CONGRESSMAN SHOOTS NEGRO.

Washington, April 9.—Congressman H. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, shot through a street car to quiet two boisterous negroes, he says. One of his bullets found lodgment in the ankle of Thomas J. McCreary, a well-known trainer. Another of his bullets brought down one of the negroes, Lewis Lundy, who was struck in the back of the head.

Lundy and his companion were boisterous, talking of their equal rights with white men and sprawling over the seats. Lundy pulled a bottle of gin from his pocket, took a drink and passed the flask to his companion. Representative Heflin, whose indignation had been rising for some minutes, could no longer restrain himself. Pointing his finger at the negroes he shouted: "There are ladies in this car and you have no business making such a spectacle of yourselves in their presence."

Lundy's retort was incoherent, but abusive and insulting. The shooting followed.

And at Haden, on Monday evening a similar gathering was witnessed for the same purpose. On both occasions interesting programs were carried out. Mr. Gale has done more in the up-building of this part of the country perhaps than any other man. He built the first bridge across the Teton river into the valley, and ran the first saw mill here; helped to construct the first schoolhouse, and also put up many homes, being a carpenter and plasterer by trade. He prospered until the fire at his place, mentioned recently in the "News."

A short time ago Mr. Gale purchased 650 acres of land at Union, already stocked, and there he will make his home. The weather at last indicates that

BOISE VISITED BY WEALTHY MEN

"Gem State" Expects Eastern Capitalists to Invest in Idaho Projects.

RUSH REFORM MOVEMENT.

Saloons and Gambling Houses Will Feel Strong Arm of the Law By Council's Order.

BOISE, Ida., April 9.—Idaho has just received one of the most important visits in her history, figuring from the standpoint of personal benefit in the party of 22 eastern capitalists and representatives of bonding and trust companies, who were yesterday guests of the capital city of the "Gem State." The party arrived here in their special car early yesterday morning from Twin Falls, where they spent two days in looking over that country—observing the wonders nature has provided and the wonders the hand of man has wrought. As soon as the party arrived here yesterday morning they were taken in hand by citizens. Gov. Gooding, together with other state officials, accompanied the party to Caldwell.

There seemed to be no limit to the expressions of surprise and praise of this land of sunshine and "opportunity." Each member of the party seemed to be bubbling over with enthusiasm; and for them to return to their eastern homes with such a spirit will mean that Idaho will hear from them and the millions behind them before a great while.

ARRESTS FOR GAMBLING

At about 11 o'clock last night two more arrests were made in this city in connection with the campaign against gambling. The men arrested are Harry Leary and E. Williams, owners of a cigar store, and upstairs card and poolrooms, corner Main and Seventh streets. The men were taken before Judge Leonard and pleaded not guilty. They were placed under $500 bonds to appear in court.

Word was received from Washington yesterday that all persons who have been dealing in liquors on the Indian reservations in this state since the decision of the somewhat famous Dick case a few weeks ago, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The federal grand jury will convene at Moscow on the 11th of May and any violations since the 24th of February will be thoroughly investigated at that time. It was announced yesterday that the federal grand jury in session here will have completed its investigations into the Boise Basin timber fraud, and the last of this week at which time it will be discharged. It is therefore evident that no other matters will be taken up by it at this time. At the annual meeting of the state horticultural board the fore part of the week, a proposition was carried to divide the present office of horticultural inspector and pure food inspector and create a new office for performing of these two duties separately.
