The Richest Man in Mexico. The richest man in Mexico is Pedro Alvarado, of Paral, State of Chihua-hua, who six years ago was a poor peon, but whose fortune is estimated at $150,000 000. He is only thirty-two years old. Alvarado's great wealth two years old. Alvarado's great wealth has been extracted from a wonderful sliver mine which he discovered and has been working, and which appears to be inexhaustible. He has been spending money most extravagantly. He has built a working palace, which is magnificently furnished and which has a plane in every room while there are a plano in every room, while there are 10,000 singing bir's, of whose music the proprietor is very fond. The Mexican Croesus has offered to pay the entire national debt of his country. He entire national debt of his country. He is liberal in his charitable gifts and is greatly beloved by the poor. Lately he decided to travel in state from his home to the City of Mexico. Alvarado is described as honest and conscientious, and also as devout, having built a cathrdeal at his own expense.

REALTY TRANSFERS EXCEED $9,000,000 FOR CURRENT YEAR.

current year, were given an immense emphasis by the Newhouse purchases, the last day in November, amounting to $1,000,000, in round numbers; the parcels including seven-eighths of the south half of the block bounded by Main and State, and Third and Fourth South streets, also, the Walker corner diagonally across Main street from the Kimball residence, the northwest corner of the same street intersection, and the southwest corner of State and Fourth South streets. The deal has overshadowed everything else in the real estate line this year, and runs the sum total up to respectable figures. It is proving of great moment to this city, as the attention of the country is especially called in this direction, and eastern capitalists are thus given to understand that it is as safe to invest in Salt Lake as in any other city of the country, whether the Tribune thinks so or not. This move of Mr. Newhouse's is but the forerunner of a building era which is evidently about to set in, for as he says, this city is the natural center of all the mining country of this intermountain region, and is bound to develop. So real estate men are in most excellent spirits, and look for a remarkable year in and look for a remarkable year in

Following is a schedule of about 100 realty transfers of $10,000 and over, made during the current year, to date, and aggregating over $2,400,000, a strong straw as showing the steadily increasing movement of Salt Lake realty. Local dealers figure that for every sale involving $10,000 and over, there are 100 sales for lesser amounts, and that the total of the year's sales and that the total of the year's sales will run up to over $9,00,000.

This will make of the current 12 months one of the most important years since the boom. As an instance of the way real estate was raising then, it will do to state that the sales for March, 1890, numbered 1997, and their aggregate amounted. 1,297, and their aggregate amounted to $5,185,522. During the previous year of 1889, the sales amounted to year of 1889, the sales amounted to 6,870, and the aggregate for the year was $15,115,457. It may be some years before this figure is surpassed, or even equalled. The excitement then was unhealthy; it was a bubble, and finally burst, with the customary re-sult. But the movement this year has been healthy and steady, without any of the unstable features that characterized it years ago, and there is nothing to indicate that the bubble will again be sprung on this com-

The conditions of the year have been marked by a speculative phase, buying to sell as soon as a rise ocourred in the market, and buying more for steady investment of capi-tal, and for homes. This last feature is now becoming more prominent. The last of this year has been characterized by its predominence, and the pros-pects are that in the spring there will ed by its predominence, and the prospects are that in the spring there will be a record breaking movement in the way of home building. It pays for a man to own his own home, as has been made manifest this last fall by the spectacle of tenants being dispossessed through the sale of the houses they occupied, with the chances of being compelled to move again at an early day, or as soon as the houses moved into were sold. Some landlords, however, were considerate enough to tell their tenants that if they sold them out they would rebate a month's rental. This will, of course, stimulate people into raising means with which to purchase their own abiding places where they will feel secure from the activity of real estate changes, and next spring hundreds of new mcderate sized homes will surely be started.

The real estate transfers for the and more marked tendency to build for manufacturing and industrial pur-poses in the west and northwest sections, with the more central for gen-eral business and commercial purl business and commercial pur-es, and the east and south sides for residences. The southeastern section of the city is being rapidly built up with small but comfortable and cosy homes, and the extension of the street car system is materially aiding in helping this movement along. Thus streets which a few years ago, bor-dered open pastures, are now all built up with houses. Real estate dealers predict that next year, there will be also much building for business pur-have greater interest, from whatever point of view, that the rise and development of the mighty industrial enterprises upon which the prosperity of the country is now so largely dependent. And particularly is this true of the great engineering companies, whose work has been and alvays will remain constructive in its characternot the accumulation of huge fortunes, based upon speculative enterprises or the acquirement of monopolistic privfleges in aready well tilled fields, but a reaching out into the unknown and laying hold upon the forces of nature to yoke and control them for the use of man. The people of Milwaukee may well take pride in the fact that such is the character of the work done by the Allis Chalmers company of this city, whose creative and productive caracity is acknowledged today as among the foremost in the world.

OCCUPYING ELECTRICAL FIELD. When Allis-Chalmers company entered the electrical field, this was divided between two large companies through an agreement which practically eliminated all real competition. In Cincinnati, however, there was a smaller concern, known as the Bullock Electric company, which, while restricted as to its output and sales by driving arparatus of all kinds, in sizes ranging from the smallest to the largest, and through installations in this country and abroad, and acquired a reputation for the most skillfully designed and carefully constructed ma-chivery on the market. This admirably equipped plant the Allis-Chalmers com-pany purchased and greatly enlarged, and soon developed facilities for the manufacture and sale of electrical machinery second to none in the world.
The meaning of this becomes clear when one realizes that Allis-Chalmers company also builds every type of prime mover—steam turbines, recipro-

They are installed the size of the size o and 6,000. They are installed in every quarter of the globe. In the most im-portant power plants the engines are of this build; Greater New York has the four largest power stations America. They are all equipped with Allis-Chalmers engines, as follows:

The New York City Railway company, formerly the Metropolitan, operating every surface car in New York city, has at its Ninety-sixth street power house 11 engines, aggregating about 61,000-horsepower at the minimum rating.

The Interborough Rapid Transit company has 17 engines, aggregating more than 200,000 horsepower, nine of which are in its Fifth-eighth street power

MACHINERY FOR MINING AND CEMENT INDUSTRIES.

From Alaska to Cape Horn, from Maine to California, and in many countries in Europe, the mining machinery of this company is acknowledged the standard of excellence. It is gratifying to know that the Sait Lake branch is equipped to furnish full information and estimates for complete plants, and this company has here a large stock of standard machinery at its store in the city.
