DOCTRINES OF THE DRUIDS.

THE Druids were an order of priests that existed and flourished among the early Celtic races of north-western Europe. The word Druid is supposed to have originated from two Celtic words "De," and "rouyd," signifying God speaking. Much of the history and teachings of the Druids is lost to the present age, because their doctrines and regulations were not committed to writing, but were communicated orally. To the Welsh bards the people of modern times are chiefly indebted for what is known of these devotees, but relics of their wonderful works in masonry are to be found to this day at Stonehenge, Avebury and many other parts of Great Britain, as well as in western France.

The Druids worshipped and performed their mystic rites chiefly in the open air, and frequently under the spreading branches of the lordly oak, the mistletoe twining around it being regarded as a sacred plant, possessing curative and prophylactic powers, and as an antidote to poisons. It was gathered with sacred ceremonies, and sacrifices were offered when the priest, clothed in white raiment, cut it down with a golden sickle.

The Druids originally came from Asia, and their doctrines and rites were evidently derived from the ancient Jewish law. Indeed we have no doubt that they were offshoots from those branches of the house of Israel which passed through Europe to the regions of the north, and have since been referred to as the lost tribes. Their vestments, their tenets and their festivals indicate their source, and though they departed widely in many things from the strict letter of the Mosaic code, there was enough left of its form and spirit among them to form good ground for this belief in their Israelitish origin. But though they retained many principles of the ancient faith, they also mingled with it much of the superstition and not a few of the occult rites of the heathen, which were strictly forbidden in the law. Astrology, divination and fire-worship entered into their ceremonies, and even human sacrifices are said to have been sometimes substituted for animal burnt-offerings.

They were organized into three orders, the priests, the prophets and the bards, and were presided over by an Arch-Druid, answering to the position of the High Priest of the Jews. But this official was elected to his office instead of inheriting it by birthright. Connected with the priesthood were also three female orders, who assisted in many of the ceremonies and acted in the prophetic office. Indeed the figure three was a mystic number with them, and the triads of the Welsh bards are traceable to those of the Druids.

The influence and rule of the Druids were overcome and ultimately destroyed by the Romans, both in Gaul and Britain, and though traces of their doctrines and ceremonies were distinguishable for many years, the organization perished before the Anglo-Saxons obtained dominion in England. Following are some of the doctrines of the Druids, as handed down from Welsh authorities:

"There is but one Supreme Being, the Creator and Governor of the Universe, of an eternal, mysterious, and immaterial nature, which pervades all space. In him consists the plenitude of life, knowledge, power, and love, which are sources of all his actions and dispensations. These being in themselves most beneficial and harmonious, necessarily tend to annihilate the power of evil, and bring man to everlasting happiness."

"All the knowledge that in the state of humanity we have of supernatural existence has been communicated by celestial beings, who of their own benevolence, subject to that of Deity, return for a while to this world to inform man of what is necessary for him to know of his duty, and of what constitutes happiness in this, and in future states, and which by perseverance in virtue he may hope for and be assured of."

"The last being that came into existence in this world was man. He appeared with the first rising sun, before that it was perpetual night. He is destined to fill a certain place in the creation, but a perfect liberty to act in such a character, or able to attach himself to either good or evil, as the impulses of his own inclinations shall lead him, accountable, rewardable, or punishable for all that he does. Humanity is, therefore, a state of liberty, and consequently of probation."

"One infallible rule of duty is not to do anything, or desire to do it, but what can eternally be done, and obtained in the celestial state where no evil can exist. The good and happiness of one being must not arise from the evil or misery of another."

And here are some of their triads:

"There are three primeval Unities; and more than one of each cannot exist; one truth, one point of liberty, and this where all opposites equiponderate.

"Three things proceed from the primeval Unities; all life, all that is good, and all power.

"God consists necessarily of three things; the greatest of life, the greatest of knowledge, and the greatest of power, and of what is the greatest there can be no more than one of anything."

"Three things evince what God has done, and will do; Infinite Power, Infinite Wisdom, and Infinite Love; for there is nothing that these attributes want of power, of knowledge, or of will to perform.

"The three regulations of God towards giving existence to everything; to annihilate the power of evil, to assist all that is good, and to make discrimination manifest that it might be known what should and what should not be."

"Three things will infallibly be done; all that is possible for the power, for the wisdom, and for the love of God to perform."

"Three things it is impossible that God should not perform; what is most beneficial, what all most need, and what is the most beautiful of all things."

Although many corruptions of the truth have become mingled with these tenets, yet it is evident to those who understand, that the main doctrines of the Druids emanated originally from a divine source. And this may be said of all the great religions that have held sway over large portions of the human race. The infidel sees in the creeds of the ancient heathen, traces of the same forms and partial enunciations of the same truths as are found in the Church and teachings of Jesus Christ. He jumps at once to the conclusion that the latter were borrowed from the former, although no connection can be traced between them. But he who has received of the higher inspiration of the Spirit of Truth, recognizes in all the great faiths of the world, fragments of the everlasting gospel mixed with the actions and deductions of men. And he traces these divine truths to their eternal author, who is the Father of the whole race, and who has revealed to all nations in all ages such principles and rules as were adapted to their conditions and their times.

"Mormonism" has its affinities in all the creeds of the ages. It also finds in them its repulsions. It unites with all that is divine. It repudiates that which is erroneous and satanic. Light cleaveth unto light, truth unto truth. The Divine Spirit is in harmony with itself. What God has revealed to one race coincides with that which he manifests to another. And his tender mercies are over all his works. The truths that come from him to-day are not new, but were given to those prepared for them many centuries ago. Thus, in every controlling creed of every land and time, may be found glimpses of his glory and marks of his wisdom. Here is what he says himself on this subject:

"Know ye not that there are more nations than one? Know ye not that I the Lord your God have created all men, and that I remember those who are upon the isles of the sea; and that I rule in the heavens above and in the earth beneath; and I bring forth my word unto the children of men, yea, even upon all the nations of the earth?" Book of Mormon, page 107.

So it will be found that whether in the teachings of Confucius or of Zoroaster, in the Veda or in the Koran, in the precepts of the Parsees or the doctrines of the Druids, are flashes of light from the same Sun of Righteousness, shining for the illumination and advancement of His creatures, who, indeed, whether on the eastern or western continents, or upon the islands of the sea, are all the offspring of the Eternal Father, and the objects of his tender solicitude.

The Storm of Yesterday.

NEW YORK, 24.—Dispatches from all points show that the storm of yesterday was one of the most violent experienced for years. The storm came from the tropics, and from midnight to noon rapidly increasing in energy, was central near Bangor. It was attended with an unusually heavy rainfall. At Washington the fall was 3.54 inches; at Baltimore, 2.74, Norfolk, 2.16; Lynchburg, 2.01; Smithville, N. C., 4.32. At Cape May the wind was 84 miles an hour, and drove the tide up on the meadows between the city and the mainland, covering the railroad track three feet and preventing trains from leaving. Hotels and cottages are badly damaged, also the beach drive and yachts, sloops, and schooners were blown ashore.

At Baltimore, the property along the wharves suffered much, and disasters on bay are feared. Along the line of Philadelphia and Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, the loss is serious. The storm was severe on the sound, and along the New England coast and lighter crafts were heavily hammered.

At Mount Washington at 5, p.m., the wind was blowing 120 miles an hour, with a heavy rain.

Ship Ashore.

The ship A. S. Davis, from Callao, went ashore south of Cape Henry, and is a total wreck, only one person was saved.

Gold Coin.

The steamship Lessing, from Hamburg, brings $350,000 in gold coin.

The Fitzjohn Porter Case.

Gen. Pope has declined the invitation of Gen. Schofield, president of the military board in the Fitz-John Porter case, to appear before the board for further examination, unless he shall be regularly subpœnaed. It is surmised that the President or Gen. Sherman will now order him to appear and testify, with soldierly frankness, instead of sheltering himself under pettifogging technicalities. The board adjourned, to-day, until Monday next.

After the Porter board adjourned, Gen. Terry arrived, and announced the receipt of a dispatch from the War Department, relative to Pope's appearance as a witness, which said that a conference of the board would be held to-morrow, and notified the counsel and Judge-Advocate to attend. This indicates some peremptory action by the War Department.

Gen. Pope as a Witness.

Gen. Pope telegraphs that he will not appear as a witness before the Fitzjohn Porter board of inquiry until subpœnaed for the petitioner or for government.

Committed for Forgery.

Charles W. Fontes, formerly a policy clerk in a life insurance company of this city, has been committed to jail in default of $20,000 bail, on a charge of complicity in a $64,000 forgery on the Union Trust Co.

Condition of the British Markets.

To-day's Public suggests that the condition of the British markets renders possible a sharp demand upon us for gold, to be obtained by returning American securities other than United States bonds; however there is no sign yet of such a movement.

Greenback Ticket.

BOSTON, 24.— The greenback state ticket, left incomplete by the Worcester convention, has been filled by the following nominations: For Lieut. Gov., John F. Arnold; Secy. of State, Weston Howland; Treasurer and Receiver, General Horace Benney Sargent; Auditor, Davis J. King.

Prairie Fires—Destruction of Life and Property.

CHICAGO, 25. — Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas advices indicate that prairie fires are still raging in each of those states, destroying grain, bridges, barns, fences, and other property. The flames were most destructive 20 miles southeast of Sioux City, in Iowa; along the North Platte, Nebraska, and South Platte rivers in Western Nebraska, and in Rush, Ness, Ellis, Trego, Gore, Wallace, Decatur, Graham and Rooks counties in Kansas. Many persons have perished in the flames, and an unconfirmed report prevailed in Lincoln, Nebraska, yesterday, that Albion, Boone County, a town of 250 inhabitants, had been utterly destroyed. The fires, in some cases, are supposed to have been lighted by Cheyennes.

Yellow Fever Reports.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., 24.—From 6 o'clock last night until noon to-day, the undertakers report orders for 13 interments.

New Orleans, 24.—The weather is clear and pleasant; thermometer 72. Deaths 16; cases reported 61. Of 62 cases reported to the board of health for the 24 hours ending at noon, to-day, only 10 were described as new cases.

Baton Rouge, 25.—New cases, 6; deaths, 4.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

German Newspaper Suppression.

LONDON, 24 — Several German socialist newspapers, anticipating suppression, announce their discontinuance, and, at the same time, advertise the appearance of new journals by the same publishers. Thus, the Voorwarts, a particularly violent socialist organ, announces the speedy appearance of a paper to be named the reform journal, to be devoted to the general interest of the people.

The editor of the St. Petersburg Russki Pravada has received his first warning for printing a letter to General Drentel, the newly-appointed chief of the secret police, exhorting him to deal leniently with political offenders.

The Globe has received its first warning, and its sale on the street has been suspended for attacking the German anti socialist law.

The Bank of England.

Bullion in the Bank of England increased £394,000 last week. The proportion of Bank of England reserve to liability is 29½ per cent.

The Burnted Bank.

EDINBURG, 24.—A call for $3,000 per share will be made on the shareholders of the Glasgow Bank immediately. It has been discovered since the report of the examiners, that foreign correspondents had used open credits to the extent of $85,000, most of which will be lost.

HUNGARY.

Re-Elected.

PESTH, 24.—Herr Ghiczy, ministerial candidate, has been re-elected president of the Hungarian Chamber of Deputies by 144 majority. His majority last session was 149.

RUSSIA.

Asia Minor Reforms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, 24.—The Sultan, to day, signed and delivered to the British minister a modified scheme for reforms in Asia Minor.

Utilization of Heat and other Forces.

In Physics, a noteworthy occurrence is the address delivered at Glasgow, by Dr. C. W. Siemens, "On the Utilization of Heat and other natural Forces," because he discusses in it the available sources of power when the supply of coal shall fail. Using at some central station water or wind power to drive dynamo-electric machines, the current generated could easily be reconverted into power where it is wanted, either for mechanical or other purposes. For light, for examples, from 100 horse-power 125,000 candle-lights could be obtained, equivalent to 6,250 Argand burners of 20 candles each, consuming six feet per hour, or 37,500 cubic feet for all. To produce this amount of gas, 3½ tons of coal are required, while to produce the 100 horse-power only as many hundredweights are necessary. In the case of Niagara, he computes that 100,000,000 tons of water fall every hour through a vertical height of 150 feet, giving 16,800,000 horse-powers, the only result being an elevation of the temperature of the water by one-fifth of a degree Centigrade. To pump back the water would require an annual expenditure of 266,000,000 tons of coal (at four pounds coal per horse power per hour)—an amount equal to the total coal consumption of the world. Since, by electric means, one-half the energy supplied at the central station may be recovered at the distant one, the economy is greater than in the steam-engine. Greater care is the use of water and wind power is now possible, and the intermittent character of wind-power may be made permanent by using to raise water into a reservoir. Moreover, the force of falling water in its descent from reservoirs and lakes, to supply our large cities, might be utilized on the way by driving turbines, thus supplying light and mechanical power as well as water. — EDITOR'S SCIENTIFIC RECORD, in Harper's Magazine for November.

Yet He Kept His Word.

They had been engaged about fifteen minutes, and she nestled her head a little closer under the shadow of his monumental shirt collar, and whispered, "And now, what are you going to call me, Algernon?" "Birdie!" he whispered, rapturously, while his voice trembled with tender emotion, "always and ever, nothing but Birdie!" And she fairly cooed with delight. He kept his word, although with the growing precision of middle age, he has become specific and does not deal in sweeping generalities any more; and so it was that day before yesterday, a neighbor going in the back way to borrow the ax, a cup of sugar and the cistern pole, heard him call her an old "sage hen."—Burlington Hawkeye.

Two young men were out fishing, recently, and on returning were going past a farm house and felt hungry. They yelled to the farmer's daughters: "Girls, have you any buttermilk?" The reply was gently wafted back to their ears: "Yes, but we keep it for our own calves."

PURIFY THE LIFE CURRENT.

SCOVILL'S

Blood AND Liver Syrup

A FEARLESS REMEDY FOR

Scrofula, White Swellings, Cancer, Erysipelas, Chronic Sore Eyes, Gout, Syphilis, Tumors, Carbuncles, Salt Rheum,

And all Diseases indicating an IMPURE CONDITION of the BLOOD.

Cutaneous eruptions upon the face or body do not necessarily indicate the taint of Scrofula, but whether the humor in question of that dire malady is present in the system or not, certain it is that completely cures such disorders. If the virus of scrofula does exist in the veins, this matchless purifier will root out every vestige of it. No eruptive malady, be it scrofulous or otherwise, can resist the purifying action of this safe and potent remedy, which renders the skin

CLEAR, SOFT AND BEAUTIFUL,

when ordinary medicines utterly fail to arrest the progress of scrofulous and other eruptions. The persistent use of this incomparable depurent secures the desired result. From

of its reliability in our possession, we make the two following condensed extracts:

Mr Samuel H. Matthews, Molestown, Accomac Co., Va., states that his child, when a month old, was attacked with an eruption which covered its head, face, arms, feet and knees, converting them into "literally one solid sore," but that two and a-half bottles of Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup effected a complete cure, without a scar.

Martin Robbins, Jr., writes that he suffered from Scrofulous White Swelling, with two sores running down to his ankle, which more than 100 pieces of bone slough-ed away, but by the time he had finished the twenty-fourth bottle of the SYRUP he was completely cured.

THIS GRAND REMEDY

is a compound of vegetable extracts, the chief of which are Sarsaparilla and Stillingia.

The cures effected by

Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup

are absolute, and their record is unsullied by failure. For sale by all Druggists.

Price, $1.00 per bottle.
