There was a large attendance and the other exercises were of a character specially suited to the occasion, a quartet rendering "A poor wayfaring man of grief" and "The Seer," and one of the classes dealing with the prophetic side of the phet's mission. The hall was nice ly decorated and presented a good appearance.

Whereabouts of Lieut. Kistler Still a Mystery.

The whereabouts of Second Lieut. William M. Kistler of M. company, Eighteenth U. S. Infantry, from Fort Logan continue to be a source speculation in army circles. As he had $150 in his pocket when he left the post, it is feared he may have been slugged and robbed. At the same time it is thought that the young man may have deserted, as had handed in his resignation to the commanding officer, as he was dissatis-fied with the treatment he had received in social matters, and claimed he discriminated against because he had risen from the ranks and had not come from West Point Military academy. The lieutenant is 23 years old, and began as O. Baddley and William Harvey as his a private in the Sixth cavairy when the war broke out, and went with his com . mand to China and the Philippin's, where he did good service. The Denver police are trying to find Lieut. Kistler.
