ABOUT three months ago all the watch-makers in the city agreed and submitted to a certain system for work in their shops for the purpose of obtaining uniformity and accuracy. This system has been broken by several watchmakers, who are underselling their colleagues and thereby proving themselves to be dishonest. The undersellers have been exposed and their names are published for the purpose of warning the public and establishing their own prices, cheaper than any other watchmaker's in Salt Lake City.

Business Moving.

NEW YORK, 29.—The Times prints a page of interviews with business, whose views on the condition of trade are almost without exception exceedingly encouraging. The sales are reported larger, and generally, though not invariably, at somewhat better prices. The quality of goods demanded is noticeably different from those which have been in demand showing greater ease on the part of retail purchasers. So far as can be seen there is a little tendency to the inflation of credit or overbuying. The new life to be seen and felt in trade appears to be the legitimate consequence of the natural recuperative forces.

The Tribune says: The volume of business now being done is enormous. Exchanges at this city for four weeks ending September 27th, have amounted to $1,082,517, against $1,282,618,517 for the corresponding weeks last year. It is true a considerable part of the increase of $100,000,000 in payments has been due to greater transactions in stocks, the number of shares sold during the four weeks having been $39,425 in 1879, against $2,900,000 in 1878, but a remarkably large portion of the transactions was in low priced stocks this year. Deducting double the value of stocks sold, the remaining exchanges for the four weeks at New York show an increase of 42.7 per cent. over last year, and the transactions at other cities show a very large increase also. It is for the regretted that so much of the business done in a speculative sort, as in wheat, corn, pork, petroleum and coal, prices having been unnaturally disturbed thereby.

The Commercial Bulletin says: The trade aspects throughout the country, taken as a whole, could scarcely be more encouraging than at present. Crediting the testimony of our Commercial Exchange, which is amply corroborated by personal assurances of those who have had ample opportunity for observation, our own markets, the past week, were characterized by satisfactory activity in almost every line of business, with unusual excitement at times.

The Boston Journal of Commerce says: The general condition and volume of trade continue very good. The woolen trade has continued to take very large orders for spring light weights from the clothiers, and prices are firm. The stock market has been very active with large orders. The sale of domestic wool continues very large. The shipments of boots and shoes continue large and fair. Duplicate orders are received.

The Baltimore Journal of Commerce says: The fall trade is progressing steadily and satisfactorily. Jobs in all branches are very busy filling orders for the interior.

The Pittsburg Commercial says: Business in general continues quiet and unexciting. The merchants are all busy and some of them pressed with orders, and while the margins continue small, they are as a rule more satisfactory than for several years past.

The Philadelphia Press says: The movements in trade, with few exceptions, continue active, and prices, as a rule, strong, and in not a few instances the tendency is upward. The consumption of manufactures and general merchandise is on a much larger scale than at any period in six years.

Another Ovation to Grant.

SAN FRANCISCO, 29.—Grant's reception of the public school children at Woodward Gardens, to-day, was the most enthusiastic ovation he has yet received. Before 11 o'clock not less than 20,000 youngsters swarmed in the garden, and the streets were jammed, and the sidewalks were making their way to the rendezvous on foot. At half past eleven the General's arrival was heralded by the firing of a salute. The children of the Lincoln school boys, who were drawn up at the entrance as a guard of honor. Escorted by the Board of Education, he walked between the files of children, who crowded everywhere to the pavilion, where a stage had been arranged for the reception of the party. Ten thousand boys and girls were present in the building, and as the General made his appearance, cheers, stamping, whistling, and cat-calling were heard from the great throng of children. The building quaked under the weight of the enthusiastic youngsters who were reduced to a very few minutes of the public school system of the United States has impelled the school children of San Francisco to extend their parents and the Board of Education recognize in you a true and fearless friend of popular education, and are proud to look you in the face and to look you in the face and to look you in the face.

Allow me, sir, to present you to the children and teachers connected with the public schools of San Francisco. These happy faces will tell their own story.

Another uproarious outbreak of enthusiasm followed, after which the General addressed his audience to the following effect:

It is a gratifying sight to witness this evidence of educational privilege afforded by this young city. The crowds gathered inside and outside this building indicate that every child of an age fit for school is severely diffused, we may feel assured of the permanence and the great danger to our people grows out of ignorance, and this evidence of universality of education is the best guarantee of your loyalty to American principles.

At the conclusion of his remarks General Grant and the Board of Education made their way out of the building.

THE BUILDING, AND FOLLOWING THE

winding avenues of the gardens proceeded to the great amphitheatre on the other side of the grounds. Children by thousands lined the walls and peeped the party with bouquets, while the shrill cheers continued rattle of drums with which each class was provided, created a bedlam of noise. On reaching the amphitheatre, where at least 30,000 boys and girls were massed, the storm of floral missiles waged heavier, and on gaining the stand near the exit, the party presented a thoroughly manifested and crumpled appearance. The General took his seat at the front of the platform, and the assembled throng, then marched by to enable each to obtain a good look at him. As the enthusiastic throng surged by, hundreds of hands were thrust out for a parting shake, and the demand for autographs was so great that the General's ability to supply it was almost overwhelmed with these tributes. At least 30,000 children were present, and though the festal display was able to maintain reasonably good order, it was impossible to restrain the holiday spirits of the mass within the bounds of decorum.

At 1 o'clock the young legions were still marching past in review, with drums, banners, motes and flags, while the General maintained his position and faced the constant fire of bouquets with his accustomed tenacity and pluck.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

British Manifesto to the Afghans.

LONDON, 29.—Many persons here regard the arrival in the British camp as an astute move on his part to foster the belief that he is innocent of complicity in the murder of the British Envoy at Kabul. On the other hand, official expressions of confidence in his entire innocence.

The advance of the British forces continues. The Afghans accompanying the troops, it is expected, the column will arrive before Kabul on Wednesday next. Resistance is unlikely.

Sir Frederick Roberts has received instructions to issue a manifesto to the Afghan people, that the British army advances on Kabul to avenge the murder of the British Envoy, and that the peaceable inhabitants will not be molested, but if opposition is offered, those persons with arms in their hands will be treated as enemies.

Non-combatant women and children, are advised to withdraw to a place of safety.

The Viceroy of India telegraphs that cholera is prevalent only on the route of Royal Warrant, to Jemrud. There had been a few cases at All Musjid. As the troops advance beyond Jemrud they lose the cholera influence.

All the workmen in the ship-building trade at Grimsby are on a strike against the revolution of the masters to extend; the working hours from 54 to 58 1/2 weekly.

RUSSIA.

Particulars of the Battle.

ST. PETERSBURG, 29.—Intelligence has been received from Baku that during a reconnaissance near Gheek Tepe, on the 28th of August, the Russians encountered a strongly entrenched force of the enemy, who made a desperate resistance. The Russians, for six hours, annihilated a position occupied by 30,000 Turkish troops. In the evening the Russians obtained possession of the outer entrenchments, and at night the enemy fled, leaving several thousand dead and wounded. The Russian loss was 178 soldiers killed, and 16 officers and 234 soldiers wounded. This is the heaviest battle since the Russian capture of the city of Baku. The Russian dispatch stated that the Russians were defeated with a loss of 700 killed, and were falling back on Mervan.
