BLUE RIBBON MEET IN ENGLISH SPORT

Final Tie for Cup Played on Enclosure at Crystal Palace.

ROCKER BALL AT ITS BEST.

Achievements Across the Water Suggest Possibilities of Game Struggling for Existence in Salt Lake.

On Saturday, April 21, the final tie for the possession of the English association cup (the blue ribbon of the football world) was played on the famous enclosure at the Crystal Palace, London, before an immense concourse of spectators. The finalists were Everton vs. Newcastle United. The latter team figured in the final last season, but was defeated by the Birmingham crabs (Aston Villa), noted cup fighters. Everton had figured in the final on two occasions previous to this year, viz., 1893, Fallowfield Manchester, when they succumbed to Wolverton by 1 to 0, and at the Crystal Palace in 1897, when Aston Villa (then in the zenith of their fame) defeated the Evertonians by three goals to two, after one of the most glorious displays ever given on a football field. That season the Villa team covered itself with glory by capturing the cup, and the league championship also, a feat only previously accomplished by the famous Preston North End, the incomparable nonpareils of football when in the climax of their career. As the saying goes, the third time pays for all, and after some heroic struggles during the last 25 years, the Everton boys have at last succeeded in bringing the English cup to Liverpool.

LONDON FLOODED WITH MEN.

London was flooded with north country men on the cup day, excursions from the far north arriving in the metropolitan terminals as early as 2:30 a. m. From then on the five terminals (northern lines), namely, Euston, St. Pancras, Kings Cross, Marylebone, Paddington, were centers of boundless activity, as in these stations, in addition to the ordinary heavy traffic, fully 115 heavily laden specials arrived, mostly from Lancashire and the northern counties, and London for the time being was captured by grim colliers and cotton weavers from Lancashire, artisans from the heavy woolen district of Yorkshire, colliers, iron workers, foundry men and shipwrights from Northumberland and Durham, all dressed in their Sunday best. Strange men and speaking a broad, strange dialect nearly incomprehensible to the London "cockneys," but one and all good sports from hair to toes.

THE GAME.

Punctually at 3:25 the Everton team in its blue shirts and white knickers, appeared on the field. Cheered to the echo, while before the cheers had subsided the Newcastle team in its black and white striped shirts and white knickers, appeared on the scene, and met with an equally vociferous reception. Punctually at 3:30, Veitch, the Newcastle center, passing the ball in motion, and the great contest for the blue ribbon of the football world was on. It took several minutes for the players to get their football legs, and the contest was not really begun until the Everton forwards made tracks for the Newcastle goal, but the latter defense was equal to all the demands made of it. From a lonely center from near the corner flag by Sharp (the Everton outside right), Young, the center, headed over the bar. For fully 20 minutes Everton continued to press the Newcastle forwards, failing to pass the half way line. At last the Newcastle forwards got going in good fashion, and after some splendid passing, succeeded in beating the backs and Rutherford, one of the finest inside forwards, on Bribain, sent in a magnificent shot from a difficult position at angle, but Scott, the Everton custodian, dived himself with glory in bringing off an even more magnificent save.

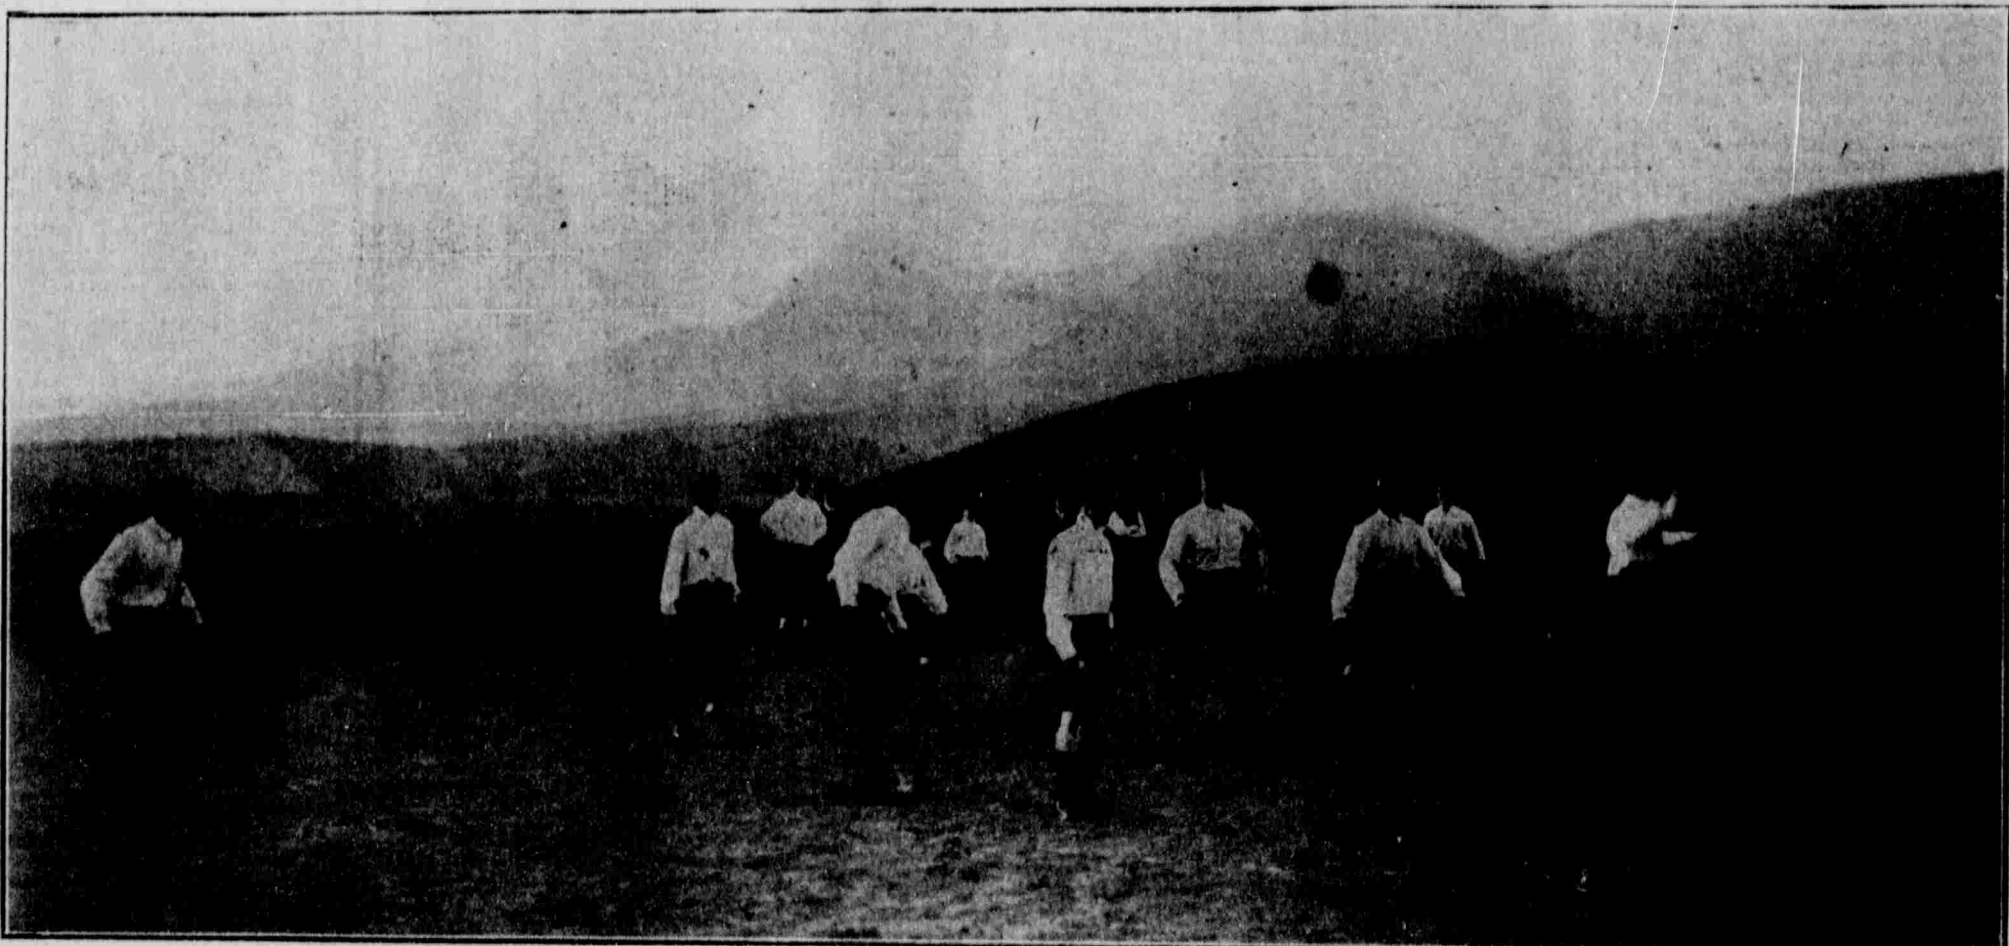

Play is time slackened a little and the interval arrived with no goals scored. After 10 minutes interval the play was restarted by the Everton center, and the Blues had the best of matters for a long time and could do anything but score. After 20 minutes play Young netted the ball for Everton, but was ruled off side by the referee. Nothing daunted, the Evertonians kept up the attack and literally bombarded the Newcastle citadel, but still no goals, and after every narrow miss at goal the crowd gave one huge howl of disappointment. Then Newcastle broke away and the new game was on, but the defense is impregnable.

With only ten minutes to go and still no goals, with visions of a replay looming, the Everton forwards beat down the field in splendid array, the passing and repassing being sublime. Sharp on the extreme left gets a lively pass, doubles past and beats the opposing half, draws the opposing left back on to him, and in the opportune moment centers the ball from near the corner flag right slap into the mouth of the goal. Young, the center, was there in the nick of time to receive it, and he instantly headed into goal, the Newcastle custodian not having an earthly chance to save.

SALT LAKE ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL TEAM IN ACTION.

As It Will Look When It Meets the Eureka Team in Its Finals in This City on Saturday Next, One Week Hence.

Sutton Picked to Win Tourney.

CHICAGO.—What new system has George Sutton acquired that made him such a formidable candidate in the recent international billiard tournament at Madison Square Garden? That he has acquired a new system while playing in the Paris academies during the last two years is the opinion of all the critics who watched the New York games.

Tom Foley returned from watching the games last week deeply impressed with Sutton's style. He picks Sutton to win the present billiard tourney in this city.

"There is no doubt that he is the most dangerous billiard player any of the masters has to face," he said. "He has acquired some system that is unusually effective. I noticed his work particularly, and the thing that impressed me most was that he seldom or never drives up or down the table."

"In his run of 234 there were only two long drives. How he manages this I do not exactly know. He changes some particular shot so that it is not necessary. I think Sutton will have to be accounted one of the very best players in the world from now on. His ability was greatly underestimated previous to this tournament, as was shown in the odds quoted on him in the press."

Of the other players, all about lived up to their previous reputations except Cure, Mr. Foley declared.

"The Frenchman was a big disappointment," he said. "He approached the table with an air of recklessness and played with the most pronounced abandon. He is a marvelous executer, but not a winner."

"Hoppe played about like students of the game thought he would, but he disappointed his New York friends, who entertained the most foolish ideas about his prowess. Those people actually thought him unbeatable, although what they had to base their opinion on I do not know. He showed great billiards in his game with Schaefer. He was sewed up repeatedly and got out cleverly, showing that he is a resourceful player. But, like all boys of his age, he lacks steadiness."

Schaefer, Slosson and Hoppe played about alike. Slosson has changed his style in the last two years, and he would hardly be recognized as the student of former years. I could not see that his style was any different from that of Schaefer or Hoppe. Perhaps Hoppe and Slosson were given to driving a little more than the wizard. Jake would make about eight in the open table without driving, while Hoppe and Slosson would make perhaps six. The most wonderful thing about Slosson's work is that a man of his age should be so steady and have so much endurance. He was playing billiards before any of the others."

The average of the tournament was 17.74.

FIRE IN EYE.

Michigan Very Sore Over Cancellation of Chicago Game.

Regarding the report that Chicago has canceled the football game with Michigan for next fall, there is little to be said, unless it is that Michigan is not troubled with "cold feet." Manager Bird stated when the football reform was started last winter that he had a contract with Chicago and would hold them to it.

But now that Michigan has a Pennsylvania date it is not likely that there will be any disturbance. Mr. Bird will not return from the east until tomorrow, but Judge Lane and Prof. McMurrick, who are members of the athletic board of control, stated last night that Michigan would probably release Chicago if the latter wishes it.

The football players regret it more than anybody else, as they wanted a chance to wipe out that "2 to 0" score of last fall.

Nelson-Herrera Battle to Take Place As Per Original Schedule.

SENTIMENT FAVORS THE DANE

Earthquake and Fire, and the Death of Jimmy Britt's Sister, Change Flight Situation at Los Angeles.

There will be no fiesta week at Los Angeles. Earthquake and fire, and the death of Jimmy Britt's sister, have changed the flight situation at Los Angeles entirely.

The Neil-Attell contest is off, as the former has gone to Chicago.

Jimmy Britt has notified Manager McCarrey that he will meet Hersey later.

The big fight, Nelson and Herrera, Los Angeles, meet as per original schedule, on May 23, fiesta or no fiesta. Manager McCarrey says he will lose about $25,000 by reason of the little shake-up. But he won't. He has, in all probability, made arrangements with Nelson and Herrera for the fighters to fight all about town, and he will have the most likely agreed to take place on the gate, which is sure to be big.

BOTH ARE IN TRAINING.

At any rate the pair are in training and will be in the fettle for a long battle. Sentiment favors Nelson because of his previous victory over the Dane, and Nelson will have it all. Since his last meeting with Jimmy Britt, he has been working hard for this bout, and would give his eyes to beat Nelson. The Dane will have a hard job on his hands, as it is generally believed that he will take care of Mr. Herrera and have his measure before the end of the journey.

THE DANE LOOKS GOOD.

It will be Herrera's aim to connect a few of his terrible wallop with the Dane's jaw, and Nelson will have it all. Since his last meeting with Jimmy Britt, he has been working hard for this bout, and would give his eyes to beat Nelson. The Dane will have a hard job on his hands, as it is generally believed that he will take care of Mr. Herrera and have his measure before the end of the journey.

ABOUT "YOUNG CORBETT."

Malachy Hogan, the Chicago critic, has the following to say about "Young Corbett":

Prospects for the future of the sport formed about the only topic of discussion in fight circles last week. The bouts held were of little importance and new ones were made.

Perhaps the most interesting was that between "Young Corbett" and Dick Hyland at Ogden, Utah, in which Hyland won. "Corbett" is a real "all in" and might as well quit. It has been very well demonstrated that he cannot get into condition again. He has a rough swing and overbalanced left, and science gave "Corbett" an advantage. A deputy sheriff stopped him about after it was evident that Corbett could go no longer.

A TOUGH PROPOSITION.

Hyland is a tough proposition for any of the little fellows to take on, but Young Corbett has an idea that he can take it measure, and so does Charlie Napp. Hyland and Napp may be matched in a real "all in" in the near future, and this should prove an excellent card.

In case this match does not get through Napp and Young Corbett probably will be matched. Young Corbett is a German in an awful beating, and he is as good or better than he was before. Benny has gone back to work with science, gave "Corbett" an advantage. A deputy sheriff stopped him about after it was evident that Corbett could go no longer.

TROUBLE FOR O'Rourke.

Gov. Pennypacker's announcement that the little fellow to take on at Eslington, Pa., seems to have been the final blow to O'Rourke, as far as the Tuxedo club is concerned. In spite of the favorable opinion of the courts the governor has declared that he will not allow twenty round bouts, and will call out the state militia, if necessary.

O'Rourke started his club with flaming announcements. He proceeded to make a lot of big matches, which fell through, one by one. Now, we know the reason. Tom is a good promoter and deserves success, but he has picked out the wrong spot, and he had better hike back to New York, where, little by little, the lid is being pried off. It begins to listen as if there would be something doing in the long run.
