THE ELECTION.

A Full Vote Throughout the Territory.

CONSTITUTION IS CARRIED.

Half Black-Cast Through Forgetfulness to Hurt.

LOTS OF SCRATCHING OF NAMES.

The Events Between Parties is Monitored up to a Watch.

At the News report closes for press time, the polls are about to close, but no definite news of the result as between political parties can be expressed. The party leaders themselves are about in their offices as before the election, but not so near; that Stakeholders are triumphant beyond doubt, and that the Constitution is adopted by a large majority. No trouble of a serious nature is reported from any part of the Territory, the election generally being of a peaceful character. The progress of affairs up to press time is given in detail below:

FIRST PRECINCT.

The opening of this precinct's polls was marked by an excitement or partial riot, which was manifested for a moment, but the vote began to come in and end.

Towards noon the election was over in the vicinity of the First Precinct, the day's work having been a success, though of course, with the participation of building and much trouble, was caused by the mailing.

The movements for the election in its depth were to be seen, and the voters, as they arrived, to stand outside the windows from the severest of weather giving their names and answering questions put to them, according to from one window to another, report their State or city residence.

There was a great deal of scratching, and voters were in big demand here, and even an approximate estimate as to where could not be obtained. These are rather easily obtained, however, as the registration of the state and city residents were not allowed to vote in the city ticket, but were permitted to vote on the State ticket, the election being that there would be a vote before the day was over.

John W. Wilson, the reporter for the Register, was present to record his results to the precinct. He immediately applied to County Register E. W. Wilson, and from him received the following note:

Nov. 5th, 1895.
Judge of Elections, First Precinct.

Yours, etc., J. M. Scott on the Territory Committee, I represent the Democratic ticket, and am at your service.

E. W. Wilson,
County Register.

McGinnis claimed he was a Republican. There were a number of other challenges.

The number of votes cast at this precinct was 1,200.

Local was served by the Ladies' campaign committee of both the Republican and Democratic parties. Each has their respective ends of the business, and the women scarcely looked as though they had any.

Democratic bulletin 12 m.—420 votes cast. The Republicans only twenty-five. Hardly a Republican in the room, and being straight. Republicans, with their tickets in their hands, were not allowed to vote on the city ticket, but were permitted to vote on the State ticket, the election being that there would be a vote before the day was over.

John W. Wilson, reporter for the Register, was present to record his results to the precinct. He will get a large vote in this precinct.

At 2:30 p.m. there were 930 votes cast, all of which were claimed by the Republicans, the remainder were cast by the Democrats, who were quite plentiful. Everything was quiet, no disturbance being raised by any voter.

SECOND PRECINCT.

There was a few minutes' delay in opening the polls, as give opportunity for the authorized officers to screen the names of those who were to receive the ballot. This was completely屏风ed with liquid real estate. Up to 1:30 this afternoon no dispute or disturbance of any consequence occurred except that the judge was challenged, and was disallowed. He said, with many strong words, that he was going to vote, and he did so. The judges of the various polls three in number, were present.

No. 1—Territorial: T. A. McLean, presiding judge; Charles M. Suy, William J. East, State, John N. Price, presiding judge; Charles H. S. Newman, Thomas J. Williams.

No. 2—Territorial: E. E. Rice, presiding judge; John J. H. Smith, J. H. Bank, Walter J. Beane, George E. Wallace, Walter J. Beane.

No. 3—Territorial: S. M. Marlow, presiding judge; John Burns, George Spearer, State, H. T. Lloyd, presiding judge; James Gossouffin, Charlie Stevens.

This forenoon Thomas Thomas was denied the privilege of voting on the grounds of non-residence; Thomas H. Pratt for not living at the number given; and Whitney Richards on account of having moved out of the precinct.

At 1 o'clock the vote from the respective party tents was given out as follows:

Democrats..... 374
Republicans..... 328
Others..... 12

Total..... 711

At 2:30 p.m.—Republicans at this hour had 1,000 registered, while the Democrats had 400 for the Democratic and Republican, but it is thought that the figures will bear out the claim when the ballots are counted. The fact seems to be that an extraordinary number of scratches were made, which lessened the result in each.

Democrats set up an appeal claiming that their Republicans, 1,000, do not say they have more votes than both of the other parties combined. The total registration is 1,720.

FOURTH PRECINCT.

Probably the liveliest precinct polling place in the city today was in the Fourth. There was no delay in getting down in business, and there was no difficulty in getting in voters. The crisp winds and snow made persons in this precinct and both the big parties have efficient organizations in favor of the Republicans. He is leaving the ticket here.

Both sides now at Ogden.

Ogden—Elections were favorable to the Republicans here. The workers were slow in getting in voters, but the registration on both sides, owing to the bad condition of the streets, was not good during the morning, but, as the day progressed, were of the most friendly character, though sometimes they were quite animated. Above the noise of other activity he heard the voice of John White as he made criticisms and whistling remarks concerning those who did not support politically, but his philippine evoked more amusement than anger.

Early in the day it became evident that there was to be considerable "scratching," especially on the city ticket. The State ticket did not seem to be in evidence, but the "scratches" was larger, the result of local preferences. The most formidable opposition to any one candidate was directed at H. M. Lee, Prothon., Repub., from the city council, the opposition to him was very strong, the opposition to him in his party, being largely to the support of John Atlee, Democratic candidate from the Fifteenth, for city councilor. The argument used against Mr. Prothon. was that he was not fit for the State office, and the Constitution. H. M. Lee, who moved his family from the present to Ogden eight days ago was challenged, but after a brief inquiry, succeeded in getting the judges accepted his vote. There were two votes in the Fourth precinct.
