CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Bayard and Morrill on the Financial Question.

WASHINGTON, 28.—Bayard argued against a further increase of the issue of paper currency and also against the continuation of business being transacted on a legal tender basis, declaring his belief that the path of duty, honesty and wisdom was that which led to the resumption of specie payments at the earliest possible day, and that the people of the country would cheerfully make the necessary sacrifice to do this. He did not propose any specific plan for resumption, but would support any sound measure to put the U. S. on a firm financial basis.

Morrill, of Vt., then took the floor and replied to the speech of Boutwell a few days since, criticising severely the position and statements of that gentleman.

Pending the discussion, the Senate went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.

Army Appropriation Bill—Ready to Defy the World.

Wheeler, of New York, who had charge of the bill, proceeded to explain the reduction made in comparison with past years. The army appropriation bill, last session, appropriated a little over thirty one millions; the original estimates of the department for this bill were nearly thirty-five millions, and the committee on appropriations had reduced this to $28,449,916, which amount he hoped would be still farther reduced. The reduction was framed on the hypothesis that only one half of the national department of the army should be supplied this year, or 5,200 instead of 10,400 men. The bill approved the closing up of the appropriations for the old claims in the Quartermaster's Department and the Commissary Department. As a necessity for this measure he mentioned the fact that within the last six months $200,000 for such claims had been filed by one pertinacious claim agent of Washington. Another section of the bill transfers to the Southern Claims Commissioners all claims for stores or supplies, taken for the use of the army during the Rebellion, now pending before the army department or that may be presented before the first of Nov., '74. Such claims, to the amount of fifty or sixty millions were now subject to the decision of the Quartermaster General or the Commissary General.

Albright opposed a reduction of the army which, in effect, this bill would do to the amount of at least five thousand, while the entire effective force was now only 21,000. He thought if Congress would stop building new post offices and custom houses, and discontinue work on public buildings in Washington, there would be no necessity for reducing the army.

Garfield expressed his discouragement of his hope for retrenchment, by the action of the House this morning in refusing to pass the bill in regard to public building and its reference to the committee on public buildings, and by the speech just made.

Beck replied sharply to Garfield's criticism of the action of the House and his assumption that its reference to the committee on public buildings was from wrong motives. He assumed that the committee was honest and economical, and well able to examine the bill. He gave notice that he would offer an amendment to the bill, that no mileage shall be paid to any officer in excess of his actual travelling expenses.

Wheeler said he would cheerfully accept the amendment.

Coburn, chairman of the military committee, endorsed fully the views expressed by Wheeler, and expressed the belief that the rank and file of the army might not only be reduced, but also the officers, and that the military establishment itself might be reduced largely in public works and munitions of war. He argued that while this was the case, the nation was ready, in a just cause, to defy the world. It was not, except in point of population and physicial strength, a military nation. He thought that with great safety troops could be withdrawn from the Atlantic coast and from the Canadian frontiers, and from the South, except perhaps New Orleans, and let the army be kept on the Indian frontier. At the conclusion of Coburn's remarks the committee rose.

Cox offered a substitute for the bill introduced in the House by the committee of ways and means fixing the status of the over-issue of U. S. currency; referred. It declares that the U. S. notes issued from the forty-four million reserve were illegally issued, and are not legal tender, that Congress, under a recent decision of the Supreme Court, cannot make them so, but that having been issued they are a just debt against the U. S., redeemable in legal money. The bill requires the secretary of the treasury to advertise a list of the denominations and numbers of such notes, and to require every bank having them to stamp on each "this is not a legal tender," and provides that the notes shall be received for all U. S. dues, except customs, and when received at the treasury shall be cancelled.

EASTERN.

In the Army Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, 28.—Among the items in the army appropriation bill are the following: pay of the army, $11,450,000; subsistence $2,452,000; supplies for the quartermaster's department, $4,508,000; incidental expenses of the quartermaster's department, $5,300,000; for the purchase of cavalry and artillery horses, $250,000; for transportation of the army, $4,250,000; officers' and troops' clothing, $1,500,000; for camp equipment, $1,500,000; for the national military, cemeteries $150,000; medical and hospital supplies, $20,000; ordnance service at arsenals, $200,000; metallic ammunition for small arms, $100,000; for ordnance stores, $100,0000; army equipments, $100,000; the manufacture of new model breech loading muskets and carbines, $100,000.

A Defaulter on Trial.

HARRISBURG, 28.—The case of the State against Geo. O. Evans, the alleged defaulting stage agent, was continued here to-day; it will probably go to the jury to-morrow. Evans' bondsmen surrendered him yesterday, and he is now in custody of the sheriff.

U. S. Senator Elected.

AUSTIN, Tex., 28.—The Legislature, in joint session, to-day, elected General S. B. Maxey U. S. Senator, the vote standing, Maxey, 59; Throckmorton, 40; Randall, 13; scattering, 3.

Judge Thompson—Autopsy of the Siamese Twins.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., 28.—Judge Thompson was arguing a case in the Supreme Court, having been speaking only a few minutes when he suddenly dropped, and in five minutes was dead.

To-morrow Dr. Pancoast and several other leading physicians of this city will leave for Mount Airy, N. C., to make an examination of the remains of the Siamese twins; complete arrangements have been made for an autopsy.

Intense Excitement.

DENVER, Col., 28.—Intense excitement has prevailed throughout the city and Territory since the receipt of the news of the removal of Gov. Elbert, the secretary and surveyor-general, and there seems to be bitter opposition to the confirmation of McCook as governor. A request to retain Elbert, signed by all but two of the republican members of the legislature, was forwarded to-day to President Grant. An impression prevails among non-politicians that the nomination of an outside party for Governor would meet with less opposition.

Rufus King Elected.

CINCINNATI, 28.—Rufus King, of Cincinnati, was elected president of the Constitutional Convention to-day.

Commune Organized in New York.

NEW YORK, 28.—Police Superintendent Matsell reiterates the belief that the fire in St. Bridget's church was the work of communists, and he thinks that similar attempts are probable; he thinks there can be no doubt that a commune is thoroughly organized in this city. Threats against churches and school houses, and especially against all Roman Catholic institutions, have been frequently made since the Tompkins Square riot. He says that on the day of the riot many of the so-called working men who passed St. Joseph's hospital looked up and shook their fists at the building, uttering threats. One of the rioters, who had his head cut by a policemen's club, was tenderly cared for in the hospital, yet went away cursing the attendants. The superintendent says especial watch has been kept lately over churches and school houses, and the watch will be maintained. It is understood that particular pains have been taken to guard every church in the south precinct.

Sailed for England.

Charles Bradlaugh sailed for England to-day; he intends to contest the coming election for parliament for Northampton.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Address by Gladstone—Bright to his Constituents—Greenwich Election—The Tichborne Case.

LONDON, 28.—The mass meeting on Blackheath to-day was not so large as was expected, on account of a heavy fog and drizzling rain. Gladstone, however, was present and delivered an address to about three thousand people. He admitted that Parliament had been dissolved because the government felt their power ebbing. He sharply attacked Disraeli for seeking to divert the attention of the people from domestic to foreign politics. The real issue before the country was the finance measures, and those now proposed by the government were eminently practicable. They wanted to relieve and reform local taxation, and to abolish the income tax, and intended to relieve the consumer by means of the existing surplus, the adjustment of taxation and economy in the administration. The revenues were dwelt upon by the speaker at great length, and the necessity for economy, which he said the conservatives never practiced. In conclusion Gladstone proposed "union" as the watchword for the liberal party. If the liberals were not united they would suffer a disgraceful defeat; if dissensions occurred he would refuse to continue to lead the party. He spoke an hour, and in conclusion received a vote of confidence.

The address of Bright to his constituents is published; it is brief, without any special features, and fully concurs in Gladstone's policy.

The Parliamentary election in Greenwich will be held on the 3rd of February.

Bright will appear before his constituents at Birmingham on Saturday next, and give his views on the situation.

In the Tichborne case, to-day, Hawkins concluded summing up for the prosecution with a personal vindication of Lady Radcliffe who, he declared, had never been soiled by the filthy, blighting, unholy and unnatural touch of the defendant.
