LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

More snow.

How the feathery flakes fly.

The Wyman performances were moderately well attended last week.

Joseph Stanford, Esq., of the Stanford House, Ogden, is in the city.

Dr. Ellen B. Ferguson is lying seriously ill. Hope she will soon recover.

Wednesday's performance in the talk of the town, Box office open Tuesday morning.

The anniversary party given in Ogden Friday evening, in honor of Sister E. R. Snow, was a most elegant affair.

The "Banker's Daughter" is in active rehearsal, by the Home Dramatic Club, for Wednesday evening. Benefit of the Alta sufferers.

The theatrical management, at the suggestion of President John Taylor, have offered the free use of the Theatre for Wednesday night.

Bishop Andrew Burt left this city on Saturday morning, to meet his son Joseph W., just released from a British mission on account of ill health. They are expected in this evening.

A. F. Greig, who was before Commissioner Sprague last week on a charge of bigamy, was discharged on Saturday evening, there being no evidence to prove that he was married to the Rader woman.

As a continuation of Friday's reunion in the 13th Ward, the ladies held a party on Saturday afternoon and had a splendid time. Upwards of 400 took dinner in the dining hall during recess.

On Thursday, the 20th inst., President Joseph F. Smith performed the ceremony which united the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. J. B. Alvord, of Weber County, to Miss S. E. Mower, of the 10th Ward, this city.

The vagrancy cases taken in hand on Saturday were disposed of by the police magistrate to-day. The one who denied the charge and wanted a jury trial was acquitted; the railroad ride stealer was fined $25.

One of the largest congregations the Assembly Hall has yet seen, was in attendance yesterday afternoon. Crowds blocked up the entrances, and stood in the side aisles during the services, while hundreds could not gain admission.

The Alta relief committee have collected about $1,000. This, and another thousand, which if the public turn out well, will be repaid from the "Banker's Daughter" performance, with other contributions, will do much towards relieving the wants of the unfortunate.

The Sunday School of the 12th Ward held its review yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The review was of a very interesting character. The school is in a flourishing condition. It reflects great credit on Supt. R. V. Williams and all who have worked for its success.

A Danish resident of Lynne, Weber County, while riding home on horseback from Ogden last night, was stopped by highwaymen. They threatened his life at first, but let him off for 75c. He was again overtaken by the gang shortly afterward, but he knocked one of the robbers down and outdistanced the other. We learn this from the Junction.

Traveling Agent.—Brother Joseph Hyrum Pratt is travelling through Weber County, at present, in the interest of the Deseret News and Juvenile Instructor. He will next go to Box Elder, and then to Cache and other northern localities. We commend him to all who wish his well.

Received.—The New York Tribune Almanac, an authority on political statistics, and always containing valuable information, is out for 1907, and can be had at James Dwyer's, also Southern for February; the North American Review, containing among other excellent papers, another installment of Chamberlain's article on Mexican antiquities; the Western Farmer's Almanac, a useful work; Harper's Weekly, Harper's Young People, Pick, etc., etc.

The Benefit Performance.—One of the popular themes of current conversation, is the performance to be given by the Home Dramatic Club on Wednesday night, for the benefit of the Alta relief fund. The cause of the unfortunate has, however, been heard, and everything will be done to make the "Banker's Daughter" on the third presentation, an overwhelming theatrical triumph, and financial triumph. It has been stated heretofore that Mr. A. Gould had donated the fuel, and that the Cashmere Theatre had contributed their valuable services to the performance. Added to these generous gifts, President John Taylor has authorized the theatrical management to let the building go rent free, and Gen. John E. Smith has courteously tendered the services of the Fort Douglas military band. The actors are busy rehearsing their parts, and everything is being done to insure the success of the charitable scheme. The public is hoped and believed, will patronize the entertainment in force, where they will not only get their money's worth, but contribute to charity at the same time. Tickets will commence selling at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. No extra charge for reserves. Go early and get the best.

Returned Missionaries.

G. S. Bills, of South Jordan, and Samuel Butterfield, of Fort Herrington, returned last night from a mission to the Southern States, whither they went on the 17th of August, 1906. They haveed together, most of the time, and labored in the eastern part of Kentucky and the western part of West Virginia, 16 counties in that region being included in the Kentucky Conference. They traveled on foot about 3,100 miles, and held in the neighborhood of 130 public meetings. Besides this, they did what they could of preaching in private, and distributed tracts and copies of the Deseret News, which they say, assisted them very much in their labors. They encountered a great deal of opposition and some bitter persecution, mostly incited by the plan priests. On the night of the 28th of October, about 10 o'clock (Brother Bills then traveling with Brother Daniel Denly of Herrington) while sleeping at the house of a member of the Church on Brush Fork, Lawrence County, Kentucky, an armed mob of 20 persons, calling themselves "regulators," forced open the door and took the brethren out of bed, and after permitting them to don their apparel, harnessed them out of the house and through the woods to a place they had previously selected, and after depositing them in the centre of their group, one of them asked of the others in attendance: "Are the ropes and whips ready?" Receiving an affirmative answer, they placed the Elders in standing positions, facing each other, and told them to say whatever they had to say. Just at this point James Caudle, a young man living in the neighborhood, who had become apprised of the outrage on the unfurling missionaries, appeared on the scene and began upbraiding the mob in strong language, and threatened to have them all indicted. "Shoot him," was the cry immediately, and two shots were fired in his direction, but both missed their mark. They then seized and hurried Caudle away. Just about this time, one of the ruffians standing near Brother Bills, who was securely pinned by several of the mob, aimed a blow at his face, but it just grazed his chin and struck his chest, without hurting him. Soon afterward, while the mob party were debating as to whether they should give the brethren each 30 lashes on the bare back, a lady with a lantern (Sister Vernon, of the house where the Elders had been stopping) approached the group. They still were considering the question of inflicting torture upon their helpless prisoners, and put the vote to the crowd, of whether 15 lashes at least should not be administered to each. The ayes and noes were taken, and the question decided in the negative. The villains were evidently afraid of the indictments threatened by Mr. Caudle. After this, seeing the lantern coming towards them, and doubtless supposing it was a rescue party, the mob took to their heels and left the brethren standing unharmed. They were taken by friends back to the house from which they had been so rudely hurried away, and not only passed the night there, but remained several days afterward. They heard no more of the "regulators" during that visit, but on returning to the same place, after three weeks' absence, they received word from the same gang, threatening them with death if they ever returned to that section again. Brother Bills and Brother Butterfield, however, made a five days' visit to the place just previous to returning home, and the mob failed to fulfill their murderous threat. These persecutions were caused by several heathens done in that neighborhood, one of the converts being a prominent member of the Baptist faith. The brethren attribute to the latter, the outrage committed upon them. They enjoyed their mission very much, the persecutions they underwent only serving to strengthen their faith in "Mormonism," and return in the possession of excellent health. They leave for their homes to-day.

Webster Stake Conference.

The quarterly conference of the Webster Stake of Zion was held in Ogden on Saturday and Sunday. There were in attendance from this city President Joseph E. Smith, Apostle Wilford Woodruff, and Elder C. W. Penrose, from Ogden Apostle F. D. Richards, the Presidency of Webster Stake and local authorities. Saturday was occupied by the rendering of bibles, reports and some spirited remarks by President D. H. Peery, principally on the Arizona mission. Sunday morning, President Joseph F. Smith delivered a powerful discourse, the main theme of which was obedience to the gospel from the motive of duty, or in other words, the doing of right for its own sake, irrespective of the consideration of rewards or punishments. In the afternoon the authorities were presented and sustained, after which remarks were made by Apostles Wilford Woodruff and F. D. Richards, and by President Smith. The meetings were very well attended. On Saturday the seats and standing room were taken, and on Sunday hundreds were unable even to gain entrance to the building. An excellent spirit prevailed, and the remarks made were exceedingly edifying and instructive. The party from Salt Lake returned last evening.

"A Terrible Temptation."

Bro. D. Tyler writes us a communication from St. George, under date of the 19th inst. He left Beaver on the 18th, and passed that night at Buckhorn Springs. He says:

"In this valley we were formerly reminded of the chilling remark of the late Indian chief, 'Black Hawk,' who informed our Beaver citizens some years ago that he saw at certain points a large amount of horses and cattle without any person looking after them. This he said was wrong, that they should either be herded or driven nearer to the settlements, as they were a source of great temptation to his young men. Of course there is now no fear of either young or old Indians, no Black Hawk, but there are white hawks, or white thieves, and I would be more than pleased to note the fact that Beaver County was free from them, but were I to do so under oath, I fear there would not be a ghost of a chance to escape the penitentiary on a charge of perjury."

"Know all men by these presents," read an old bachelor lawyer. "Why don't they put in women, too?" asked a lady client. "Because," said the old bachelor, "if one woman knows it, all women know it."

A country girl at a fashionable hotel in New York noticed that the guests used their forks only in eating their pie. Upon her return home she reported the fact to the old lady, who comforted her by observing: "You should n't mind 'em; Jimminy! it's all because they're too fearful to use their knives."

RECOVERED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of Wm. J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to lay it to the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I expended over a hundred dollars in doctors and medicines. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and today I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years."

"I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with Disease of the Lungs, may be induced to take DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED."

I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared and I shall soon be able to go to work. Sold by all druggists.
