

TAFT'S ATTITUDE TOWARD LABOR

President Advises All Working
Men in Interest of Prosperity,
To Support Him.

HAS SHOWN FAITH BY DEEDS

Mr. Roosevelt Has No Doubt That
Bryan's Election Would Mean
Industrial Chaos.

Washington, Oct. 25.—In response to a letter from P. H. Grace of Birmingham, N. Y., a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, inquiring about Mr. Taft's record in respect to injunctions and labor matters in general, President Roosevelt has written to Mr. Grace, reviewing Mr. Taft's attitude toward labor and explaining the work of the administration toward amelioration of industrial conditions. The president, after expressing pride in the fact that he is an honorary member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, says, in part:

PRESIDENT'S LETTER.

"Throughout my whole term as president, I have devoted myself with especial interest to the questions affecting labor. The lasting prosperity of this country rests upon the welfare of the wage-worker and the welfare of the tiller of the soil. No consideration of party fealty or personal friendship would induce me to advise either farmer or workman to do anything that was not for his permanent benefit. With this fact keenly before me, I earnestly advise all workmen, in their own interest as workmen, but above all as American citizens concerned in the honor and the prosperity of this great, free republic, to support Mr. Taft for president; just as I advise all farmers, business men and men of the professions.

TAFT AS LABOR'S FRIEND.

"I do not believe the wage-workers of this country have ever had a better friend in the White House than Mr. Taft will prove to be. He has already shown his faith by his deeds. In the matter of the injunctions he issued, he was absolutely right, and the principles he laid down in those injunctions have since been accepted by every worthy leader of labor, and are embodied in the principles and practices of all the railroad brotherhoods at the present day. The abuses of injunction have been fearlessly exposed and attacked by Mr. Taft. Let me give you an example of what he has done:

"A year or so ago the editor of the paper specially devoted to the Iron Molders' union called me to say that a decree had been entered in the United States circuit court at Milwaukee in the summer of 1906, which he regarded as grossly unjust and improper and as practically fatal to trade unionism. The case was that of the Iron Molders' union against the Allis-Chalmers company of Milwaukee. The members of the union, having made certain demands for the betterment of their conditions of service, which were refused, went on a strike, and an injunction suit followed in the United States circuit court. The late employees were enjoined from alleged illegal interference. The final decree was of the most drastic and far-reaching character, and besides enjoining the late employees from doing acts which were clearly illegal, it also enjoined them from any form of picketing, from inducing employees to leave the service of the Allis-Chalmers company by persuasion or otherwise, and from any kind of interference with the company direct or indirect.

"So sweeping were the terms of this injunction that it practically forbade the union from making any effort, no matter how peaceful and proper, to maintain its position in this trade dispute. The editor of the Iron Molders' Journal, Mr. J. P. Fry, brought the case before me, stating that the union did not know what to do; that its funds were limited; that he felt that they were suffering from a gross injustice which they were powerless to remedy. I called in Mr. Taft and asked Mr. Fry to lay the case before him, as, of course, Mr. Taft was more competent than I was to express his judgment as to the legality and propriety of the action taken.

TAFT VERY INDIGNANT.

"Mr. Taft satisfied himself of the facts and at once became exceedingly indignant at such an injunction having been issued. He stated that in his opinion the position taken by the court in issuing the injunction was clearly untenable, and what was needed was that the union should get some first-class lawyer to represent them and should bring the case before the highest courts. He suggested, in response to Mr. Fry's request, that the union retain Mr. F. N. Judson of St. Louis, who had represented the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in the Wabash case in 1893, and who, by the way, is the author of the review of the labor decisions of Judge Taft, published in the Review of Reviews in 1907. Mr. Taft explained that one of the troubles with unions was that they so often did not get the best type of counsel, so that their cases were not properly presented, and that in his judgment Mr. Judson would be sure to present his case right. He stated that the decision of the court ought certainly to be in their favor. The case was argued before the United States circuit court of appeals by Mr. Judson and Mr. Rubin of Milwaukee for the union, and by Mr. James M. Beck, counsel for the National Manufacturers' association, for the company.

TAFT'S WISDOM JUSTIFIED.

"The decision of the court was hand-

Acid and Alkali In the Stomach

Digest the Food Naturally If in Right Proportion; If Not:
Then Dyspepsia.

Acid and alkali make up the liquid known as gastric juice, which digests your food.

If through abuse of the stomach, or weakness of the stomach, or through scores of other causes this gastric juice is not made up correctly of acid and alkali, your stomach cannot digest food.

Such a stomach then acts as a pit where the food lies, ferments, decays, is thrown off at last, either into the intestines or is vomited from the system.

If thrown into the intestines a large proportion of it is taken up and passed into the blood, for the intestines are covered on the inside surfaces with millions of little mouths which are placed there to suck up nourishment for the blood.

You may readily see that if instead of good rich nourishment there is vile poisonous fermented bile and acid, these same little mouths suck some of it up by necessity and pass it into the blood.

The blood is immediately placed in an imperfect state. The blood is weakened, the tissues lose strength, the skin becomes diseased and man in general suffers in a score of places.

Then again the blood furnishes gastric juice to the stomach, for when the gastric juice is not needed for digestive purposes it goes back to the blood. When food comes into the stomach the nerves along the alimentary canal and in the stomach signal the brain for help and the blood immediately furnishes sufficient gastric juice to do the work well and quickly.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into the stomach, balance the gastric juices, digest the food, are taken up by the blood, purify it, and when the food comes again to the stomach natural gastric juice of right proportion greets it and does its work perfectly. After a time these little tablets restore Nature, build up the gastric juice and there is no longer dyspepsia.

Every druggist carries them in stock, price 50c; every druggist and 40,000 physicians will attest their work to the merit of these tablets. Buy a box now and relieve your stomach at once.

ed down in Chicago on the eighth day of this month, and it justifies Judge Taft's wisdom, for it sustains the most important contentions of the labor unions. The court holds that while under the facts of the case the company was entitled to some injunction relief, the decree went far beyond the proper limits. It struck out of the case all the provisions which prevented peaceful picketing or the exercise of the right of persuasion in inducing employees to join the strike, and also all reference to boycotting, on the ground that there was no boycott, as the members of the union had a right to refuse to handle "struck" work—that is, the work from a factory where they were on a strike—wherever they found it. The opinion is important especially in showing that much can now be accomplished in getting the courts to correct abuses against unions in the exercise of the power of injunctions if such abuses are in effective form brought to their attention, as, thanks to the advice of Judge Taft, they were brought to the attention of the court in this case.

The right of peaceful picketing and persuasion, so that employees may be induced to join them, is forcibly set forth in this opinion, and it bases its decision largely upon Judge Taft's decision and upon the decision in the Wabash injunction case, which itself was largely based upon Judge Taft's decision. Judge Taft's decision is declared by the court to have settled the law as to the substantial rights of the parties, leaving only the application of the principles so declared as new cases arise.

"The great importance of this opinion is that it corrects abuses that have crept into injunctions as well as the state courts. This decision goes far to protect the rights of workmen, and it does so because it is explicitly based upon the labor decisions of Judge Taft, and this decision was secured only in consequence of following the advice given by Judge Taft as to the proper course of procedure. A more important result could not be imagined of the zealous effort of a public servant, which Judge Taft then was, to secure justice for workmen to whom he thought the justice had been done, although the justice had been within his immediate control at the time. In this one instance Mr. Taft rendered to labor a great and signal service, a practical service, which shows the peculiarity of Mr. Taft's other services, for his services take the form of deeds rather than of mere words."

TAFT'S FAMOUS DECISION.

The president refers to the decision of Judge Taft in the famous personal injury case of Narramore against the Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis railroad, in which he held that an employee could not by any form of contract exempt a railroad company from the consequence of failure to obey the law right in this case being lack of provision for protection of employees required by law. These two cases, the president says, have a further importance in that it is remembered that the president soon to be chosen will presumably himself choose a majority of the justices of the supreme court during the next four years.

President Roosevelt then mentions existing among employees of the Panama canal, where, thanks to Mr. Taft and the care and supervision he has exercised, the men on the isthmus are better paid, better protected, better catered for than in any private industrial enterprise in the United States.

The president says that "opposed to the entire vagueness of Mr. Bryan's proposals," Mr. Taft stands pledged to the policy of the administration "of conserving the rights of the wage-earner." That policy is shown, he says, in the efforts put forth to settle the anthracite strike and the prevention last spring of a general reduction of wages on the railroads of the country. Continuing in comparison, the president says:

THE DANGER OF BRYAN.

"But if Mr. Bryan were elected I have little doubt that the ensuing industrial chaos, necessitating great reduction of wages and widespread unemployment, would be beyond the reach of such action as that which averted the threatened disaster last spring."

Answering the question himself as to why the national government through its bureau of labor has not done the reach of such action as that which averted the threatened disaster last spring."

"The time has not yet come when this was possible; we have advanced in each case just as fast and as far as was possible with the knowledge and means at our command. Between pure science or speculative theory and its practical application in the hands of a government lies, of necessity, a gap of years—years of patient investigation and experiment after truth. The whole principle of material and social advancement has come to a quicker fruition in our department of agriculture for the reason that biology is more easily handled with reference to seeds and plants and cattle than as regards men. It is our confident claim, however, that applied science, if carried out according to our program, will succeed in achieving for humanity, above all for the city industrial workers, results even surpassing in value those today in effect on the farm."

PRESIDENT'S PROPHECY.

The president concludes with the following advice and prophecy:

"Mr. Taft's election should be advocated by all who believe in making a far-reaching effort toward the betterment of our scheme of social and industrial life. It should also be advocated by all who wish an immediate advance in these social and industrial conditions."

"If Mr. Taft is not elected, a period of industrial chaos and business bad times will ensue in which the working men will suffer far more than any other class. They are the people who, more than any other, will pay the penalty. Because of their own material interests I believe they should support Mr. Taft; and, furthermore, I believe that they should support him because he has by his actions, over and over again, proved himself to be a singularly fearless and effective champion of the rights of labor; and above all, I feel that they should support him as good American citizens, because he embodies what is best and highest in our American citizenship."

Preparations have been under way for some time and a large force of snake keepers under the direction of Dr. Raymond T. Ditmars, curator of the snake house, have been searching for food for them in the shape of small water snakes, which are the favorite food of the most vicious of the big reptiles. The water snakes are caught along the shores of the Bronx river where they are induced by the cold weather to crawl into the underbrush at the edge of the water and go to sleep.

Strangely thrilled the large congregation heard the voice of the well known voice reproduced from a phonograph into which Mr. Sankey sang a number of his hymns a short time before he died. The hymns reproduced were "The Ninety and Nine," "Hiding in Thee," "There is no Dark Valley," and "Jesus of Nazareth is Passing By."

STANDARD OIL CO. LOSING GROUND IN EUROPE

New York, Oct. 26.—On a visit made for the purpose of investigating conditions and methods in the American oil trade, Dr. Paul Devorkovitz, editor of the Petroleum Review of London, arrived here yesterday on the steamer America. His visit is made as a representative of the European oil interests.

"The Standard Oil company is losing ground in the European field," he said. "To a very great extent this is the result of the decrease in the cost of transportation from the European oil fields to this market. For instance, there is now a very cheap rate from the Roumanian fields to the market."

Dr. Devorkovitz is greatly interested in the question of fuel for transportation and every day during the run of the America, he donned overalls and descended into the stoke hole. "With the burning of oil as fuel on the America the engine room force could be reduced one fourth," said Dr. Devorkovitz. The furnaces consumed about 40 tons of coal every hour to attain speed averaging 17-2 knots. With oil fuel there would be consumed the equivalent of 25 or 28 tons an hour, and the vessel would attain a speed of about 19 knots."

"Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years."—Mrs. L. Whiteacre, Buffalo, N. Y.
