DEPARTED THIS LIFE.-It will be seen y an oblivary notice, in another column, the Mrs. Janet Hardle breathed her last at one o'clock this morning. Up till last night, when she changed for the worse, her many sincere friends entertained strong ally strengthened by the unvarying serenity and cheerfulness of mind which had sen manifested by her ever since undergoing the severe operation of having re-moved from her a large abdominal tumor. Her life has been one of eminent usefuless, having been, from the nature of her rofession as midwife, of great service to umbers of her fellow creatures, not only luring her sixteen years' residence in this Territory, but also in the former part of her life in Scotland. We herewith append the following ex-pressive lines touching her death, from the pen of Mrs. E. H. Woodmansee, the sentiments breathed in which will meet with a responsive echo in many breasts:

and Sin'er Hardie's dead? Earth bas too orave, so kind, so useful or so true, and few possess the courage or the skill so wide a mission ably to fulfill.

there appears a communication on the management of bees for the month of ine,in which the writer advises bee keep-to be out all drone combs. This advice I consider very wrong, as the drone is just as necessary for the success of bee keeping as her royal highness the queen or any of her subjects. Destroy all drones, and all drone comb and see how in a city like Salt Lake there would no of be many who would not follow the siries concerning cuting out the drone comb, but would leave enough drones to unswer a purpose. I believe there shuld be asmall piece of drone comb in every hive, and some drone bees, unless the workers see fit to kill them. In some settlements here are but few bees, perhaps only but one colony, and I ask if in such a case they should cut out all drone comb and lestroy all drones, what would there be for increase? Bee keepers, in publishing solvice to new beginners, should be very careful that what they advise be best for il, unless proper and explicit explanations

ITEMS FROM THE "JUNCTION."-The following are gleaned from the Ogden Junction, June 1st:

"The wagon road in Weber Kanyon is submerged, and trains have been delayed by freshets. "The wagon road in was constructed by freshets.

"When the U. C. bridge was constructed one of the piles was accidentally broken and was secured by repairs. This pile gave way last Thursday and gave rise to groundless alarm for the safety of the bridge. A train consisting of an engine and ten fist cars is hauling stone from Weber kanyon to make an abutment at the east end of the bridge, the pile has been replaced and fifty men and boys are at work driving back the assaults of the turbulent old Weber. Unless the water ris a much higher no danger is now apprehended to the bridge, with grant caution.

CITY CREEK SWOLLEN. - City Creek being swollen to an unusual extent yesterday, it came tearing and rushing down its channel in the kanyon, carrying pieces of wood, brush and other debris along in of wood, brush and other debris along in its course. About five o'clock in the afternoon a bridge across the culvert on Jordan or North Temple street, where it is intersected by First West street, was completely chocked up with brush and other obstructions, causing the stream to leap over it and the sides of the culvert, considerably flooding the street, and rendering it necessary for the bridge to be torn up, which was done, thus preventing further damage.

ST. GEORGE.—Capt.Samuel Cunningham, of St. George, reports crops looking un-THATRE.-On Saturday evening Mac commonly well in that vicinity, with good prospects for sufficient water. The settlers house, which, however, considerably increased in numbers as the evening advancation, sweet potatoes and lucerne are the safest and most profitable crops. The mining prospects in the Silver Belt District are flattering. The Pinto Iron works are turning out excellent castings and are kept constantly running.
