Aside from the success of the fair from an exhibition, financial and reputation standpoint the fruits of the labor of the directors of the Deseret Agricultural & Manufacturing Society are about to be harvested in the form of an organization of the manufacturers of Utah with the object in view of pushing Utah goods, increasing the number, scope and output of various industries, the protection of individual enterprises, the regulation of freight rates, the lessening of the amount of money sent out of the state every year for commodities that could be made right in Utah, and the boosting of Utah generally.

The matter was discussed informally in the manufacturer's building at the fair last evening and crystallized this morning with the circulation of a petition which has been signed today by all manufacturers showing at the fair.

A call for a meeting to discuss ways and means and a general plan of campaign will issue in a few days and it is believed that the home industry movement will start forward with a whoop and a singing right away.

OBJECT OF MOVEMENT.

In discussing the proposition this morning Mr. Hewitt, who is one of the prime movers in the scheme said: "We need a Manufacturers' association in Utah. There is union there in strength. Now take the Richmond Creamery Co., for instance, few people here know that there was such an institution in Cache Valley that paid out $18,000 a month in wages and among the farmers, until they saw the exhibit in Utah. There are dozens of such corporations in Utah. There is a notable exhibit here also and people are sending word after word and other things when they get better articles made right here in Utah. The trouble is the small concern, the one that makes a specialty of one thing, does not have the capital to advertise. We believe if we are united we can help each other out. Now here is a man down in Fairview who makes good incubators as well as wants to use. Who ever heard of him? I never did until I saw his exhibit, and that is the way it goes. We think the association should have a label which guarantees that all goods are up to standard, and that all advertise on association goods in papers and half pages in the press; when we have a legal or labor trouble we will look after the business, and we will look after expenses that come heavy on the individual firm. United manufacturers of Utah can stand shoulder to shoulder with the Commercial club, the Farmers' and Business association and other business organizations and be a power to be dealt with in the matter of any unjust freight rates. The association can make itself felt. Then, too, the United Utah industries and draw attention to Utah as the field for the eastern capitalist to erect factories."

ALL FAVOR IT.

All those manufacturers seen today expressed themselves in similar terms and all were enthusiastic regarding the movement which has as its object the building up of Utah and the keeping of money at home.

Aside from this topic this morning the chief feature of comment was the early arrival of conference visitors. This morning the largest morning crowd was in evidence, 60 per cent of them being residents from outlying districts.

THE BABY SHOW.

The moral and physical support of all good citizens of this commonwealth are solicited this afternoon on behalf of the judges of the baby show. Three medals are offered and will be awarded to the three alleged best babies on the ever held. It goes without saying that a host of indulgent mothers following the announcement. Numerous dotting mothers and proud parents of twins prize have movement which has been greatly charge that they have a grievance as to double events, while there are a few triplets throughout the state who have been barred from even a look-in. The best of the United Order of Anti-Rascals is the Utah home industry has been overlooked. To quote the ladies in papers saying all kinds of nice things about the fat boys and woolly sheep, and not a word about women's work.

In trying to soothe the ruffled feelings of some proprietors of "Herds not of less than two years old" one of the officials tactfully started this afternoon that parents of twins and triplets enter their exhibits in bunches thereby taking a two or three to one

POTLUY SHOW.

The poultry department occupied this year the building which was given up to the fruit displays last year. The exhibit was dark and dismal then, but this season it is brightly lit, thoroughly whitewashed and cleaned up, and is bright enough to suit anybody. The exhibit is considered by Supervisor J. W. Foster as the best poultry exhibit ever shown in Utah. There are 335 entries, comprising 709 chickens, turkeys, pigeons, geese—the chickens including 50 varieties of the latter making the best showing ever made in Utah. Leghorns, barred and white Plymouth Rocks, white Wyandottes and Brahmas. The weights of the chickens run up to 12 pounds, and the turkeys run higher. The pigeons make a notable showing, and the Belgian hares are fine looking animals. There is much less egg stealing than last year, when the best showing ever made in Utah was stolen. There is less exhibiting of incubators, but what there is exhibited is fair. The supervisor reports a much greater interest in this feature of the fair than has ever been noted hitherto.

DISPLAY OF FISH.

The display of fish from the state has also been regarded as the best ever better than last seasons. There is the same number of tanks as previously, but the number of fish is much greater. There are 300 big fish and 2,000 little ones and as the tanks are on the entrance side of the building nearest the gate, the visitors make for that exhibit the first thing. The tanks number 20 containing 25 varieties of fish, including Rainbow trout, German brown trout, Native Mountain trout, Grayling trout, Eastern Brook trout, Mountain Herring, Landlocked salmon, Big Mouthed Mountain trout, Gold fish, Crappie, rock bass, Sunfish, Suckers, Mullet, Chubs, German Carp, Salamanders and frogs.
