

RUMORS APPEAR TO BE PHANTOMS

Likely Advent of a Hearst Paper Here is Discussed on The Street.

DISCLAIMERS FROM MANY.

A. N. McKay Says He is Out of Newspaper Business to Stay—Founded on Telegram to Yellow Journalist

There is a persistent rumor going the rounds to the effect that W. R. Hearst is to start a paper in this city, called the Salt Lake Examiner, with the "Yellow Kids, Happy Hooligans, Katzenjammer's" matter for which some of his papers are noted. It is also reported that the former Herald staff, almost to a man, received advice to remain in Salt Lake City for at least two weeks, and not accept permanent positions; also that A. N. McKay, formerly managing editor of the Herald, would be managing editor of the new paper and that Eugene Palmer, formerly city editor of the Herald, would be Mr. McKay's first lieutenant.

This all seems reasonable and logical enough in some respects—to some people—but several lines were carefully followed by the "News" today with the result that absolutely nothing of a tangible nature, so far as this rumor is concerned, could be obtained.

The recent newspaper shakeup, incident to the consolidation of the Herald and Inter-Mountain Republican, has given rise to many stories of the kind indicated, one of them being that Col. E. A. Wall had an option on the evening edition of the Tribune. Col. Wall was seen this morning by a "News" representative and said:

"There is absolutely nothing in that story. I have no option on the Tribune or any other paper here. I don't want it. By saying that I do not mean to be offensive. Some of my friends expressed the thought that, 'my friend Jackling has a newspaper, I should have one. But, there is nothing in the report.'"

WIRED TO HEARST.

As to the story of a Hearst paper being started here, it was no doubt started from the fact that Sam King, a few days ago, wired to New York, expecting to find Mr. Hearst there and possibly induce him to start a Democratic paper here, but the answer came back that Hearst was in Europe and would be gone back in a few days. That ended the matter, at least until Mr. Hearst returns and local Democrats decide what, if anything, they propose to do to secure an organ for their party.

When A. N. McKay was spoken to about the matter this afternoon, he emphatically denied any knowledge of steps to start a Hearst paper here. He was equally emphatic in the statement that he is out of the newspaper business.

"I am out of the newspaper business," said Mr. McKay, "and I am not engaged by Mr. Hearst nor anyone else to act as managing editor. As I said, I am out of the game and don't propose to go back."

"Whenever there is a consolidation of papers there is usually a follow story to the effect that Hearst will start one in the city where the consolidation takes place, but I do not believe he will start a paper here."

Mr. Palmer, who is now in the real estate and insurance business, laughed at the great big, heavy laugh which asked if he were to be first lieutenant under Mr. McKay on a Hearst staff newspaper.

PALMER WOULD NOT DO IT.

"If I can't be a captain I won't be anything," laughed Mr. Palmer. "So far as I am concerned there is nothing to it. Why, my payroll amounts to more than the Inter-Mountain and Herald combined and do you suppose I am going back to the business and work for a salary?"

The story that Col. Wall had an option on the Tribune probably had its source from the fact that a number of prominent Democrats met recently and discussed the possibilities of securing that publication for their party organ. It is said that Thomas Kearns was asked for his price for the sheet but the figure he named almost gave the prospective buyers heart failure—and the paper was not sold.

There had also been some talk of starting another paper here and securing the Hearst telegraphic news service, but that is hardly to be done, at least not for six months or more. The contract with the Hearst service and the Inter-Mountain Republican is still in force and does not expire for six months. That the service will be discontinued, seems most likely, as the hyphenated paper has the Associated Press service and it seems unreasonable that it will continue to pay $200 a week for the Hearst wire in addition to the cost of the A. P. report.

RUN DOWN BY AUTO.

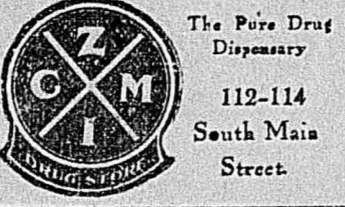

Miss Glenn Boilegrain, whose home is at No. 625 Colorado avenue, Grand Junction, was injured today in an automobile accident near Twelfth South and Eleventh East streets. She was taken to No. 114 south Eleventh East and attended by Dr. Ernest Van Cott, who found her bruised and lacerated but not seriously injured. The automobile belonged to Kimball and Richards and was being driven by Russell Richards at the time of the accident. The chauffeur claims the young woman stepped in front of the machine as it passed her.

ROGERS WAXES WARM IN ASKING SENTENCE

Scathing Language Used in Addressing Court in Case Involving Dirty Milk.

David Howard and James H. Howard, Jr., pleaded guilty in Judge Bowman's court today to having violated the pure food ordinance by selling impure milk.

Although their attorney, N. T. Porter, put forward a plea for clemency in their sentence, citing to the court the fact that the new ordinance is so stringent in some of its respects that the milk dealers had had barely time in which to comply with the requirements and asserting that the defendants directed their arrest have now complied with the law, Asst. City Atty. Rogers sprung the sensation of the court session by urging that the maximum fine if not a prison sentence be imposed.

Without mincing his words the prosecutor practically accused one of the defendants of having been at least indirectly responsible for the recent death of a child through having furnished impure milk.

Mr. Rogers' statement to the court urging the imposition of a heavy sentence was met by the defendants with a scathing language he referred to the fact that the defendants admitted having sold milk that contained sediment and was therefore impure.

"There can be no excuse for any man selling milk containing a sediment. These men are supposed to be reputable citizens and the business men, yet they seem to be careless. They are willing to sell milk that is not only unfit for human consumption but unfit for hogs even."

So severe was Mr. Rogers' denunciation that Mr. Porter, counsel for the defendants, stated that if such matters were to be considered he wished to withdraw the plea and take further time. After a consultation between the prosecutor and Mr. Porter, Mr. Rogers stated to the court that he had been informed by Mr. Porter that the Howard who had sold the milk to the family in which the child's death occurred was a different man from the defendants. It was decided that this afternoon a hearing between City Food Inspector Walter J. Frazier, Prosecutor Rogers, Atty. Porter and the defendants would be held to settle the various accusations, and the case was continued until tomorrow morning.

THE WORCESTER CLUB.

Visitors from Massachusetts to be Entertained Here Tomorrow.

There was a largely attended meeting of the members of the entertainment committee at the Commercial club at lunch in the club rooms today. The meeting was called by the board of governors, who asked the committee to outline a program for the entertainment of the Commercial club of Worcester, Massachusetts, which, 75 strong, will pass through Salt Lake on its return from the Seattle fair tomorrow. The main outfit comprised an automobile trip about town after the visitors have had breakfast. The Tabernacle recital at noon will then be attended, after which there will be reception and lunch at the rooms of the Commercial club, the visitors departing for the D. & R. G. depot, where they resume their journey homeward, at 3 p. m.

A special committee consisting of Messrs. A. J. Davis, Lester Freed and D. S. Spencer, was appointed to handle the details by the chairman of the entertainment committee, Mr. H. G. Whitney.

REWARD FOR FLAG.

The national standard of the G. A. R. which was placed beside the commander-in-chief on the reviewing stand on the day of the parade, was lost in some manner after the parade was over. If the flag is returned to the office of the executive director, in the Commercial Club building, a reward will be given.

COURT NEWS

SHORT LINE WINS.

Suit to Condemn Property Decided in Favor of Railroad.

The Oregon Short Line Railroad company won its condemnation suit this morning in Judge Lewis' court against James A. Brown, administrator of the estate of Elias Morris and sixteen heirs. The property involved is part of lot 7, block 66, plat A, Salt Lake City survey, which is situated between Third and Fourth West streets and Second and Third South streets. The judgment was entered by Judge Lewis, the property being decided upon outside of court.

WIFE A FELON.

William Saunders Seeks Divorce from Woman Who is in Jail.

Mrs. Sallie Saunders, who is serving a term in the state prison of Texas, was made the defendant in a divorce suit filed this morning in the Third district court by her husband, William Saunders. They were married in Cripple Creek on Jan. 21, 1901. According to the complaint, Mrs. Saunders deserted him on Feb. 1, 1904, and he heard nothing of her until Jan. 1, 1908, when she was convicted of a felony in Texas.

WIFE CHARGES DESERTION.

Mrs. Anna J. Stevens brought suit for divorce against J. Stuart Stevens and the charge of desertion in a complaint filed this morning in the Third district court. Stevens disappeared from Salt Lake under mysterious circumstances on May 2, 1908. Since that time Mrs. Stevens has conducted a rooming house at 157 west First South street in order to make a living. They were married in Salt Lake on Feb. 4, 1903, and have no children.

SUIT FOR WAGES.

G. W. Geary filed suit against the Dairy company in the Third district court this morning to recover $200 in wages due from this company. He was manager of the company, according to the complaint, for six months and when he left the amount he sues for was still owing him.

WANTS PROPERTY BACK.

Charlotte Midgley brought an action against Frank Nash this morning in the Third district court to recover possession of a piece of property which she had sold him on the installment plan. According to the complaint Nash has failed to carry out his part of the agreement by failing to pay the installment due from this company, purchased for $2,500 on April 8, 1905.

FILED IN U. S. COURT.

The case of the Utah Light & Power company vs. The Traveler's Insurance company, which was filed in the Third district court, has been transferred to the United States district court.

STRONGER FORFEITS.

What's in a name was defined in court this morning when Charles Stronger forfeited $10 for the privilege of showing his strength, both physically and vocally. Stronger was charged with disturbing the peace and the dignity of a certain portion of Salt Lake and one of its policemen last night.

TEN SPOT FOR TURPIN.

Tom Turpin, although not claiming lineage from Dick Turpin, acknowledged some of the family traits this morning. He "guessed" he had been drinking and had disturbed the peace and when informed by the court that there could be no guesswork about the matter, he concluded that he had made a noise. The family name and admission of the family trait cost him $10.

DISTRICT COURT NOTES.

Because her husband, Herman Weiss, attacked Richard Downey at her home, 4 Sheldredine court, with a knife and stabbed him, Mrs. Anna Weiss brought suit for divorce against him yesterday in the Third district court. She also charges that her husband has been cruel to her and several times deserted her, leaving her in destitute circumstances. She asks for the custody of her daughter, Alma, 11 years old. They were married at Buffalo, New York, on Nov. 26, 1895. Weiss is the proprietor of the Swan billiard hall, which is a good paying business. She asks for $50 a month alimony and attorney fees.

Joseph Hause is seeking possession of a piece of property from his wife, Mrs. Mary Hause, which he deeded to her to satisfy her. In his complaint he says that she has refused to return the property and that she is now attempting to sell it. The property is valued at $4,000.

Six restaurants and cafes are charged with furnishing adulterated milk to patrons during the G. A. R. encampment in complaints sworn to yesterday by Deputy State Food Commissioner Heber O. Smith. The deputy secured ten samples from the restaurants and the milk tested four came up to the standard but the other six were below. In the faulty samples the butter fat was found to be 1.4 per cent, while the standard is 3.2 per cent.

LATE LOCALS.

Trains Late—Rio Grande trains 1 and 2 are indefinitely late on account of the washouts east of Grand Junction.

Methodist Conference—The annual conference of the Methodist church begins tomorrow, continuing through Sunday, with Bishop Berry as moderator.

Concert by Cadet Band—The High School band will give a recital tomorrow afternoon at Saltair prior to "taking the field" on the Seattle excursion.

Secy. Beatty in Payson—Secretary Beatty of the state board of health went to Payson yesterday, where he gave the local populace a talking to last evening in support of vaccination.

Goes to Connecticut—Manager Chester Olmstead of the Angelus hotel at Los Angeles, who has been stopping to town for a few days, has gone to Water Conn., to visit with his mother's family.

Prof. Blum Leaves—Prof. Blum of the University has resigned and leaves the city Friday next for Washington, D. C., where he has accepted service in the interior bureau. Dr. Blum has been specially active in Lutheran church affairs and evangelical circles generally where he will be much missed.

Have Breathing Spell—At noon today the clerks in the Rio Grande passenger offices managed to secure a breathing spell. They estimate that the G. A. R. visitors number nearer 30,000 than 15,000. One Hundred and fifty extra sleepers went out this week over the Rio Grande, loaded with passengers.

PRESS REPORTS ERRONEOUS.

Prest. Smith Receives Telegram from Source Which Denies Them.

Press reports having been published to the effect that Alexander Smith, son of the Prophet Joseph Smith, had died at Nauvoo, and later that Arthur Smith, son of Joseph Smith, president of the Reorganized church, had also died suddenly while attending religious services at Montrose, Iowa, President Joseph F. Smith telegraphed his cousin Joseph for a verification of these reports, and this day received the following in answer, signed by Alexander Smith: "Joseph Smith is in Lamoni, where Uncle Alexander was buried on Sunday. Other report a mistake."

IS PIE DOOMED?

French Gastronomic Trinkets Displacing Them, a Baker Says.

"Pie is falling off as an article of food," said the big baker, "I don't believe in all of New York the pie foundries are turning out more than 75,000 pies a day. Perhaps it isn't nearly so bad here, but it is certainly a fact. Official statements from them, all the pie people would claim they were doing a rushing business. But pie isn't what it used to be. It looks to me as if it will never be what it was."

"You only find this out if you're a pie manufacturer and start in to sell pie to the trade. The little corner grocer, who has a few pies on hand, can't handle nearly so much pie as he used to. It's remarkable when a grocer sells over four or five pies a day. So a friend of mine who has a route tells me. The pie people don't make pie just one pie each day in every tenement house would be an exception. There just doesn't seem the demand for it there once more."

"How do I explain it? Oh, very easily. Pie is an American dish. The pie foundry, which has been a corner of money in the past, is a purely American institution. Our big cities are getting to be less and less purely American. New York especially. The foreign element is pouring in by thousands. It doesn't seem to care for the American pie, no matter what flavor you make it. Italian, Greek, Jew, German, Roumanian, Russian, none of them finds any attraction in the crusty delicacy we call pie. Americans always have thought so too."

"When I go out to dinner with my friends I don't seem to get pie for dessert nearly as much as I did. This has been the case for some time. I don't strike me. And even the best restaurants don't appear to have the pie assortment of years ago. They run in French kitchens and lose making pie. You can get fine pie in those places when you order it, but there isn't the chance there used to be."

Perhaps it's because, generally speaking, the pie foundry is a very old-fashioned middle class place as well as we did. Maybe it's altogether too much of a commercial product instead of a labor of love."

It is that pie has been in this country, and other sweet things, besides the raw fruits, are taking the place of it.

No matter how good the modern pie was, I don't think it would make any difference in its consumption. Somebody said the other day that it was getting to be one of the "fads" of the day. I think he was about right. A wise man in Brooklyn figured out not long ago that only every tenth man ate pie regularly these days. My pie foundry says he seems to know whereof he speaks."

A FORTUNE IN SIGHT.

An Inventor Waiting for the Era of Aeroplanes.

"I was left, as you might say," said an inventor who keeps his eyes open and makes it his business to invent appliances and appurtenances adapted to the needs of the day, "that I was waiting for the era of aeroplanes. When the bicycle craze first struck us I failed to get into the field promptly with clothing suited to bicyclists' wants, the manufacturer of the bicycle, I remember, speedily became at that time a large and profitable industry, but I can tell you that I shall not be left when the craze for aerial navigation comes. I have a suit of armor that I expect will be to travelers in the air by the sea. If not more, and I don't see how this suit can fail to be of benefit to me."

"My aviator's suit is a combination spring and pneumatic envelope, which, when properly put on, will break the shock of any fall. Its inflation with air is intended to add to the comfort and luxury of its use, but this inflation is not absolutely essential to the suit's service. If it should become, from any cause, deflated, the springs will serve their purpose fully, though the jar on striking with the deflated suit would be somewhat greater."

"This suit is so constructed and so worn that no matter how you hit the ground you are all right. You may remember a few times before you finally bound a rest, the height and the number of these rebounds depending, of course, largely on the height from which you fall, and the nature of the ground on which you drop. Whether, for instance, it should be rock or soft earth, or, as might be, the roof of a house. My aviator's suit, if properly worn, will save you from injury by its distinctively resilient elasticity, save the aviator every time."

"In short, with one of my aviator's suits on, one may travel the air quite free from care, and what air traveler can afford to be without one?"

"Yes, yes, Hm, hm." And the inventor smiled a little as he spoke.

"Yes," he said, "certainly was left a little in the bicycle days, but when we are hit by the air—crazy, I shall be present with the goods."

MONTROSE FOLDER.

Rio Grande Issues Interesting Matter Regarding Tunnel.

In view of the approaching visit of the president of the United States to the far west, and his stopping at Montrose, Colo., to turn the water through the new Gunnison tunnel, the passenger department of the Denver & Rio Grande has published a special folder, the frontpiece of which depicts Uncle Sam as mopping his brow with the orthodox red bandana, exclaiming, "The Gunnison tunnel is done," and with the representation of a tremendous rush of water through the mouth of the tunnel. The great bore carries the waters of the Gunnison river under the mountain to the west 30,000 feet, or 5 1/2 miles into the Uncompahgre valley, watering over 100,000 acres of arable lands. The folder gives a succinct account of the origin and progress of the great work, with illustrations, and is quite handy for reference at any time.

TO USE MOTORS ON O. S. L.

Two of the new Union Pacific gasoline motor cars recently ordered by the Short Line for the Ogden-Malad service will be in the city next week. It is stated that when the double tracking of the Short Line between this city and Ogden has been completed motor cars will be run over the line. Each car seats 60 people, with doors on the car side as on English railways, the motor being at the front end with the baggage compartment immediately behind. Motor cars are to run later on between this city, Tintic, Tooele and Provo.

CHANGE IN TIME CARD.

The San Pedro will make a change in its time card Aug. 29, when train 62 will leave Lynn at 6:50 a. m., arriving in this city at 12:30.

DOUBLE TRACK ORDERED.

The Oregon Short Line is to double track for the 24 miles between McCammon Junction and Pocatello as soon as possible. The work will greatly facilitate the dispatching of trains between those two points. The building of a branch line between Layton and the Union Pacific at Weber canyon will shorten the through time to Los Angeles from the east by two hours.

NEW TRAIN SCHEDULES.

Oregon Short Line Inaugurates New Through Service.

The Oregon Short Line will inaugurate a new through train between Chicago and Portland, Ore., Sunday, Aug. 22, reducing the present service by 13 hours. The train is to be electric lighted, and otherwise provided with the latest and most improved train equipment, looking toward the absolute comfort and safety of patrons. Instead of leaving Chicago at 10 p. m., as at present, the new limited is to leave at 11:30 a. m., arriving Portland at 8:30 the third morning, instead of 7:20 p. m., and reaching Seattle at 3:05 p. m. East bound, the limited will leave Seattle at 11 a. m., arriving Portland at 5:20 p. m., leaving 5:45 p. m., 15 hours earlier than the old schedule, and reaching Chicago at 7:45 p. m. on the third day. The old time of arrival was 7:20 a. m. the following morning. The two trains will be known as 6 west bound and 6 east bound, and will carry mail, express, and standard sleepers, observation cars, diners, etc. There will be no connection with Salt Lake trains, the route being via Granger and Pocatello. To protect the Salt Lake traffic, the Oregon Short Line will put on an additional train out of Pocatello, to connect with No. 9, which leaves this city at 11:30 p. m., running through Pocatello, arriving there at 7:20 a. m., the old regular hour of arrival. The train will carry Boise and Twin Falls cars as well as standard sleepers and chairs for Portland. No. 10, the east bound train, is to leave Portland at 7:20 p. m., arriving in Salt Lake at 8:30 a. m. the second morning, on the time of the present No. 4. New time schedules for the morning train published showing the changes mentioned.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR CADETS.

The special train to carry the High school cadets to Seattle will be made up of nine standard sleepers, a kitchen car and two baggage cars.

General Agent C. S. Nicholas of the Denver & Rio Grande and wife, of Chicago, are visiting in this city with Col. and Mrs. L. A. Benton.

TO HYPNOTIZE BAD BOYS.

Hypnotism as a cure for bad boys and girls has been officially recognized by Probation Officers C. M. Young and Ida McFarland in the Des Moines Juvenile courts. Prof. Edgar Adams, a hypnotist of repute, has been placed in charge of a half-dozen incorrigibles, and if he succeeds in effecting their reform by hypnotic arts, as he says he can, he will be given other youngsters to cure.

Adams began his work upon Frank Burnes, who has given the probation officers a great deal of trouble.

Young Burnes went to sleep quietly enough and the professor "turned his mind around," as he characterized it. He gave the youngsters orders to go to school, mind his parents and otherwise conduct himself in a more seemly manner, then woke him up.
