

EDITORIAL NOTES.

—The N. Y. Herald of June 26 says, "Mormonism, so far from decreasing, is increasing."

—An eastern contemporary remarks that Gail Hamilton is forty, but she writes and fights like sixty.

—Mr. Tyndall has invented a respirator for firemen, which has been tested in London with entire success.

—There are said to be 300 newspaper correspondents in the Black Hills, that about 100 of them are paid to write, and the rest do it for the fun of the thing.

—The Detroit Tribune says Ohio produces nearly twice as many idiots as any other State. Ohio has 430 idiots in her asylums, and Pennsylvania, the next highest in the list, has 240 in hers.

—At a woman's rights meeting in London, June 3, Miss Becker announced that there were 2,500,000 spinsters in Great Britain, and further, that they owned property worth £150,000,000. What a lot of splendid chances running to waste.

—Charles O'Connor, the New York lawyer, thinks there are five times too many lawyers in this country. Very likely. The trouble is, there seems to be five times too many of all sorts of people in the country just now.

—An English lady of spirit, and a skilful and daring rider after the fox-hounds, announces that she will risk her life no more riding on a side-saddle, but next season she will sit on a saddle of the other sort.

—Dr. Chambers Lytle, of Bradford's Landing, Ohio, seduced Miss Boyd, of Ripley, in the same State, and declined to marry her, whereupon the girl's brother, Charles, twenty-one years old, shot the Doctor twice, wounding him fatally. The youth was not arrested.

—William Kief, of Newark, was cleaning his finger nails with a pair of scissors, when his young wife began to tease him to buy some furniture, and he became angry and threw the scissors at her. The blades penetrated her two eyes just beneath the eyeballs, and the doctor says her sight is gone forever.

—A St. Louis grand jury recommends the restoration of the local law licensing prostitution. The Sacramento Record-Union thinks the restoration of the law would be desirable, but urges that the male prostitutes as well as the female prostitutes should be subjected to periodical medical inspection.

—The first and only railway in China is a great success. The pig-tailed Mongolians rush for the cars, enjoy the rapid transit, and are talking of going into the railroad business themselves. John Chinaman has the organ of imitation highly developed. China will yet be blessed—and cursed, with all the distinctive features of modern civilization.

—Another playful fool. The Dakota City Eagle says Miss Alice Dennison was accidentally shot the other day by J. M. Brannan. They were eating ice cream in a restaurant, when Mr. Brannan took out his revolver, not thinking it was loaded, pointed it in sport at Miss Dennison, when it went off, the bullet going in at the corner of her mouth and coming out near her right ear.

—At Holyoke, England, recently, a couple of the villagers were married in one of the churches. After the conclusion of the service, and as the happy couple were marching down the aisle to leave the church, a woman rose from one of the seats and flung a baby into the hands of the bridegroom, saying that his wife would probably take care of his progeny for the future. The bridegroom stood aghast, and what the feelings of the bride were may be imagined.

—It is said that the manager of Sanger's Amphitheater was drawn, on June 9th, in a tub by four geese, from Battersea to Westminster bridge. He was dressed in a naval captain's attire, and made his start on the ebb tide to a salute of four guns, being piloted by Gosling, and conveyed by about half a dozen boats to clear the way. The geese were harnessed to the pole of the tub, and satisfactory progress was made down the river, past Vauxhall bridge, arriving at Westminster bridge about 3 o'clock, the trip having been accomplished in an hour and twenty minutes.

—Among other attractions Arizona is said to have a live volcano.

—Twenty of Col. Berdan's old sharpshooters are said to be with the Russian army on the Danube.

—It is said that Mrs. Cox, of Holderness, N. H., 101 years old on the 25th ult., is now enjoying, for the first time in her life, the delights of whooping cough.

—When comparatively young, the Hon. Mrs. Norton wrote "Love Not," but at seventy she tied a love knot of matrimony with Sir Stirling Maxwell. She had time to repent of the first act.

—Seven doctors, mostly young graduates, connected with Bellevue Hospital, New York, recently refused professional service to a woman in the hospital, who was in the pangs of maternity.

—Modern prevailing ethics are said to be thus formulated—"The science of stealing is in not being detected in the act, and the art of lying is in not being contradicted by an unimpeachable witness."

—The Worcester Press says, "It is understood that a young married couple of this city are thinking of naming their first born 'Nicsics,' because the little chap wants revictualing so often."

—Mr. Lowe, the English statesman, wants fifteen letters added to the alphabet. What for? Few people can tell which of the present twenty-six to put in a word. Why puzzle them with fifteen more?

—A telegraphic dispatch says, "The environs of Van now swarm with Kurds from the mountains to harass the retreating Russians." If the Turks fight the Russians with curds they will soon have to get out of the why.

—At Saint Foy, Department Savoie, France, it is reported a mountain has fallen in a series of land slips, burying about ten villages or hamlets. The inhabitants escaped with their lives. The noise of each fall was heard eight miles off. The loss of property is enormous.

—The New York Sun says lady travellers will smuggle and that married men know that they must either quarrel with their wives or seemingly abet their little smuggling devices. That paper further says, "There are thousands of well-bred, church-going, and in most respects God-fearing women, who will not and can not be made to see that evading the payment of duties on their personal property and that of their friends by false swearing and bribery is not a laudable exploit. They are free traders to the backbone, and put their principles in practice without awaiting the tardy reform of legislation. It is of no use to represent to them that every dollar which they ought to pay and do not pay is so much taken from the pockets of the taxpayers of the country, and therefore a species of theft, and that a false oath made to the Custom House officer is perjury, and therefore a crime against man as well as a sin against God. They shut their eyes and go it blind, and defiantly declare that they will take the consequences. We turn them over to their spiritual directors, and if these cannot influence them, they must be given up as incorrigible."

—Rev. H. W. Beecher has Friday night talks with the people of his church. On the night of June 22, according to the New York Sun, Mr. Beecher talked of the duty of Christians to curb their passions. Pastoral Helper Halliday solemnly told how bad he had been, how much better he was, and how good he thought he ought to be. He formerly swore, he said, but since he became a Christian he had sworn only once, that is, outside. Mr. Beecher wanted to know "how about inside." Mr. Halliday said sometimes oaths had passed before his mind, but he did not detain them. He said that he formerly smoked cigars, but on joining the church he cast away his tobacco. Brother Tommy Sherman said he knew good Christians—deacons, some of them—who swore at times, drank at times, and lied at times. He doubted whether these occasional relapses should be made the pretext of denying to them the privilege of church work. Mr. Beecher thought a kleptomaniac was hardly a fit person to instruct children in Sunday School. Mr. Sherman thought lying was worse than stealing. He didn't think that anything could bring him to tell a lie. At which the audience smiled numerous, for Brother Sherman is a lawyer.

—Says an exchange, "I promise to pay" is the great financial bane of the American people to-day, and their only hope for prosperity is in exchanging it for the more potent maxim: "I pay now."

—The Bridgeport (Conn.) Standard says a young man shot at a lady friend, and he set up in defence that he was "possessed of a devil," whereupon the judge sentenced him to be confined in the State prison, "devil and all; so there will be one devil less loose in the community for those few years, which is an improvement so far as it goes."

—The San Bernardino (Cal.) Times says, "The Mormons are more thrifty than most people imagine. They are in a prosperous condition and are steadily increasing in numbers. From published statistics we learn that they have thirty incorporated cities, three million dollars' worth of irrigating canals, three hundred and fifty-eight school-houses, twelve newspapers, missionaries in every nation in the world, their militia numbers 20,000, six cotton and woolen factories, 500 miles of railroads and telegraphs all over the Territory. Their missionaries send an average of 3,000 emigrants every year."

WENT TO THE NOTED HOT SPRINGS.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 27, 1876.
DEAR SIR:—I suffered more or less for years with the itching or ulcerated Piles. I tried remedy after remedy advertised in the newspapers, and consulted physicians in Philadelphia, Louisville, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, and this city, and spent hundreds of dollars, but found no relief and comfort until I obtained a box of Williams' Indian Ointment some four months ago, and it has cured me completely. I had a part of the box left which I gave to a friend of mine who had doctored with many physicians without relief, and as a last resort went to the noted Hot Springs, of Arkansas, for treatment. He informs me that the Indian Ointment has also cured him of the piles. It is certainly a wonderful discovery and should be used by the many thousands who are now suffering with that dread disease.
