Pursuant to Section II of Chapter XI. of the laws of the Territory of Utah, passed at the twenty ninth session of the Legislative Assembly, the undersigned, the collector of the county of Salt Lake, Territory aforesaid, hereby gives notice of publication, that the above named Persons are delinquent in the payment of Territorial, school, county or special district school taxes, in said county for the year 1890, to the amount set opposite their respective names.

The same will be exposed for sale at the front door of the County Court House, in Salt Lake City, on the third Monday in December, 1890, at 12 o'clock noon, and the sale will be continued from day to day until the delinquent list is exhausted.

L. G. HARDY,
Collector Salt Lake County, Utah.

SUMMONS.

In the District Court in and for the Third Judicial District of Utah Territory, County of Salt Lake.

LIZZIE PURMAN, Plaintiff, vs.
MACK S. PURMAN, Defendant. } Summons.

The People of the Territory of Utah send Greeting:

To Mack S. Purman, Defendant.

YOU ARE HEREBY REQUIRED TO appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Utah, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to have a decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, and for such other and further relief in the premises as may be just and equitable. Above relief prayed on the grounds that for more than three years last past defendant has failed to provide for plaintiff the common necessaries of life, not having contributed at all to her support during that time; and that plaintiff and defendant have not lived together as husband and wife for more than three years last past.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded therein.

Witness the Hon. Charles S. Zane, Judge, and the Seal of the District Court of the Third Judicial District, in and for the Territory of Utah, this 11th day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

[SEAL.] HENRY G. McMILLAN, Clerk.

INTERESTING TO FARMERS.

HOW TO FATTEN FOWLS FOR THE MARKET.

The following interesting discourse on feeding fowls for the market we take from an exchange:

Fattening must not be began until the fowl has attained its full growth; before this, in fact, you cannot fatten well, although, of course, all extra food that will be digested is never lost. The pullets are best taken before they have begun to lay; the male birds before their tails begin to turn, that is, when the two sickle feathers begin to top the straight feathers of the tail. The average age will be four months in summer and five to six in winter, but will be early according to the previous feeding has or has not been judiciously generous. Fowls not well fed from the first do not fatten well. Properly fed chicks of the larger breeds come in nicely at four or five months, and are of three to four pounds weight; much younger than this their flesh has not firmness enough to make good eating. Earlier ages than this are, however, attained by certain crosses, probably because crossing gives a more vigorous constitution generally. Such a cross, for instance, as of a Houdan cock with a half-bred Brahma or Dorking hens has produced chickens fit to market, without need of special fattening, at ten weeks.

The food in fattening forms only part of the things to be considered. The fowls should be kept quiet; all excitement and activity uses up just so much material. To secure this confine ten or a dozen together in a small pen, taking care to put together such fowls as are accustomed to run in company, otherwise they will quarrel. The cocks must be removed from the hens. These coops must be kept scrupulously clean and, above all, free from vermin. Lousy fowls will not fatten easily. However, the flesh of confined fowls does not have so fine a flavor as those allowed to run. Turkeys must not be cooped or they will get lean.

The quarters should be warm; this is a prime requisite. Not hot, of course, but so warm as to need no assistance from the fat of the body of the animal. They should be kept dark for at least a part of the time. Some throw a blanket over the coops for an hour or two after each meal. Pitch darkness is not required, only a state that shall produce the greatest amount of quiet. In all these arrangements, however, care must be taken not to prevent proper ventilation; the breeder must endeavor to obtain the greatest amount of health possible under the unnatural circumstances. The place must also be dry. There should be no perches.

In the choice of the particular food to be given, breeders are tolerably well agreed. We must avoid a great quantity of vegetables, as those given in excess keep the bowels too open, and the same is to be said of green food in general. Table scraps are to be discontinued, also all the animal food containing much lean meat; to fat there is no objection, given in small quantities, except that it is said to deteriorate the fineness and flavor of the flesh. Meat proves too exciting for our present purpose.

All authorities are agreed upon this point—that in America, at least, corn is the best and cheapest food for the purpose. But even this should not be given constantly and to the exclusion of all other food; variety ought to be sought, keeping in view the leading principle of maintaining digestive vigor as long as possible. Variety, indeed, can begin with the corn itself, which may be used in its different forms—raw, cracked and whole, cooked and uncooked—but the whole grain should be very sparingly used. A mush of warm meal, cooked in skimmed milk, will give a rich, golden hue to the flesh. The other grains—oats, buckwheat, etc.—may be fed occasionally for a change. In France buckwheat meal is the article mainly relied on. Barley, mixed half and half with corn meal, is useful. Potatoes, which are rich in starchy substances, can be added to the dietary scheme, and used largely in Liverpool, baked or steamed, given three or four times a day, in fattening fowls, but as they have so little oil, they cannot be so good as a number of other articles. They may be mixed with the meal and so may, with great advantage, the common yellow carrot.

A good system of feeding recommended for variety is to give on the first day scalded, mashed corn meal with boiled potatoes; on the second, turnips and oatmeal; on the third, rice and carrots. Miss Martineau thinks well of the stale cakes made with ground oats or beans, brown sugar, milk and mutton suet, crumbled and given morning and evening, at the rate of a gill to each fowl. Milk is a good drink now; fowls when fattening become very particular about their drink, and will not touch any water but the freshest and purest.

All the varieties of food should be cooked and, so far as possible, given warm. Salt and cayenne pepper are to be used in moderate quantities, and a good rule is to increase the amount of them a little as the process goes on, and as the digestive organs become accustomed to their use and begin to flag a little. Charcoal seems to exercise a very favorable influence.

After shutting the fowls up let them fast for several hours, so as to give them a good appetite for their first feed; if this is not done they may continue to mope and feed daintily under their new circumstances. Feed every four hours during the day, beginning early and stopping late and giving at a time only just what they will eat, so as not to disgust them or take the edge from off their appetites.

Millard Stake Conference.

The regular quarterly conference of the Millard Stake of Zion was held at Fillmore City, November 23rd and 24th.

We were not favored with the presence of any of the general authorities, but on the stand were the Presidency of the Stake, most of the members of the High Council, Presidents of Quorums, Bishops, etc. The meetings were well attended, and the meeting house was, as usual, too small.

The reports of the spiritual and temporal condition of the Saints in the different wards were quite favorable. The general and local authorities were presented and unanimously sustained by vote. Besides the regular conference business, the time was occupied by President I. N. Hinckley, Daniel Thompson, D. R. Stevens, Elders J. E. Hickman, C. Anderson, W. E. Ridalch, J. D. Smith and Bishop T. C. Callister, in speaking upon various topics pertaining to the duties of the Saints. A rich portion of the Spirit of God was enjoyed both by the speakers and hearers, and the manifestations were wonderful, grand and sublime. Some prophesied, others sang and spoke in tongues, followed by interpretations, others again heard singing by invisible beings. It was a time of rejoicing and strong testimony.

C. ANDERSON,
Stake Clerk.

JETS OF GINGER.

A Rhode Island man left all his money—about $40,000—to the African missionary work, and not a cent to his relatives, some of whom were very poor. The will was contested and broken, the law held that he must have been crazy when he wrote it.

Greek in Modern Athens—Professor Digamma (instructing young ladies in Homer)—"Now, Miss Beaconhill, can you tell us why Achilles sulked in his tent?"

Miss Clytemnestra (slightly confused)—"Er-ah-I believe it was because his fiance flirted with Agamemnon!"—Puck.

"What was the greatest act of Thomas Jefferson's life?" inquired the teacher.

And the shock-headed boy, who hadn't studied the lesson, scratched his left shin with his right foot and said he guessed it was the last act of "Rip Van Winkle."—Lakeside Bazoo.

Wilson—"I despise a hypocrite."

Tomson—"So do I. Now, take Jackson for example; he's the biggest hypocrite on earth. I despise that man."

"But you appear to be his best friend."

"O, yes; I try to appear friendly towards him. It pays better in the end."—Brooklyn Life.

Mr. Tangle—"Tommy, your mother tells me that you are falling into the evil habit of talking slang."

Tommy Tangle—"Yes, pa, but I'll try not to."

Mr. Tangle—"Well, you'd better not let me catch you using slang. I'd teach you! I'd pound you for a home run, young fell, and just everlastingly knock the stuffing out of you! I'll have no slang in this house."—Light.

The two old friends met accidentally for the first time in ten or fifteen years. "Well," he said, "you are still Lucy Henderby, are you?" "Yes," she replied. "still Lucy Henderby." "It isn't your fault, I know," he rejoined, meaning to say something complimentary. "That is," he added nervously, feeling that he had not expressed himself exactly in the way he had intended, "I mean that you're not to blame, you know. You couldn't help it—er—that is, it was the fault of the young men. They, you know," he went on, breaking out in a profuse perspiration, "couldn't be expected —h'm! ha!—to—er—well, I must be going. Ever so glad to have met you!"—Chicago Tribune.

WINTER WISDOM.

Don't be afraid of fresh air, but avoid draughts.

Don't go out of doors for a second without extra covering.

In selecting your winter underclothing, choose that which is warm and yet more or less open in texture.

Take off your overcoat when you enter a warm place, whether office or private dwelling, even if your visit is to last only three minutes.

If you catch cold or develop a cough, get rid of it at once. This is better than feeling "blue" and thinking that pneumonia or consumption has marked you as a victim.

Cold Comfort.

"We can die only once," the doctor said,
Consoling his patient, nearly dead.
He answered: "That's where the trouble is;
If a dozen times I wouldn't mind this."

"Where's Weery, this morning?" asked one gas office clerk of another.

"At home resting, I guess, from excessive fatigue."

"Why, what's he been doing?"

"He moved an adjournment at the meeting of the precinct social last night."

Pugmire, deceased, Henry Dinwoodey, as executor of the last will and testament of Jonathan Pugmire, senior, deceased, Defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Utah, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

This action is brought to have a decree of this court requiring the defendants to set forth the nature of their claims and determining all the adverse claims of the defendants, so that certain piece or parcel of land situated in the city and county of Salt Lake, Utah Territory, bounded and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at the northwest corner of Lot 5, Block 56, Plat A, Salt Lake City survey, running thence south 6 rods, thence east 7½ rods, thence north 6 rods, thence west 7½ rods to the place of beginning; adjudging that the defendants have no estate or interest whatever in or to said premises, or any part thereof, and that the title of the plaintiffs thereto is good and valid; and debarring the defendants and each of them from asserting any claim whatever in or to said land and premises adverse to the plaintiffs; and for such other and further relief as to the court shall seem meet and equitable and for costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded therein.

Witness, the Hon. Charles S. Zane, Judge, and the Seal of the District Court of the Third Judicial District, in and for the Territory of Utah, this 1st day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety.

[SEAL.] HENRY G. McMILLAN, Clerk.
By GEO. D. LOOMIS, Deputy Clerk.

OGDEN COLLEGE,

WM. A. OBENCHAIN, A. M., PRESIDENT.

DEAR SIR:

I am more than pleased with my "Howe" Ventilating Stove, and cannot say too much in its praise. In the first place, It is the only base burner I have ever seen that is constructed on correct principles, while in heating capacity and economy of fuel it is all that you claim for it. In the fresh air which it warms and diffuses throughout the house there is a balminess of temperature which I have never found in the heat of any other stove; not even when sitting close to the stove is there any sense of oppressiveness.

Very truly yours,

WM. A. OBENCHAIN, Prest.

The "Howe" Ventilator stands today the most remarkable discovery in heating stove construction. We will cheerfully refund the price of any stove not proving Perfectly Satisfactory.
