The Industrial Need.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 21, 1894.

Editor Deseret News:

It seems to be a question of how the so-called industrial army will be received and disposed of by the authorities at Washington. That to my mind will depend more on the spirit that prevails the minds of the authorities than upon the army. The latter may be called tramps and vagrants, but tramps are not born, tramps are made. Doubtless there are many factors which have contributed to produce the present unpleasant condition of things. Possibly why our late civil war was largely responsible. The tramp element did not bring the war, it has converged from, and multiplied rapidly. Probably the calling in and housing up of our circulating medium of a year ago in the interest of heavy gold capitalists may have something to do with it. Where we see the effects we naturally look for causes. Whatever the causes are, we know the results are here, and these we have to grapple with.

The laborer in every sphere may have and has grown extravagant and even prodigal, and has grown arrogant in demanding more for his labor than the capitalist could afford to pay and do justice to himself. A distilling all this, which we do, and even, affirm that the laborer of today grumbles and gets twice as much as the same class got thirty or forty years ago, and yet he is not evidently responsible only in a small part for our present hard conditions.

Allow me to digress a little from the subject matter. To my understanding this social feeling between capital and labor is all wrong. They should be in harmony one with another. One is just as important and indispensable in carrying on business of the world as the other, and unless they cease their hostilities to each other it will be mixed with other like ingredients, finally culminating in the destruction of our government.

But now for the remedy. In this last ripple in our political or financial waters, my motto is peace. Let Congress vote an appropriation of sufficient sums at that every man may be set at work and be paid fair wages, such as we used to give and go years ago, before we became so lavishly extravagant. There are plenty of places for the work to be applied. Our country is broad, and our nation wealthy and can well afford to beautify its parks and grounds, fortify better and more elaborately its coast and rivers, cities and towns. Labor is wealth when rightly applied. I hail it to be a good, and, I may say, an indispensable national policy to have in progress sufficient public works in various localities to absorb all the surplus labor within its borders. Likewise revoke the contract, while humanely rightly shrewd and reasonably compensated long sentiment and happiness as well as health and wealth. I build it to be the duty of every statesman and citizen of our nation but of all nations, to devise ways and means of employment for its unemployed subjects, or at least secure to interested in knowing that this is done. They thereby show themselves fathers and not masters. We speak with reverence of the "Father of his country," and of our revolutionary fathers who fought, suffered and made sacrifices to emancipate themselves and us from oppression. A father provides for his household. A loyal subject of any nation is a part of the household of the nation. He never obtains majority. He is always subject to the call of his country, and shall our country heed his cry for bread? I say yes, if he is willing to work for it.

The Utah Commission.

It is quite generally believed in some quarters that there is for Utah Commission now on account of all the old members having been retired and the appointment of the new not having been confirmed by the Senate. That body, however, is confidently expected to act in the matter within the next few days and it is believed that the appointees will be approved of notwithstanding an effort on the part of certain politicians to "knock out" one or two of the President's appointees.

"There need be no fear," said a gentleman today who claims to be posted on the question, "but that the Senate will act in time for the commission to get together and appoint judges and transact the necessary business for conducting the Carbon county election on the first of May next as provided for by executive proclamation."

A large number of people in this city, remarks the Lacrosse (Wyo.) Boomerang, will remember Henry Dahl, a miner who was engaged at La Plata about two years ago, and who was one of the company who made an effort to organize a large company, the men putting in their work as capital against a small amount which was to be contributed by those not practical in the development of mining property. The report comes to Lacrosse that Mr. Dahl, who is now at Cripple Creek, finds a valuable discovery there recently and has sold out his interest for $25,000. The information also comes that he expects to return to Lacrosse this summer and go out and proceed to mine according to his own views. He is supposed to have the money and it is understood that he will bring a number of experienced Colorado miners with him.

RACING MEN

Think twice before deciding to ride another wheel than the "Yellow Fellow". A man here wrote to his college mate in Ohio, who is now in the Bicycle business, telling a wheel well known here but not the "Sterling," as to what wheel he should get for his last mount. His friend replied, saying, "Get the 'Sterling' it is unquestionably the speediest and smoothest Bicycle made today, and if there is a 'Sterling' on the track and you are out on it you won't be in it." No man can drive an "ice wagon" to the front, and what will it matter to you, my boy, whether you have the good will or the ill will of the interested Bicycle agent? What salary will you find in the specious promises of a man with a wheel to sell; the promises of the man who put his "bread and butter" by cracking up the wheel, which you (as the other fellow is, parodies though it be,) the wheel that "leads—others follow"? Is racing, in the races near May? Think over it and you will ride the wheel to win, to at least you will have a fair chance to, that holds losing sentence (as) Would a number—the jockey's "Yellow Fellow."

"GENDRON"

Cycles, suitable for medium weight and heavy riders, the best wheel that can be made by men of the very highest reputation in the mechanical world, aided by one of the most perfectly equipped plants for the making of Cycles in the world. Only two more to sell at $75.00. Then the price will be $100 for the "GENDRONS," then $90 for the "GENDRONS," then $110 for the year.
