

LIGHTING TO BE FEATURE AT FAIR

Directors of Empire Exposition Plan to Turn Night Into Day.

SEARCHLIGHT FOR RACES.

Force of Men at Work on Grounds—Roads to be Built and Hardened Before Fall Meet.

The directors of the State Fair association are planning to make a distinct feature of the lighting of the Inland Empire exposition, which will be held in October. "We are going to turn night into day down there this year," said Secy. Ensign this morning, "and the night at the opening of the fair this year will be worth a visit in the evening just to see the lighting of the grounds."

Among the features this year will be the improved lighting of the race track, which was lighted last year by hydrocarbon lights, the searchlight being used to show the horses as they went round the course. The searchlight will also be used to apparently increase the speed of the horses as it is made to follow them around the course, will be used this year, but an extensive system of electric lights will also be used to light the entire track, making the evening races one of the best features of the fair. The intervals between the races will be filled in by the usual vaudeville shows on a stage in front of the grand stand.

It is proposed also to outline the main building in incandescent electric lights, and to have all the principal avenues and drive ways in the grounds lighted with strings of electric lamps, which will make the outside almost as light as day.

AT WORK ON GROUNDS.

A small force of men is already engaged this week cleaning up the grounds, and the secretary has arranged with one of the railroads for several cars of lumber, and the Utah Light & Railway company will probably haul three or four trains of gravel to the grounds, with which the roads inside will be laid. A steam roller will also be used to level the gravelled roads, after which little inconvenience is anticipated if the usual October storm reaches the city during fair time.

BINGHAM ELECTRICIAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

BINGHAM, Aug. 19.—Casper Scog came near being electrocuted Tuesday through handling a live wire of the Telluride cable carrying 400 volts. He was taken to his home, where he received medical aid. At last account he had rallied from the shock and will suffer no permanent injury.

William P. Mahoney, who was entombed for four hours yesterday afternoon under a vast quantity of rock and earth in the storeroom office of the Yampa smelter, caused by a cloudburst in the rear of the smelter, recovered consciousness during the night with the chances for complete recovery strongly in his favor. One of his legs is quite badly bruised, but no bones are broken. He was taken to the Keogh-Hammond hospital in Salt Lake this morning.

PROSPEROUS BEAR LAKE.

Deputy Marshal Julian Riley Says Valley is in Excellent Condition.

With glowing accounts of the agricultural conditions around Laketown, at the extreme south end of Bear Lake, Deputy Marshal Julian Riley returned last evening after serving papers on Aquilla Nebeker in connection with the suit of H. R. Kline. The case is one in equity, involving some stock in a Mexican land company, and will come up before the United States circuit court in this city in October.

Deputy Riley went out to Mr. Nebeker's residence near Laketown via Evanston, the ride from the latter place to Laketown, a distance of 42 miles, disclosing some of the best hay land in the country. The natural grass is said to cover the hills to the height of more than two feet, and the cattle everywhere are as fat as they can be. Everybody seems to be prospering in that section, and conditions are ever better, Mr. Riley says, in the history of the country.

KRUTSCHNITT HERE MONDAY.

Julius Kruttschnitt, the operating head of the Harriman lines, with headquarters in Chicago, will be in Salt Lake Monday for a few hours en route east from a vacation trip with his family to the Pacific coast. When Mr. Kruttschnitt went west a few weeks ago, his route was via Granger and Pocatello over the Short Line. He now returns over the Southern Pacific.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—There are but few actors traveling who can fill a house in Salt Lake in the midst of the summer torridity, but Dustin Farnum is one of the few. Last night's handsome turn-out gave him the old tumultuous greetings, and he was forced to respond with the usual speech. The evening was full of interest to the big section of Salt Lake's theatergoers which keeps posted on theatrical affairs in the east. It was the first rendition here of Booth Tarkington's play "Cameo Kirby," which many were aware had been tried by Nat Goodwin and found unsuitable to his style; the prevailing impression, after witnessing it, is that Mr. Goodwin might have attempted Rome with equal propriety. It was the first time also that Mr. Farnum's friends here had ever seen him in any other garb than that of the cowboy. In the case too, was that prime old veteran, McKee Rankin, while the leading lady was the charming California actress, May Buckley, whose name is allied with many recent successes.

"Cameo Kirby" is a delightful romance which in treatment, intensity and atmosphere recalls the best traditions of the good old standard dramas. It has a suggestion of both "The Octoroon" and "Alabama" in the faithful pictures of southern life it presents, and its plot is of the human, pulsating kind that keeps an audience in suspense from beginning to end. It is written on the almost forgotten lines of romance which Booth Tarkington has so successfully re-created, and in the central part of the Mississippi river gambler, upon whose adventurous life a pure, high minded girl wrought such a change, Mr. Farnum has a role beautifully suited to his style. His reading was specially delightful, and his handsome appearance in the costume of 80 years ago was most picturesque, while in the love episodes, he was as fetching as he has ever been. He had some rare curtain calls and in the embarrased manner which the audience evidently enjoyed as much as when he is acting, he expressed his appreciation of the welcome the company and play had received in spite of the weather, and spoke of the inconvenience of acting in a costume which called for shirt frills after having been accustomed so long to cowboy clothes. Equally warm was the welcome bestowed on McKee Rankin, whose career, reaching back to the Nance O'Neill triumphs, to the year 1870, when he played on the same boards with the old stock company in a round of plays—many in the audience were familiar with. In the part of the assistant gambler, last night, Mr. Rankin had a part whose native "fatness" was doubled by his own rare powers as a comedian.

Miss Buckley was all that is charming and winsome in her role, and the remainder of the cast was in capable hands, even though the "Tom" allowed his passions to absolutely choke his utterance. Young Galaher is one of the best boy actors our stage has known. The delightful costumes and the charming scenery were special features, rendered by the darkies, and the themes in the orchestra, to say nothing of Mr. Farnum's unexpected burst into song, all added to the charm of the general effect.

The bill runs out the end of the week, and will undoubtedly play to crowded houses.

Orpheum—The third week of the new season now drawing to a close is a successful one, and a heavy matinee is looked for tomorrow.

Colonial—"Corlanton" winds up its engagement tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Bungalow—After tomorrow's performance of "The New Magdalen," Miss Cleveland will take her company on the road for a tour of several weeks.

UTAH APEX MAKES REPORT.

Shows Profits of the Company Were $120,000 for Eleven Months.

Treasurer John W. Horn of the Utah Apex mining company of Bingham, has just released a report in the east on the earnings of the company for the past eleven months, ending July 31, 1909. During that time the company mined and shipped $325,000 worth of ore, amounting to 32,000 tons. Of this amount 9,000 tons, containing 2,000 tons of copper, were concentrated ore, which made 6,500 tons of concentrates. The profit to the company after deducting all mine expenses was $120,000.

The report says that this could have been increased to $25,000 more if the contract proposed by the American Smelting and Refining company had been accepted. The company refused to agree to the terms as it bound them until 1915, while the present contract expires Aug. 15, 1910. It is contended that A. J. Bettles of the Newhouse staff, Arthur Pearce of London, England, and E. P. Jennings of Salt Lake City, all well known milling authorities, are of the opinion that a saving of $3,000 a month can be made by a change in the milling and increasing the tonnage.

On August 1, the Phoenix mill was turned over to the general engineering works at the new mill is expected to be in operation in six or eight weeks. It will handle 250 tons. By the first of the year the capacity will be increased to 400 tons.

PITTS REPLIES TO ANSWER.

Says His Charge Was True—Opposes Alimony Claims.

Harry E. Pitts in a reply to the answer and counter claim of his wife Lizzie for divorce in the suit which he filed some time ago, denies any cruelty toward her. He admits, however, that he did come home slightly intoxicated on June 15 last and accused her of infidelity, but asserts that his statements were true though they were not nearly as strong as she says he made them, for he only mentioned one man and not three. He also denies that he used vile and obscene language or that such language was used by his mother toward his wife. He further opposes her application for temporary alimony.

INTERSTATE CORPORATIONS

President Discusses Question of More Centralized Control of Them With Attorney-General Wickersham.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 20.—After wrestling with the "Col. Bogey," all morning on the golf links of the Myopia club, President Taft this morning tackled the serious work of discussing with Atty.-Gen. Wickersham the problem of a more centralized control of interstate corporations.

The changes in the Sherman anti-trust law, the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and in the scope of authority vested in the bureau of corporations of the department of commerce and labor, will form the bulk of President Taft's first message to a session of Congress next December.

The president granted an audience today to Senor de la Barra, the Mexican ambassador, at Washington. The object of the diplomat's visit, it was said, was to talk over details of President Taft's meeting with President Diaz of Mexico at El Paso, Oct. 10 next. It is probable that he has decided that President Taft will call upon President Diaz at El Paso, and that later that day President Taft will enter Mexican territory to return the visit at Ciudad Juarez, across the Rio Grande river. The widening of the combined influence of the United States and Mexico over the little republics of Central America also entered into today's discussion.

J. W. HUNT'S AFFINITY.

Wife No. 2 is Deserted and is Recipient of a Note of Explanation.

The Pueblo papers state that J. W. Hunt, formerly a resident of this city, and of late postmaster at Pueblo, has taken "French leave" with an affinity, abandoning his wife to whom he has been married for seven years. It is said that this is Hunt's second performance in that line, he having deserted his first wife and two children for No. 2. He left the latter the following note:

Dear Madame: I return you the bank book. There is $200 on deposit. Pay the board to Mrs. Merrill, which is $40. This will leave $160. I will never live with you again. I have gone with one who can make me happy. Your deserver, J. W. H.

TO INSTALL BLOCK SYSTEM.
