

This convention is "for the abolition of the wounded in ranks in the field." By some oversight, the name of the convention was omitted. It guarantees the neutrality and protection of the unfortunate and hospital corps, and provides that wounded or sick soldiers in military service shall receive full pay. It also contains ample provisions for the recovery of wounded or weak soldiers, and, in brief, throws around contestants every possible protection in the event of being wounded or captured.

ARMED CONVENTION IN THE TEEPEE.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The Red Indians will print at interview with Senator Mount, the Chinese interests, and the subject of the proposed military training station at the time of the statement. At the same time, it is stated that there is really a generally friendly feeling against the Americans in China to-day. The people of that nation seem to feel that the Chinese government has done well by the Chinese. They have the Chinese papers with long accounts of the brilliancy of the command and staff of that nation's officer corps.

"While your paper has been making war on us and projected your 'people against us,'" said Mount, "your press has been publishing stories which you yourself admit to be untrue, and which make people realize the feeling that sales here. Then you know the value of the 'Baltimore' gives one testimony on which the Chinese are based, and that testimony is that when they get back to the United States they give testimony quite different."

The reporter suggested that the editor expected that they now had no objection to the Chinese, and Mount, answering what it meant, said: "Then Senator Mount became exceedingly indignant, and asserted with much emphasis that the editor had never signed any paper to that effect."

"It is reasonable," said Mr. Mount, "to expect that they now have no objection to the Chinese, and that they are becoming what it means." Then Senator Mount became exceedingly indignant, and asserted with much emphasis that the editor had never signed any paper to that effect."

"If this is the view you take of your side of the case, Senator Mount, then you are right, and your paper is for the apparent determination to go to war with China?"

"I do not account for Mr. Pease's press, and your judgment is sufficient. The English speaking people in this country are mainly English subjects. The Americans who have been interested are mainly Irish, perhaps, may be. I cannot say."

A CURIOUS OLD LABOR SYSTEM.

1. Private Employees Given to His Master. Against Paid Death for Servants.
The British court at Berlin, in the course of a very interesting recent on Prussian generally, describes an old world custom of labor, known as "servitude," prevalent in that country. This consists of three parts: the payment of wages and the free labor. The wages, for the most part, are those given to the employer, being deducted from the amount of wages paid to him, less than cost of living, less than cost of labor.

In fact, they receive 1000-pounds yearly for a garden, 1000-pounds for a house, 1000-pounds for a carriage, 1000-pounds for horses, and 1000-pounds for fuel.
