their claims shall have been paid in full.

SALT LAKERS ARE AFTER CONTRACTS

Engineer Jacobs and W. H. Henderson Leave Today for Western Pacific Headquarters.

TO WORK NEAR ORVILLE, CAL.

Work at This End of the Line is Being Pushed and Contractors Are Catching Their Stride.

Engineer Jacobs, who has completed his survey of the Miller coal line from Springville to Carbon county, left today for San Francisco in company with H. W. Henderson, formerly superintendent of the Salt Lake Route Utah division. These gentlemen and Joseph G. Jacobs of the Salt Lake & Mercur have been fighting on an important piece of contracting work on Western Pacific construction. The deal has been practically closed and the two named railroad men are going to go over the ground and make preliminary arrangements for the commencement of work. While none is talking for publication, it is understood that the work will consist of a strip of heavy construction east of Orville, Cal. Mr. J. G. Jacobs, however, will remain in Salt Lake looking after his interests in Utah.

Work on the Western Pacific at this end of the line is being pushed. Mr. Christensen of the Utah Construction company stated this morning that the subcontractors were catching their stride and that work was moving in good shape. He asserted also that the original survey will be followed and the reason that no contracts have been let in the state of Nevada to date by the Western Pacific is that there is no need for it in a hurry, as the line is to be built from either end and materials and supplies brought in over the rails of the Western Pacific as needed both east and west.

GOOD BUSINESS.

Denver Housed, Fed and Entertained Nearly 100,000 Visitors G. A. R. Week.

There has been much speculation as to the probable number of visitors in Denver on the occasion of the thirty-ninth national encampment G. A. R. held in that city from Oct. 4 to 9 last. The Denver & Rio Grande passenger department has compiled official figures, and they are now made public for the first time:

Tickets from territory east of Colorado, validated at Colorado common points, all lines, 26,471
Tickets from Colorado state points, all lines, 13,410
Tickets from all territory north and west of Ogden, 224
Tickets from Utah points, 125
Tickets from Wyoming, 379
Tickets from Texas and other points south of Colorado line, estimated, 150
Tickets from other territory not named, estimated, 500

Total, 52,225
In addition to the above no less than 7,000 passengers to and from the Pacific coast passed through Denver, en-campment week, nearly all of whom stopped off. These tickets are not included in the above figures, though probably it would be permissible to include them in the grand total of visitors in Denver during the Grand Army encampment, and this would bring the aggregate attendance to nearly 60,000. This number is not, however, to be taken as a record, as it is not one complaint of extortion has been recorded.

Denver's claim to being the foremost convention city of America can scarcely be disputed.

COLONIST RATES

Harriman Lines Announced Their Program for the Coming Year.
Following the meeting of the Transcontinental Passenger association in Chicago yesterday the following explanatory telegram was received here this morning from General Passenger Agent E. L. Luman of the Union Pacific:

"The Union Pacific Railroad announces a continuance of its policy of making low second class one-way rates to assist in the development of Oregon, Washington and California, and from St. Louis and New Orleans, and from Omaha and Kansas City. Similar low rates will apply from other points in the middle west. Liberal stop-over privileges will be given."

Subway Connected Up.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The first actual connection between the Chicago and Alton railroads was made yesterday when the shafts from the bore to the tracks of the Chicago & Alton road at Van Buren street were opened. Two or three subways of steel were dropped down and sent to a downtown business house. Five shafts connect the railroad with the subway and will be used for coal traffic. The Alton brings from 75 to 100 carloads of Illinois bituminous coal daily, and it is intended for the coal traffic. The tunnel, which will be through the tunnel. Connection with the warehouse by elevators will be made later.

CO-OPERATIVE STOCK OWNERSHIP

THE betterment of the live stock industry accomplished by individual effort is naturally restricted for the want of adequate capital, says a writer in Drovers' Journal.

Co-operative ownership of registered sires enables a community to improve the quality of the stock of any locality, which would be an impossibility if attempted by individual effort. This proposition applies more specifically to the betterment of the horse industry. The average farmer raises only two or three foals per year and cannot therefore afford the ownership of a private stallion of the improved breeds.

Stock companies for the introduction of full-blood sires therefore are of imperative necessity. There are probably 20 farmers in every locality who are interested in breeding commercial horses and who could easily furnish work for a registered stallion and the expense of purchasing a choice sire would be divided among them the cost would not be burdensome. In organizing a stock company the object should be the improvement of the horses of the community, and the sires could be obtained if there were only at intervals an animal of some particular class. The buyer can afford to give more for a horse if there are others near by of the same class to make a local. Farriers can make no mistake in pooling some of their surplus capital in investments of pure-blood sires to improve the live stock industry of their community.

It is well to caution farmers against being misled by professional horsemen and promoters, who bring fancy horses into the state and work up sales at most exorbitant prices. The best imported stallions should not cost more than $2,000 to $3,000. They can be imported direct for these prices. When therefore a big fat horse is brought into the county and sold for $2,000 or $3,000, it is downright robbery.

selling remarks were made by Prest. James E. Steele, Bishop Heber Austin, Bishop C. W. Rockwood, Geo. P. Ward and Israel Anderson, all bearing testimony of the good character of the deceased. The young man was 22 years old and had been married only four months. He was a member of the Lincoln ward. The services were presided over by Bishop Austin. Owing to the large number desiring to attend the funeral it was deemed best to hold the services at home, where there were ample accommodations for all.

That part of your income which is spent at stores probably represents the "lion's share." If you invested as much in stocks, as you spend at stores in course of a year, you would read and study the stock market every day. Why not read the store-ads, with the same care and attention?

HARD ON THE HOST.

William W. Russell, the new Minister to Venezuela, was being congratulated on his appointment. "Thank you," said Mr. Russell, "I appreciate your good wishes, and I will try to do well in my new place."

"In new places," he went on, "we all, with hard work, may do well. Now and then, before unexpected and unprepared crises, we may err, but there is no need for us to err greatly—to err, for instance, as did the new waitress of a friend of mine."

"This waitress was willing but inexperienced. The first day she prospered. The second day, having developed a good deal of faith in her, my friend gave a dinner party, and there she committed a tremendous blunder."

"She was, it seems, a little short of forks. After each course she should have taken the silver forks and laid and dried them in the pantry in a pan of hot water prepared for that purpose."

"But, alas, instead of adopting any such method as that, the waitress, as she removed the plates after the fish course, said to the assembled guests in a loud, authoritative voice:
"All keep yer forks."

Cotton Conspirators' Profits.

New York, Oct. 13.—The profits of the alleged conspirators in the operations based on the recent leak in the government cotton crop reports are placed at approximately $200,000, according to an indictment presented in court today on the arraignment before United States Commissioner Highway of Frederick A. Peckham and Moses Holmes, Jr., left for the indictment against Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., assistant statistician of the department of agriculture, received $25,000.

The indictment which was found by a grand jury in Washington on Oct. 3, charged Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., as well as against Peckham and Peckham, and charges the three collectively with having conspired to defraud by procuring advance information from Holmes concerning the government's cotton crop reports.

It sets forth in full many copies of telegrams and also of checks which passed between the accused, tending to show that conspiracy existed.

One of the checks dated Dec. 12, 1904, drawn on the Second National bank of Hoboken, and signed by Lewis C. Van Riper, calls for the payment of $24,500 to M. Holmes, of which sum it is charged Holmes paid Holmes $14,250 in cash. Many other minor checks for sums ranging from $100 to $500 are set forth in the indictment, in addition to another check signed by Van Riper and payable to Holmes on the same bank for $38,392, dated Dec. 31, 1904. Of this sum it is claimed Holmes got $10,767.

Counsel for the defense today moved for the discharge of the prisoners on the ground that the charges against them did not constitute an offense against the government. The hearing on the motion was adjourned until Oct. 21.

POWER AND POSITION

Should Be the Theme, Says Hall Caine, of the Great American Novel.

"When the great American Novel comes it must deal with power and position as well as wealth," said Hall Caine in a speech at the Union Club last week.

Is it to be written by a man or a woman? Or has the long-expected-for book already appeared in a woman's novel? Judging from the critical comments, Octave Thanet's new book, "The Man of the Hour," has all of Hall Caine's requirements. The Boston Herald says: "Not only distinctly an American novel, but decidedly the American novel of the year." The San Francisco Bulletin says: "The most talked about and the most thought about novel of the year." The Chicago Record-Herald says: "The Man of the Hour" is distinctly an American novel and an engrossing love story." The Philadelphia Public Ledger says: "In every way a notable book, timely in theme and powerful in execution."
