Appropriate Odors.

In Dr. Price's Unique Perfumes each particular character can find an appropriate odor. For the clarifying and orator, his refreshing fragrant floral perfume; for the brilliant and witty, his charming Evening Violet; for the stately and mild, his persistent Tibet Musk; for the lively of fashion, his captivating Myrrh; for the young gentleman, his delicate Alstroemeria; for the young lady, his sweet Pet Rose. We know our friends by their voice; why not recognize them by their sweet and particular odors?

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

HOUSE.

January 30th.
Following is the report made by Mr. Miller, chairman of the committee on judicial expenses:

Your committee on judicial expenses ask leave to present the following special report:

We have been diligently engaged in eliciting facts required by you, and have received evidence testifying to the following:

The permission to set fire was granted on condition it was taken against the probabilities of fire.

Fish and Game.—A petition has been presented to the Legislature, making that body to take into consideration the necessity of amending the law in relation to fish and game.
We are not aware of the nature of the changes need for, but there is an opinion among some interested that the subject that the law, especially as it relates to fish, is a little too stringent. There is an impression that, in consequence, there are more infringements upon it than the law would be if it were somewhat easier and more liberal in its provisions. It is a fact that the law is frequently broken, while its penalties are scarcely even-fined. A law that is not strictly enforced is a little better, if any, than no law at all. It is very desirable that our streams and lakes should be protected against the wholesale depopulation of their inhabitants. Whether the statute book and which appears to be comparatively imper-fected could conduce to that end, is a subject worthy of some consideration.

New Disease.—We live in an age of wonders. Little by little men are lifting the veil which conceals from us the deep things creation, and getting glimpses of the infinite forces of the universe. It has been known for many years that some of the gases could be used to divide, and even into solid mechanical contrivances.
Carburet and gas has been solidified, and it has been suggested that even the so-called permanent gases could be brought into the solid state and made volatile to the world some day.

It has been done very recently both in Germany and in France.
The air we breathe and the engineer gases oxygen, nitrogen and hydrogen have been brought into the fluid condition by means of enormous pressure and the application of intense cold. And this discovery is likely to prove to be one of immense importance; no one can tell how many and how great results may be brought about by this wonder.

All the sciences are closely related to each other; the sum of human knowledge is to be likened to a task assigned to a man who has to learn to walk before he can tell how many and how great
this wonder.

At this point the examination of Mr. Lannan was continued until to-morrow.

Your committee desire to be instructed as to what extent we shall proceed with our inquiries, whether we find it necessary to call in any additional witnesses.

Q.—Have those supplies been paid for by the United States?

A.—Yes.

to-morrow.

Your committee desire to be in-
any additional witnesses.

Q.—What is your desire in the event that you desire that we should inquire fully into all the circumstances attending any expenditure of funds belonging to the Territory, that the witness, P. H. Lannan, be brought before the bar of the House, to show cause, if any he has, why he should not be purchased by the Government. In refusing to answer the question propounded to him by your committee.

Mr. Preston moved the following, which was carried:

I move that the special committee be instructed to continue the inquiries so far as relate to the territorial expenses of district courts, and that when any witness desire to testify, to refer him to the head of the inquiry for me to make application to the Secretary of the United States, that they excuse the witness, and include the names of all such witnesses in their subsequent report, with the questions asked.

H. F. No. 7, the revenue bill, was taken up on its second reading, by section, and pending the reading of section 5, the minutes were called for and read.

C. F. 4, amending certain sections the House amended, and asking concurrent action in the amendments. The amendments were read and those to sec. 1890 of Compiled Laws, were non-concurred in.
