Negroes Arrested on Serious Charges—
Thomas King Arrested for Forgery—News Briefs.

Ogden, March 19.—In the name of the State of Utah District Attorney George Halverson has commenced a criminal libel suit in the municipal court against ex-Mayor William Glasman and Frank Francis, manager and editor respectively of the Ogden Standard and Morning Examiner. The complaint was filed in the municipal court Saturday afternoon and the warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Sebring, who placed Mr. Francis under arrest about 3 o'clock, and Mr. Glasman a half hour later. They were taken before Judge Murphy and arraigned on the charge. Mr. Glasman asked that they be released on their own recognizance, but this Judge Murphy refused to do, and placed the bond of each one at $750, which was furnished. John Pincus and Adam Patterson signed the bond for Mr. Glasman. Mr. Pincus and Wm. Glasman went the editor's bail.

If found guilty a fine of not to exceed $1,000 may be imposed, or sentence to a term of not more than one year in the county jail.

The allegations of the complaint are: "That on Feb. 27, 1906, the Standard Publishing company William Glasman and Frank Francis, unlawfully, wickedly and maliciously intending to injure, vilify, prejudice and disgrace, George Halverson, district attorney, and to deprive him of his good name, fame, credit and reputation, and to bring him and his office into contempt, scandal, infamy and disgrace and to impeach his honesty, integrity and virtue, and intending thereby to expose him to public hatred, contempt and ridicule, did then and there unlawfully, wickedly and maliciously write, publish and cause to be published, a certain false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory libel concerning him in his official capacity in the enforcement of the law by district attorney and particularly of the laws and ordinances of Ogden City relating to gambling and unlawful liquor traffic, and also in the prosecution and conduct of certain cases then pending in the district court, to-wit: The cases of J. E. Skeen vs. Fred W. Chambers and William Craig, the latter case being on trial, before the court and jury at the time."

SACRED SONG SERVICE.

Innovation in Tabernacle Sunday a Great Success.

Ogden, March 19.—A new departure in the way of Sunday afternoon services at the Ogden tabernacle was inaugurated yesterday, when an interpretative song service was held. The large auditorium was filled to accommodate the many who assembled to hear the beautiful sacred music. The services were presided over by Bishop Robert McQuarrie of the Seaside, Ore. One of the most interesting and instructive features of the services was the explanatory interpretation of the music by Principal David O. McKay of the Weber Stake academy. The text of each song rendered was taken from the Scriptures, and before its rendition Elder McKay read the text and then in a most forcible and instructive manner gave the Gospel interpretation of the same, showing plainly that the great masters who had written such beautiful music must have been inspired, and for the purpose of awakening in the hearts of the people a greater reverence and interest in sacred music, the afternoon service had been arranged.

Horace S. Ensign of Salt Lake City who possesses a powerful and beautiful voice, rendered most beautifully the solos entitled "Shepherd King," "The Psalmist," "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Holy City." The Ogden tabernacle choir did some excellent work under the leadership of Prof. Ballantyne, in the rendition of "Artise, O Glorious Zion," "Love of Heaven," "By Babylon's Wave," "Gospel Restoration," and the "Hallelujah Chorus."

FOUR NEGROES ARRESTED.

As a result four colored men, and two white girls are now behind the bars at the city jail, and at least two of the colored men will have to answer to charges of felony. THE JOY OF THE HOUSEHOLD, FOR WITHOUT IT NO HAPPINESS CAN BE COMPLETE. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. RELIEF SOCIETY ANNIVERSARY

Waterworks Bond Issue Enjoined by Judge Booth—Other News.

Provo, Utah Co., March 19.—The Relief societies of the Utah stake held an interesting meeting in the stake tabernacle Saturday, in commemoration of the organization of the Relief society by the Prophet Joseph Smith in Nauvoo, March 17, 1842. There were over 200 members present, in addition to members of the stake presidency and other prominent church people. Mrs. Martha A. F. Keeler, stake president of the society, presided.

The Relief society choir, lately organized, rendered appropriate hymns and other vocal selections, under the direction of Mrs. Agnes Farrer, accompanied by Miss Williamette Sperry, the organist of the organization, and Miss Lillie Alfred favored the meeting with a solo. A duet was rendered by Mrs. S. H. Jepperson and Mrs. Lizzie Gillispie, and a quartet by Mesdames Hyde, Farrer, Wilgus and Jones.

Among the speakers were Mrs. Eletha Bullock, who had met the late Miss Susan B. Anthony in equal suffrage work and who paid a glowing tribute to the dead leaders; Mrs. Marilla Daniels, who spoke of the organization of the society in Nauvoo, giving interesting incidents of those early days; and Mrs. Louise Mathews, who spoke of the present condition of the society and the doing for the relief of the suffering and distressed. Elder Joseph B. Keeler of the stake presidency also made a few encouraging remarks.

The statistical report for the year was read showing 17 societies with a membership of 352 in the Utah stake. During the past year $2,000.00 has been collected and $1,500.00 disbursed for charitable and other purposes, and the organization has on hand $646.25. The organization also owns $5,357.29 worth of real estate; has stored 4,051 bushels of wheat, and has $753.36 on hand for the purchase of wheat.

BOND CASE DEMURRER OVER- RULED.

The demurrer interposed by City Atty. Thomas to the complaint in the action brought by J. W. N. Whitcomb against Mayor Frisby and City Recorder Harding to restrain them from issuing $35,000 waterworks bonds and $56,000 artificial light bonds, authorized by the vote of the citizens of Provo in a special bond election held last year, was overruled by Judge Booth Saturday in the Fourth district court. The demurrer was to the insufficiency of facts in the complaint to constitute a cause of action. City Atty. Thomas stated that the city would not plead to the complaint but would stand on the demurrer and a default was entered for plaintiff, which enjoins the city from issuing the bonds. Judge Booth announced that in his judgment the two promissory notes for waterworks and $56,000 for artificial lights, should have been submitted to the voters at the election separately, so that a voter could have voted for one issue and against the other, if he so desired. The ballots were so prepared that the voters were compelled to vote for both or against both. The city council will determine whether an appeal shall be taken to the supreme court. If no appeal is taken, it is probable that another bond election will be called by vote at least on the waterworks bond proposition, as money is needed immediately to complete the waterworks extension on which a great deal of work has already been done.

It is charged in the complaint that King forged the name of Mr. Payne to an order on Rose West, bartender at Watts & Best's saloon for $1.50, which amount he secured. King has been employed at Layton. The order was issued before Judge Murphy and his bond fixed.

The remains of W. B. Owen, the young man who last week shot himself, were shipped to his home at Denver yesterday morning. An employee of the dining car service accompanied the body home.

JOHN C. GRAHAM ANSWERS LAST CALL

Noted Editor and Dramatist
Closes Long and Brilliant Career.

WAS PROMINENT IN POLITICS

And Filled Many Positions of Honor
And Trust in Business and Church Circles.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Utah Co., March 19.—John C. Graham, manager and editor of the Provo Enquirer, passed peacefully to rest at his home in this city yesterday.

JOHN C. GRAHAM.
Veteran Citizen of Provo Who Has Succumbed in a Long and Hard Fought Battle.

At 1 o'clock, surrounded by many members of his family. He had been unable to speak for over 36 hours previous to his death (whether he was unconscious during this time or suffering from paralysis of the vocal organ is a matter of uncertainty), but a few minutes before he died he showed unmistakable signs of recognizing his dear ones, and his last words were a loving smile lighting his face. Mr. Graham has been ailing for about two years, suffering from a combination of kidney, stomach and heart troubles. About 15 months ago he went to southern California and spent some three months there with a view to benefiting his health. He returned slightly improved, and remained at work till nearly three months ago. Since then he has practically been confined to his room, at times improving, but gradually succumbing to the disease which had fastened itself upon him. Hopes of his recovery were entertained till Friday, when a definite change for the worse occurred.

John C. Graham was born in Liverpool, England, July 25, 1839. His parents, William C. and Elizabeth Leyland Graham, were among the first converts to the Gospel as presented by the Latter-day Saints in their city, being converted through the teaching of the late President John Taylor. His arrival in Utah in 1861, located in Salt Lake and later moving to Provo.

The deceased became associated with the Millennial Star at the early age of 17, and was for eight years engaged in the Liverpool office of the Church, assisting in the emigration of the Saints, etc., and part of the time holding the position of assistant editor of the Star, the late President George Q. Cannon being the editor. He was on the editorial staff of the Star during the emigration affairs at the time Charles Dickens visited it and wrote of a company of "Mormon" emigrants about to leave for Utah, in their day, in high degree, the pick and flower of England, and he had a vivid recollection of the occasion and the appearance of the great novelist.

In 1864 Mr. Graham emigrated to Utah, crossing the plains in Warren Snow's company. On reaching Salt Lake he was offered a position in the business office of the Church, where he remained for several years. During this time he became connected with the Deseret Dramatic association, and was prominent in the early days in theatrical circles of the territory. He took a leading part in almost every play presented in the Salt Lake Theater at that time, and supported all the stars that came to Utah, among them Julia Dean Hayne, Edwin Adams, John McCullough, Lawrence Barrett and Adelaide Neilson; and he assumed the management of the Salt Lake Theater on the retirement of Messrs. Clawson and Caine in 1871.

In the spring of 1873 he was called to Europe on a mission and again became assistant editor of the Millennial Star, under the late Albert Carrington and later under President Joseph F. Smith.

In 1877 Mr. Graham came to Provo and purchased the Utah County Enquirer, then a semi-weekly paper. Ten years later he incorporated the business under the name of the Enquirer Publishing company, and became editor and manager and commenced at that time the publication of the Daily Enquirer. Mr. Graham has also been connected with many other business enterprises in this city. He was one of the leading spirits in the building of the Provo Opera House, one of the incorporators of the First National bank of Provo, of which he was a director till it was merged into the Provo Commercial and Savings bank; and a member of the board of directors of the Provo Co-operative Institution, the P. L. M. & B. company, and a director in other business concerns.

After moving to Provo, he organized a dramatic company, composed of talented young Provo people. The company developed great ability under his able training, and achieved more than local popularity.

When the division on National political party lines was made, he was one of the first of the People's party to espouse the Republican cause, to which he remained unwaveringly loyal and to which he has rendered valuable services by his personal zeal and ability and through the influence of his paper. He was chairman of the Utah county Republican state executive committee. He held the position of trustee of the State Agricultural college for two years, was a delegate to the Constitutional convention in 1882, was appointed postmaster of Provo by President McKinley, and has served as a member of the Provo city council. He has also given much time to church duties, in addition to missionary work in his native land, serving as a home missionary and in a great number of Church positions, and was one of the presidents of the Thirty-fourth quorum of Seventy at the time of his death. He has been the husband of three wives and is the father of 28 children, 14 of whom are living, among them Mrs. C. W. Barnes and Miss Sadie Graham of the Provo postoffice, J. C. Graham, Jr., and M. H. Graham, all of Provo; Arthur E. Graham and Leyland Graham, the latter in the railway mail service, and Frank Graham, in the employ of the "News" all of Salt Lake City. Two brothers, Wm. C. and Joseph L. Graham, of this city, also survive him.

Mr. Graham has led a busy, useful life; he was a man of genial personality, devoted husband and loving father, and most kindly and helpful to his friends. Always earnest, vigorous and
