Corn Cases to be Heard and Confiscated.

"ADMIRALTY" PROCEEDURE.

Rules and Regulations Governing the Affairs of the High Seas Are Being Studied.

ADMIRALTY LAW.

Admiralty suits, their nature, cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction are of the following nature, to-wit: Suits by seamen for wages; by pilots for pilotage services; by material men for material and supplies furnished to steamers and vessels in foreign ports; suits on marine policies of insurance, and on marine contracts of affreightment; suits by salvor for salvage services; suits to recover loan on bottomry and respondentia bonds; suits to obtain a general average; suits for marine torts, such as collisions between vessels, and assaults committed on high seas or navigable waters, either upon seamen or passengers. From a compilation of the jurisdiction of the federal courts by Hon. Amos M. Thayer, judge, Eighth circuit court.

Federal lawyers here are at sea. The first admiralty suit ever brought to Utah has arrived and is set for Oct. 12. The admiralty is the law given above. What puzzles the government legal lights more than anything else is what the law above could have to do with a can of corn.

Ship aho!

Lucian Smyth, deputy United States marshal is practising the homopie out in the hall. He is the one that pre-empted all the trouble, he is the man who brought up the gale. It all came about in this manner:

Deputy Marshal Smyth heard that an Iowa canning company of Audubon, Iowa, had received a short weight case of corn from the Audubon Canning company of Audubon, Iowa.

ORDER AND DISORDER.

There was left in the storehouse of the Kiesel company, 500 cases of this corn, when the deputy marshal made his search so he confiscated them and now holds them under custody. Here's where the wild waves came up. The department notified the courts to proceed under the admiralty form of procedure, and not a federal lawyer here possesses a pair of hip boots!

There was a commotion and a search through the storehouse of the Kiesel company. What is contained in the box at the head of this column was the sum and substance of the search's fruits.

How can a law make a corn case? The question comes to open to all—the question of the admiralty law. This announcement is made by authority of the U. S. marshal's office.

ATTACKS BUSY.

The dignified district attorney refused to talk about the case but he was busy this morning studying a map of "streams and bodies of water in Utah." An associate was nibbling on rock salt. Clerk Letcher was reading Jack London's story of "My Dog, the Shark."

United States Marshal Spry is triumphing his sails. He denied being at sea. The women attaches of the courts were examining new fashion plates for late styles in sailor suits and the court stenographer's phonograph ground out "A Sailor's Life on the Big Blue Sea," all morning.

"Wouldn't it make you sick?" gasped Judge Maynard.

"Yes, seasick," was the response from a bystander.

EVERYBODY'S GOT IT.

The elevator boy absent-mindedly asked his passenger at "what port he'd like to stop," and the janitor was commanded by Custodian Thomas to go up and "wash" the hurricane deck, meaning the third floor of the building. One attaché with peg bottom trousers was the object of wondering stares; funnel shapes are now the proper thing.

CALM ENCOUNTERED.

The only federal attaché who would not be upset by the admiralty case is J. C. Greenwald. This is natural for Mr. Greenwald is a surveyor of the port; this makes him a nautical character. He could not be located, but had he been, he might have invited the reporter to visit his cabin. The situation would have been explained fully. There is some doubt in the reporter's mind as to just what Mr. Greenwald would have said, but notes jotted down during the conversation might have the dialogue in this shape:

"You see, my boy, it is like this; this corn came off full of scurrups—"

"What are scurrups?"

"Iowa fleas—so the whole buttwarks, fore and aft, had to be subjected to a blowtorch and hence the jib boom."

"Oh, how simple!"

"Yes, my boy, now the weather-board—"

"Did they find splinters in this corn, too?"

"Yes, no, of course not—but the star-board—"

"Didn't the starboarder like this corn?"

"No—why, yes, he liked it, no he didn't—"

"—say, go see one of the regular lawyers, I'm only the surveyor."

"But as surveyor you will gather up a chain of evidence. And the reporter—"

UNTRIMMED TRUTH.

The whole untrimmed truth of the matter is that the Kiesel company will be brought into court Oct. 12 to be tried upon charges of purchasing short weight merchandise. And the case is to be heard in the form prescribed for admiralty cases whatever it is, that point being in darkness at this time.

An entirely new puzzle arises as to what charge could be laid against the corn were the cans to explode while in charge of the marshal's office. "An attempt to defraud government employees' lives," "Trying to wreck a government building," and if the explosion occurs in court, "Contempt" might be the ones from which a selection would be made.

The government has three things with the corn. They are: destroy, sell or relabel and permit to be sold.

The final straw comes from Mr. Smyth's got bunnions tracing down that corn.

The clerk's office has a new book labeled, in all seriousness, "Volume I. Corn File."

ENTRIES AT STATE FAIR

Weber County Showing up Strong—
Boxes for Races Are Placed On Sale Today.

This morning the new boxes which have been installed in the front of the grand stand at the State fair grounds were put on sale for the week.

The hanging boxes are built to accommodate parties of six and four, and it is anticipated that society people desiring to witness the races will avail themselves of this innovation, as in the case of the big circus.

Despite the fact that Weber county fair is to be the feature at Ogden next week Weber county itself has never before in this connection and the exhibition entered so many exhibits as are now listed by Secy. Ensign. Horses, cattle, fruit and vegetables are exceptionally strong in this connection and the manufacturers, too, are coming down. The old space which has been occupied by Hewitt Brothers has this year been engaged by the Ogden and Weber county fair company, a concern out of the trust which is going to make a showing.

The Superior Honey company of Ogden and several other concerns among the Weber county companies which entered this morning.

President J. G. McDonald announced that the entries for the closing entries on a certain date will this year be enforced to the letter. "The fair is got to be too big," he said this morning. "I would like to see the closing entries on a certain date, but any old time. We cannot possibly handle them and besides what is the use of making an announcement and not living up to it? I would like to see the entries for the State fair that will close on Wednesday, September 30, and I am sure that the entries will have been rushing their exhibits in on the day before the fair will have to reform if they want to get in on the premium list."

The entries to date include department A, horses, 40; department A, fast horses, 40; B, cattle, 151; C, sheep and swine, 58; D, poultry, 51; E, agricultural products, 48; F, fine arts, 43; L, women's work, 50. Supervisor Hanson of the dog show reports a most encouraging list of entries and every indication of a rush towards the close.

ONE WOMAN BREAKS AWAY.

Any Johnson Gives Officers Slip
While on Way to Jail.

While bringing the bunch of women up town after they had been bound over for hearing by Justice P. M. Bishop, Deputy Sheriff Charles Sperry was seized with an epileptic fit and the officers and the attention of the other officers was attracted from the care of the women. Several of them essayed to get to the extent of the door of the courtroom and refused to allow them to pass out.

After leaving the car at the corner of Main and First South streets, Deputy Sperry was placed in a cab and the other officers continued down street with the women marching in front. One of the number, Amy Johnson, slipped into a doorway between Main and West Temple streets and the officers, who were tending to tie her shoelace she evaded the eye of the deputies and soon escaped after the procession had passed. Up to the present time she has not been apprehended by the officers.

NEBRASKA EDITOR HERE.

H. T. Dobbins, editor of the Evening News, published at Lincoln, Neb., is in Salt Lake for a few days having come west with a party of St. Louis capitalists who are interested in the Oasis land proposition. Mr. Dobbins is somewhat surprised to see such strenuous politics in Salt Lake, as Lincoln and Nebraska generally, he affirms, is not getting excited. He predicts that the state will go Republican despite the fact it is Bryan's headquarters, but qualifies this assertion with the statement that the farmers might be stampeded by the bank deposits guarantee plank in the Democratic platform.

POLITICAL POINTERS

Brigham Clegg is a candidate to succeed himself in the lower house of the legislature. He is a Republican member. His name will be seen before the county convention Tuesday next.

V. H. Farnsworth is a candidate for county clerk, with a large field opposing him. Howard A. King is making the liveliest opposition, and an interesting problem of the Republican county convention will be to see who lands this position.

Joseph Sharp, chief deputy sheriff, may be heard of after the county convention as a nominee for sheriff. He is making the most active campaign for the place, with Pete Condie as his leading opponent.

A Republican caucus will be held at Murray Saturday at 2 p. m. to which all out of town delegates will be requested to come. Its purpose will be to select candidates for the committees and to urge certain candidates upon the convention.

It will be a long time before the Democrats who went to Logan forget the hospitality so generously tendered them at the hotel there. It is the art of welcoming visitors the Logan people are to be accorded a sweepstakes medal.

Carl A. Badger is now a candidate for the state senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket. Mr. Badger is a graduate of the Washington law school, and is now a practicing attorney in Salt Lake. At the recent Republican convention he nominated Joseph Howell for Congress, a duty well performed, and undertaken by State Senator Stephen H. Love.

Samuel A. King has announced that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic state chairmanship. Mr. King has mining business in Nevada which he leaves shortly to attend to, and declares that he will not enter the race on this account.

The Democrats of Bureka held a primary Tuesday evening and their county convention which will be held in this city Tuesday of next week. H. P. Gear, Walter Henry, Levan Hume, T. C. Burns, Edward Lewis, D. B. Cronin, Joseph Phillips, Daniel Kelly and Del Roberts, are the candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination, which will possibly be held in this city immediately after the primary. The Democrats of Bureka are expected to have the support of the Bureka Democrats for the office of county sheriff.

A baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hannan the early part of the week.

The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan school opened Monday with about 40 pupils enrolled. Miss Ethel Ivie is present in charge of the school.

Thomas E. Vissing of Bingham Junction has announced himself a candidate for nomination as a member of the house of representatives in the Republican convention which convenes on Tuesday next.

DEATH OF HIGH SCHOOL BOY.

Leland K. Simon Passes Away at State Mental Hospital.

A death that is much regretted, especially among students of the high school, was that of Leland K. Simon, a resident of this city. He died suddenly and very unexpectedly at the state mental hospital, Bureka, Monday, Sept. 21, 1908.

In April, 1907, the boy was struck on the head by a heavy hammer, during a track meet practice at the high school. He was a bystander, and the hammer struck him on the head, and he lay for a long time in a precarious condition, but subsequently recovered sufficiently to go to work. At times, however, his mental condition was impaired, and it became necessary to send him to a hospital. The expected improvement did not come, and he was taken to the institution first mentioned. The doctors at the hospital had a hard mind noticeable. During frequent rational spells he wrote beautiful letters to his mother, and said that he would soon be all right and would be with them at home. Yesterday morning he was found dead, and an hour later was found in his room. The funeral will be held at Payson.

FIFTY MILES OF SIDEWALKS.

Biggest Contract in History of City to Be Awarded Tonight.

At the regular meeting of the board of public works to be held this evening, bids on sidewalk extension No. 108 will be opened. This extension calls for the construction of nearly 50 miles of sidewalk in the southern portion of the city, at an estimated cost of $750,000. The successful bidder must put up a bond of $50,000 to guarantee the faithful performance of the contract, and each bidder must accompany his bid with a certified check for $10,000. This is the biggest contract ever awarded in the history of the city.

MISS GERBER LOSES LEG.

After Two Years of Suffering Following Explosion.

After nearly two years of intense suffering from the effects of burns, Miss Nettie Gerber was compelled to undergo an operation yesterday by which one of her lower limbs was amputated. She stood the ordeal as well as could be expected, but passed a very bad night. Reports from the hospital today are to the effect that the patient is recovering, but it will be a day or two before much change for the better may be reported.

Miss Gerber was a teacher when the Utah school where the accident occurred that proved so painful and distressing. It was the custom of the teachers to receive a salary of $100 a month, and Miss Gerber was standing over the utensil, it exploded, and before she was conscious she was lying on the floor. She was most frightfully burned. Skin-grafting was resorted to at one time, with rather indifferent success, and at last amputation became necessary.

DEMOCRATS MAY ASSEMBLE AGAIN

Informally Discuss New Leader
For State Ticket to Replace
Jesse Knight.

COMMITTEE NOT ANXIOUS.

It is Willing to Allow the Candidate
The Benefit of Nominating by A Convention.

The Democratic state convention may be reassembled to choose a successor to Uncle Jesse Knight at the head of the ticket, provided his refusal to run remains as positive as it now seems.

Informal discussion among leading Democrats today develops an opinion that most of them favor of reconvening the convention in preference to asking anyone to run upon appointment by the state committee, although this committee has the power to appoint a candidate to fill any vacancy.

Judge O. W. Powers today when asked if he favored filling the vacancy by reconvening the convention said: "Uncle Jesse has only talked to the newspaper so far. We have a declaration from him that closes the matter, and nothing will be done by the party until some time has elapsed."

The names of likely candidates for the position are being much discussed today, looking forward to the continuing the state committee must finally give up hope for a change of the ticket of the state committee.

Joseph Peery of Ogden is frequently mentioned for the place, and has geographical points in his favor, as he is a native of Ogden, and is a member of the ticket. Harden Bennion, formerly state senator, is also mentioned. Bennion was a candidate for secretary of state, and his defeat by the state committee is a point in his favor. A special "favorite son" on the ticket, from Salt Lake John Derr's name is frequently brought up, while many are of the opinion that he is a favorite son of the party.

How the matter will finally adjust itself it is too early yet to state. The state committee will meet tomorrow, adjourned until Oct. 2, and no action will be taken, it is thought, in the meantime.

FROM OLD KENTUCKY.

C. W. Bransford of Owensboro, Ky., is here for a short visit with his brother, Mayor John S. Bransford, and his sister, Mrs. Edna Bransford. He is a member of the "Blue Grass" state that claims the distinction of being the greatest loose-leaf tobacco market in the world. He is a member of the "Blue Grass" state that claims the distinction of being the greatest loose-leaf tobacco market in the world. ONE ON GUTCH.

Policeman "Lifts" Clerks Watch and Puts it up For Raffle.

George M. Gutch, clerk of Judge Diehl's court, received a shock this morning from which he will not soon recover. Mr. Gutch had occasion to go over some records in the desk sergeant's office, and while engaged in that occupation, Patrol Driver Moore of the "Blue Grass" state that claims the distinction of being the greatest loose-leaf tobacco market in the world, "lifted" the clerk's valuable and handsome gold watch and fob.

Mr. Gutch did not miss the time piece for about an hour and was discovered by the watchman who had disappeared and he began to do some tall thinking. He tried to remember where he had been, who he had talked with and whether he had had a nickel or two in his pocket, but he was on the verge of collapse when he happened to think he had been in the desk sergeant's office and knew the pencil for taking the policeman's watch, he rushed frantically down stairs, taking the flight eight steps at a time.

Burst into the desk sergeant's office and then gave a gasp of horror. There was his valuable watch being raffled off at 5 cents a throw. The officers had a list about three yards long and more names and nickels were being added. He made a dive for the time piece and succeeded in rescuing it, after which he rushed down the street and purchased a safety device to fasten the watch securely on his pocket.

WANT SUPPORT.

Two cities want Salt Lake to work for their interests at the National Irrigation Congress this year to obtain the 1909 session. The cities are Spokane and Pueblo, both of which are actively in the race for the convention.

"We shall answer that between two friendly cities, the Utah delegation," declared Fisher Harris for the Commercial club today.

"There is an impression," he continued, "that the Utah delegation are pledged to Washington, D. C. That is not the case. A committee of many of our states on which one Utah man happened to be appointed. This committee reported favorably to Washington, but that is no way affects the Utah delegation, or any state delegation. The only instructions to the delegation are that they shall be courteous to the arguments presented at the congress and please themselves to the town they like best."

CAN'T GET COVER BEHIND JUDGE

The judge of the city court panders to the vicious element. It charges that convictions cannot be had in that court. The official records contain no warrant of the men. The records prove conclusively that the responsibility for the very things complained of rests upon the shoulders of "American" party officials.

The charges are most absurd," said Judge Diehl. "The records speak for themselves and that is all there is to it. The records are open to anyone who cares to see them, and it is upon the records that I stand all the time."

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The evening of November 14th, will always be remembered by our theatergoers as a red letter night. The occasion was the first presentation here of the "Squaw Man," the story between the acts by Mr. Royce himself, and the appearance of William Faversham in the central role. The deep impression that event left upon the minds of the audience, in spite of the downpour of rain, a big and brilliant audience came out to welcome the play back again, and it is now a regular feature of the season.

Mr. Royce's beautiful play, which is a real production, has been the sensation of the season in London, and it only needs to be added that its strength, tenderness, and still entitle it to the name of the greatest American play of recent years. As long as the Liebers keep the production, it will be a success, and they and Mr. Royce are too keen to lower it in the least. There is no reason why managers and author should not go on drawing their dividends indefinitely.

The cast in the present company is thoroughly capable. There may be two or three spots in which the originals are hardly equalled, but there are several others in which they are excelled, and the effect of the whole picture is as charming and fascinating as it ever was. Mr. Farnum gave a thorough and complete picture of the condition of the little role. The sole respect in which he does not measure up with Faversham, is in the fact of his nationality. Faversham is a Britisher, and as Mr. Faversham is ultra American in his. In the first act, therefore, laid in England. Faversham was more thoroughly "to the bone" than Mr. Farnum, but in the other three, Farnum was the cowboy to the life. It should be remembered also, that this is his third week in the role, whereas Faversham had acted it three times. Farnum had some tempestuous recalls, after one of which he essayed a brief speech. He stated that his prolonged absence from the west had been due to the fact that he had been hunting for a piece good enough to bring west of the Mississippi, but had not found it, so he had taken up with another play, which Salt Lake audience had seen, but the play was so good, he added, that he did not feel that he needed any excuse, though the audience might wonder at his "nerve" in following in the footsteps of the Trampas cowboy.

"Big Bill" is still in the hands of George Devo, who still makes it the season's hit. The piece, and a fine creation throughout. The Indian of Mr. Lewis was also most artistic, and the Cash Hawkins of Mr. Shaw was so good as to call to mind the Trampas cowboy. Mr. Shaw would hardly ask for higher praise. Miss Conwell made a handsome Diana, and Miss Fisher a pretty picture as the Indian maid, though her acting is not with the intensity that her predecessor did. Logan Paul, an old Salt Lake actor, whose days date back to the palmy times in the seventies, when he was a member of the stock company, gave an excellent sketch in the part of the interpreter.

The bill will run the remainder of the week and will surely do enormous business.

The Berkhoel Recital Tonight—This evening at the First M. E. church, friends of Miss Agnes Berkhoel ought to be out in force to hear her in a special program, and also to say farewell to her, prior to her return to New York. Miss Berkhoel has been a student at the University of California, and her recital was made with the Salt Lake Opera company, ought to insure a handsome audience.

Orpheum—The excellent bill of this week is now drawing to a close, but the business keeps up undiminished. Final preparations will be given today and tomorrow, with both afternoon and evening performances.

Grand—This house will return to stirring melo-drama next week, the attraction being "The Cowboy Ranger." "Under Two Flags" will run out the remainder of the week.

Lyric—A complete change of bill will be presented tomorrow afternoon, the cameraphone having an entirely new set of subjects to present.

TODAY'S U. OF U. NEWS.

Hon. William W. Ritter, chairman of the board of regents of the University of Utah, addressed the students at the chapel this morning. He related reminiscences of the university in its infancy, when he was one of the first students. He related the address of Mr. Ritter called the attention of the students to the fact that it was their duty to assist in the uplift of humanity, in contrast with the existing tendency of uneducated people to hold down their fellow beings who appeared to be their inferiors.

"The world does not owe any man a living," said Mr. Ritter; "but we owe the world our best efforts towards its uplift. There is a growing tendency to a lack of fidelity and honesty among the educated classes. The state prisoners are full of bankrupt presidents and cashiers, but I vouch for that you cannot find a bank janitor in any prison in the country."

The associated student body of the U. of U. held a meeting at 12:30 today, presided over by President Joe Barlow. Announcement was made that a treasurer would be elected, and a manager of dramatics, to succeed Mr. Benson, both elected last year, but failing to come to school this year.

WEATHER REPORT

Summer is at an end. The status of the thermometer showed this morning at this time, with a maximum of 55 degrees for yesterday, and 40 degrees for this morning's record. The rain of the recent storm amounted to 1.80 inch, and on the higher mountains fell in form of snow. So the outlook for this morning, this morning, look quite wintry. This morning, there has been a marked fall of temperature all over the country, as the number of minus signs on the weather map indicate, but while steady warm weather, the indications are that there will be a stretch of mild fall weather for the next week.

The barometric pressure is highest over the north Pacific and British northwest territory, accompanied by freezing temperatures and frosts over portions of the Middle and north Pacific, and British northwest territory. High air pressure also extends over the middle and north Atlantic states. The two storms over the south and middle plateau have united since last report, causing rain or snow over portions of southern California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Wyoming, Montana, Washington, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Alberta and Winnipeg. It is showing this morning at Lander, Wyoming, Helena, Havre and Miles City, Montana.

The high pressure over the north Pacific is still in evidence, but tonight and Saturday with killing frosts in this locality tonight.

Children by Judge Morse.

Late this afternoon Judge Morse granted a divorce to Sarah Jane Potter, awarding her the custody of two minor children. She asked for no alimony, but was content to be free to assume her maiden name, Griffiths, even though she had to work hard for the support of herself and children.
