Young Partridge, the man who is charged with a felony against the unfortunate Nielsen girl, who suicided yesterday, does not seem to take her death to heart. When he was told of the occurrence by Deputy Sheriff Barnett he appeared indifferent, and asked to have a paper brought out to the jall that he might "see what they have to say about me." His hearing will take place today; it is considered very doubtful if he can be convicted now that the testimony of the girl cannot be had.

to the sorely afflicted and heartbroken man the statement was made, that he had treated her with the utmost kindness and sympathy, and that all who have been connected with the case since it became public, have done this. The treatment on the part of Partridge, and probably some others who were interested with him, speaks for itself. Since Partridge's arrest and since the Since Partridge's arrest and since the outrage committed against the child has become known, several respectable families, for whom the girl had worked, have shown their sympathy and regard for her by offering to give her a home with them; but the father intended to take her home with him.

Leamington, Millard Co., March 2i.

On the afternoon of March 17 our Relief society gave a very enjoyable anniversary program. In the evening a dance and picnic was enjoyed by all until 12 o'clock, when our pleasure was suddenly turned to deepest sorrow.

Noble, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Jensen, with several other boys, had gone to the station to meet the southbound train and buy some bananas. Noble and some of the other boys caught on to the sides of the moving cars, intending to ride until the train stopped, but alas! poor Noble missed his hold and was thrown under the wheels. His left leg was severed from the knee and his left arm was crushed; he was also injured internally. His mother and William internally. Under the sub-head, "Father Heart-Under the sub-head, "Father Heart-broken" in the "News" account of the suicide the statement appears that the girl "has been treated with every consideration during her stay here." This is somewhat contradictory of the general trend of the article, and is the result of an error through telephonic communication. It was feared by the "News" representative that the public might think the father had upbraided the girl and that lack of sympathy on his part had contributed to the rash act which caused her death. And in justice to the sorely afflicted and heartbroken man the statement was made, that he
