

SECOND EDITION. DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Thursday May 26, 1892.

Church-school Convention.

The fourth annual Church-school Convention will convene in the building of the Latter-day Saints' Colleges, on First North street, Salt Lake City, on Friday, June 11, 1892, at 10 o'clock A.M. and 2 P.M. and p.m.

PROGRAMME.

Worship services.
Address by the First Presidency and by members of the General Church Board of Education.

Report of the General Superintendent of Church schools.

Reports from the schools.

APPENDIX.

Reports of Schools, Standardized.

Books in Utah District.

Books in Clark's Collection.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Answers to Questions.

Questions for educational systems will open during the session and will be answered at the commencement of the advanced course.

Attendance at the Annual Convention is obligatory upon every Church school, either by a member of the school board, or the faculty, or by some duly authorized representative.

Members of the Convention can obtain one-of-a-kind railroad tickets for the round trip.

K. O. MORSE, D. L. D., Vice Pres.

Genl. Secretary.

A Serious Accident.

A serious accident occurred last evening about 9 p.m., near the residence of Mr. McCormick on the hill west of East Temple. The young son of John Lewis was driving a horse and light wagon, and when at the end of the alley leading north, the horses stalled, and the wagon careered over the precipice, dropping the wagon to the roadway below.

A Mrs. Gould was seated in the wagon with young Lewis. She was severely injured, and it is feared hurt internally. Young Lewis escaped without a scratch. The horse and wagon were also unharmed. The severity of the accident was very dangerous, there being no fence or guard of any kind along the sidewalk and roadway leading from East Temple to the alley.

Important Course of Lectures.

The Deseret Sunday School Union has made arrangements with Elder Karl G. Morse, general superintendent of Church schools, to deliver in the Assembly Hall of this city a course of five or six lectures, especially addressed to the workers in our Sunday schools. The course will give them instruction in three schools theoretical and practical instructions in conducting the work assigned them. In other words, the course of lectures will be very dangerous, there being no fence or guard of any kind along the sidewalk and roadway leading from East Temple to the alley.

SAD DEATH

Of Miss Jennie Rose From an Overdose of Cocaine.

The many friends of Miss Jennie D. Rose, better known as Jennie Trumbo, will be grieved to learn of the death of that popular and estimable young lady at the Trumbo's home at 10 o'clock today from an overdose of cocaine taken on the advice of her physician. Yesterday Miss Rose accidentally put a needle into one of her fingers.

The wounded member caused her much physical suffering and the drug was taken to alleviate the pain. The young lady had a host of friends in this city who will mourn her untimely death.

IDaho DEMOCRATS.

They Elect Delegates to the National Convention at Chicago.

The Idaho Democratic State convention was held at Boise last night to elect delegates to the national convention at Chicago.

Major Woods nominated John M. Burke from the first district, and Mr. Aufbuhl nominated Frank Gandy. Burke was chosen, 56 to 31.

J. W. Held of Lewiston was chosen from the second district by acclamation.

For the third district James H. Hawley was nominated by Mr. Stevens; Mr. Lippincott named Asbury Turner; Mr. Fife.

For the fourth district Mr. Lewis nominated E. H. True, John Haines named T. Young, and Mr. Blisland named C. H. Bryan. Haines was elected at 10 o'clock, True, 20, Bryan, 25. Bryan's election was made unanimous on motion of Mr. True.

In the fifth district John McDonald nominated J. M. Bennett, mayor of Payette, and Dr. Whitcomb nominated A. J. McNeil. Bennett won by a vote of 47 to 31.

For delegates-at-large, R. E. Johnson of Boise was chosen by acclamation.

The following alternates were chosen: John G. Stimpson, W. N. Murphy, J. C. Strayhorn, J. E. Harrington, J. C. Farney, J. C. Bush.

The delegates to Chicago, on motion of Mr. True, were instructed to vote as a unit, and will list the unenrolled unsworn.

By 2 o'clock this afternoon most of Plaintiff's opponents had got about half a dozen signatures to their names, and a majority of the names at the time of Joseph Wilson, in the Empress hotel, building, which was then partially under construction. This letter, which was signed by Mr. Wilson, is to the effect that he is willing to sell his name to the unenrolled unsworn, and that he is willing to do so at a price.

SENSATIONAL SHOOTING.

A Lincoln, Nebraska, Banker Killed by W. H. Irvin, of Salt Lake.

HOMESTEAD TROUBLE THE CAUSE.

The Shooter Was a "Liberal" Member of the Last Territorial Legislature and Widely Known.

The following note, too expressive telegram received in this city this morning caused a sensation in this community. It has had no parallel since the famous shooting of Oscar Parkes:

Lincoln, Neb., May 25, 1892.
Hon. W. H. Irvin:

W. H. Irvin shot and killed a man here this morning. Telegram to come.

Judge Parker once commanded and directed his troops and their word was law to him. He used to say to me, no one regarding the shooting until he had conferred with his wife.

Irvin, following Associated Press dispatch, was received:

Omaha, Neb., May 25,
Hon. W. H. Irvin:

A special to the Des Moines Tribune, W. H. Irvin, president of the National Bank, was sent about 10 o'clock this morning to the office of the Des Moines Tribune, to see the editor. The editor expressed his appreciation by a hearty and prolonged applause, and Mr. Irvin responded with a hearty and prolonged applause.

Next Prof. Willard Weibe gave an audience from Mendelsohn's concert violin, accompanied by Prof. Daynes on the organ. Prof. Weibe's performances on his instrument are always excellent, and the organist's playing is equally good.

The dinner, some 200 persons, was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member of the lower house of the last Territorial Legislature and widely known,

was shot and killed by W. H. Irvin, a real estate broker and former partner of the deceased, just before the election of 1888, induced by M. W. Daynes.

The dinner, some 200 persons,

was arranged at the time with people from the quarter-continent of the admission of Nebraska into the Union.

Irvin, a "Liberal" member