Special Correspondence.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Oct. 24.—Clinton E. Baldwin, a machinist's helper, met with a bad accident Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock when he attempted to mount a switch engine No. 555 on the Butte track on East Center street. In doing so he collided with a switch stand and being overbalanced fell under the wheels, and his leg was run over just below the knee. He was immediately picked up and carried to the platform of the Pacific hotel and Dr. Wright was summoned, and the unfortunate man conveyed to the Railroad emergency hospital. Later he was sent to the L. D. S. hospital at Salt Lake accompanied by Pat Swanson, the company for the accident, as bystanders say the man was under the influence of liquor.

GUN ACCIDENT.

The gun that wasn't loaded had another victim last Saturday, Richard McElvaine, and Harry Quinley, also a son of Sheriff David Quinley, also one with a rifle and the other with a shot gun. As the hunting was rather light a diversion was suggested, and it was agreed to play a trace or drama of hold up the guns were emptied as they supposed, and also exchanged. They parted and each went in a different direction. The dramatic moment of "the surprise" each pulled "the trigger" and young Richard received the lead of shot in the abdomen from the gun held by Harry. But he was fortunate in his misfortune as the shot struck glancing on the outer side, first hitting a leather belt and then cutting through the outer cuticle only.

The boy was taken to his home on North Twelfth avenue near Lander street. Drs. Howard and Dean dressing the wound. He is out of danger.

The city council at the regular meeting held Thursday night, allowed the bills for $814.35, presented by the Pocatello Water company, for services rendered July, August and September. ## MARYSVILLE WITNESSES CHANGE IN BISHOPRIC.

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 21.—Ward conference was held here yesterday. It was one of the most important events in the history of this place, from the fact that Bishop James H. Wilson was honorably released, after having served the people for 17 years, during the hardships and pioneering of this country. Bishop Wilson handed in his resignation a short time ago, but it was reluctantly accepted. The people consoled themselves from the statement of Pres. Bassett, that a higher position, any test him to the new Bishopric, was put in this fall, the sidetrack built and everything made ready for the actual construction of the factory to begin in the month of March at next year. It would require 200 men to finish the factory in time for best harvest; then it would take 150 men to operate the factory and 150 men to live in the town of Payette. The problem, he said, was to get the money market; he was none too good at this time, and although the factory will be commenced this winter, it will not be until the conditions will be next year. However, it will be gratifying to the people of Payette to know that actual work on the factory is to be commenced this fall.

He said also that the money market was none too good at this time, and although the factory will be commenced this winter, it will not be until the conditions will be next year. ## Do You Know Your Grandfather's Name? Do You Know Your Mother's Maiden Name?—Loved Ones Working on the Other Side—St. George Temple Work.

All communications for this department should be addressed to Mrs. Elizabeth C. McCune, corner Main and First North streets, chairman genealogical committee of Daughters of Pioneer, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Do you know your grandfather's name? Or where he was born? Do you know your mother's maiden name, and where she was born? If you do, write them down in a safe place, and then add every possible bit of information in your possession. If your parents or grandparents have died, write down with them this very evening, if you have not already done so, and write down every bit of information concerning their genealogy that you can give. The lamentable carelessness of many of the saints, who ought to know better, on these matters, causes much later trouble and expense. A surprising number of people go to the temples who are unable to furnish the most primary facts connected with their genealogy. Certainly the people should wake up to the necessity of writing down all that tradition or memory can supply of their genealogy. A gentleman came into the genealogical rooms this week to hunt up his mother's family, and he couldn't tell. He said his mother was born in Europe or America. Do you know where your mother was born?

WORKING ON THE OTHER SIDE.

We may not always know why our loved ones are taken from us, even in the prime of life. But if God sees the sorrowful fall and orders all His work in justice and mercy, there is surely a good and righteous reason for it. Those who try to serve Him and who acknowledge His hand in all things.

Not long since, there were three people living in a Utah home who were as happy as angels as they ever be. The father and mother were devoted to each other, and their tender affection for their one grown son will be repaid by his grateful and well-deserved love. But death hovered over the happy home, and brushed with his sable wing the life of the husband and father. The mother was well-nigh heartbroken. Yet the son bravely comforted his mother, and assured her that he would protect and care for her in his father's place. Soberly, but by the heart of the mother, he was bent by time and faith, before her beloved son was also stricken with death. And then she sat in the ashes of her own life, unwilling to comfort or hope for herself. And she prayed. How passionately she prayed. She pleaded with the Lord to give her light and show her the reason why she had been left behind alone.

One night, her son visited her in a dream. He had a paper on which was written a long list of names. He said he was very busy, preaching and converting a number of his kindred dead and hunting up their genealogy. He told her to get pencil and paper, and write down the names he would give her. Some of the names on his list, he said, she was not to take at that time, but later, he would give her the names. As he named first one and then another, she would exclaim, "That's my uncle," or "That's my grand-father," or "That's my great-uncle." And so on down the list. When the last name was given, the young man instructed his mother to go to the temple, get help, and do the work for them. When this was done, he said he would come again and give her further information.

ST. GEORGE TEMPLE WORK.

Work has been done in part for the families named below by the parties chose for his counselors, Elder Drimond M. Lonsell and Loran McElvaine, both of whom are worthy young men, and the husband of the wife will make a strong team to carry the work to its successful end. They will still have the experience of Bishop Wilson to pilot them, while he remains in the ward. The general health of the people is good. There are two cases of typhoid fever, but both patients are recovering slowly. Prosperity prevails on every hand and nothing but a bright future appears for this country.

WORK ON PAYETTE FACTORY TO BEGIN THIS FALL.

Special Correspondence.

PAYETTE, Ida., Oct. 23.—Thomas R. Cutler, general manager of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, is in Payette today and makes the statement that a sugar factory is to be built at Payette, and that preliminary work will be begun on it this fall. This is the first authoritative statement the people of Payette have received since the failure to build a factory to handle this year's crop, that a factory was to be built here. Mr. Cutler says that the work would be begun on the factory, but it would depend on labor, railroad and other conditions whether or not it could be finished next year.

It is here at this time to inquire into our labor conditions, as this is one of the most perplexing questions confronting, and discuss other matters of importance with the local representatives of the company. He intends to leave for Salt Lake on the afternoon train to meet Mr. Dyer, the contractor, who has the honor of the company's factories. Then he will return to Payette next week and spend several days here.

On his visit here he will be accompanied by a large number of men, and he expects to grow five times the amount of beets than was planted this year. He will suit us. No matter what amount of beets we grow, if they are able to take care of them. Of course the size of a factory is immaterial, just so it handles all the beets that are raised. It would be a detriment to the town if it were not for the fact that it is now attracting the people to the fair grounds. The automobile race of Tuesday, Boise day, all places of business closed on that day to allow the merchants, bankers, etc., and a special feature of interest, especially to the female population. The predominance of women on that day was especially noticeable.

By all odds, the races are the greatest attractions and the most popular of the fair. The greatest arm of runners, trotters and pacers that has ever collected on an Idaho track is now attracting the people to the fair grounds. The automobile race participated, was a very interesting affair. It is the most talked of of any of the races. The participants were all local men. The fourth class postmaster, a similar race was also scheduled for today.

MANY CONVENTIONS.

Idaho is pretty well represented from the fact of several conventions held in this city this week, at which men from all parts of the state are present. The fourth class postmaster, a similar race was also scheduled for today. The automobile race participated, was a very interesting affair. It is the most talked of of any of the races. ## BLEEDING AUSTRIAN.

An Austrian, by the name of Joseph Smith, was picked up by the police last evening, bleeding from many wounds. He had been in combat with a fellow countryman and had received numerous slashes and stabs from a dirk knife. But the peculiar feature of the matter is that the wounded man refuses to give the authorities any information concerning his assailant. All he will say is, "Let me go; I will get him." Smith wants the privilege of seeking personal revenge upon his enemy.

HUM OF THE THRESHES.

PARKER'S 'HIEF MUSIC.

Special Correspondence.

PARKER, Oct. 23. Harvest and threshing are well-carried forward with a rush, while the weather is steady at work, and there is plenty of work for them all. So numerous are the crops of grain.

Less than 15,000 tons of beets have already been delivered at the factory. Probably two-thirds of the acreage have been dug. Potatoes are being dug in large numbers, but not many to the hill. There is not half enough to dig them. Not half enough has been dug.

S. M. Davis, who has suffered long and severely from cancer and who has undergone a number of operations, is feeling much encouraged by going to the Park West sanatorium, Indianapolis, Ind., for treatment. He is much improved in health and spirits, and it is confidently believed that the disease is steadily yielding to the treatment.

A son, who is lately born in the family of Rhyney Remington, and mother and child are progressing favorably.

COAL MINES OF TETON BASIN BEING WORKED.

Special Correspondence.

HADEN, Ida., Oct. 24.—Mr. Clawson of Salt Lake City has the work of sinking an oil well here under good headway and expects to prove that this is a great coal and oil country. His movements are of great interest not only to the people of the Teton basin but to the whole western country.

A railroad (Teton) country is being opened up on the surface and tests may prove that coal and oil exist beneath. Although frost has come extra early and at different periods, the harvest will be good.

Mr. Hill at Ocala is building a very strong reservoir dam in Packwood creek. A force of men has been working all summer at it, and it is within 15 feet of the top of the dam. More men are wanted to finish the job.

The recent rainstorms have delayed the farmers in getting their crops out of the field, but as good weather prevails now they will soon finish and the threshers are kept busy all the time. The new coal mines recently opened up by Charles Hammond have now about 150 tons of fine coal ready for market. Seven men and some teams are working on a new road from the new

Special Correspondence.

BOISE, Ida., Oct. 24.—The Idaho Intermountain fair opened last Monday morning. The attendance thus far has been beyond the most hopeful expectations of the fair directors; the races have been better than on any previous year; this said, the exceptions on the side of excellence are included. While the fruit exhibit is pretty good, other soil products are not well represented, and the animal show is quite deficient. Only a comparatively small portion of the state is represented, principally the adjacent counties. The lady and yesterday was a special feature of interest, especially to the female population. The predominance of women on that day was especially noticeable.

MONTEPELIER SCHOOLS IN CROWDED CONDITION.

Special Correspondence.

MONTEPELIER, Idaho, Oct. 21.—The city schools are making good progress, the lower grades are so crowded that it has become necessary to separate some of the grades and hold half day sessions with them. The work on the high school building is going on somewhat, but the district school will not be completed and ready for occupancy nearly as soon as had been hoped for, but with the scarcity of labor and material the district school is being pushed as rapidly as it has been.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Douglas are anxious to get their daughter Irene G. and Ralph R. Hampton of Salt Lake, for Monday, Nov. 4, 1907.

The Sabbath meetings are fairly well attended, as are all of the auxiliary organizations, all of which are in good working order. There will, however, be some changes in the Sabbath school organization due to the new rules which is being adopted in the Seventies quorum.

MUCH PRODUCE BEING SHIPPED FROM RIGBY.

Special Correspondence.

RIGBY, Ida., Oct. 24.—The local weather continues and the work of gathering and marketing farm produce progresses accordingly. The R. H. L. & M. Co. has commenced receiving potatoes and they are being brought in at the rate of about a car load per day, which rate will increase as soon as farmers get their potatoes to the east. The potatoes are bringing 60 cents per hundred, which is a good price for the opening of the season. As an illustration of the rate at which produce is being shipped, just up to Thursday car load shipments from this point were as follows: Cans, 6; millstuffs, 6; beets, 21; potatoes, 2.

Mr. A. Whippleman's new brick building for a jewelry and hardware store, 70 by 25 feet, is now ready for the roof.

As are pleased to welcome E. L. Marler and wife, who left last spring for Nevada, back to Rigby.

MORE CHARGES AGAINST IDAHO FALLS COUNCIL.

Special Correspondence.

IDAHO FALLS, Ida., Oct. 24.—Another charge has been filed against the city council of Idaho Falls, and W. C. Parrish, city clerk, David Bybee being the complaining witness. Mrs. Bybee accuses the council and Parrish of charging and collecting illegal fees for alleged services rendered in their official offices, and for entering illegal claims against the city and of general incompetency. He also charges collusion between the council and Parrish to have claims for purchases of clothing and supplies, the same being sold to various parties, specifically naming as having received such supplies the firm of Dalstrom & Co., Joseph Maguire and D. B. Ingalls, and that the mayor and members of the council were silent members of the firm of Dalstrom & Co.

WINE TRADE OF FRANCE HAS BEEN KILLED BY SUGAR

Representatives of $200,000,000

But the competition of those who water their wine is as nothing compared with the sugar product. It is not mother earth that has produced this crisis. It is the misuse of sugar. The vineyard-growers of France are unanimous in this belief. Every year the sugar men of the country, according to the estimate of the president of the chamber of commerce at Bordeaux, east upon the market from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 hectoliters of artificial wine.

It is sugar that has killed the wine trade of France. Within limits the use of sugar in wine is legal. The wine of the early vintage in many of the departments is green and weak in alcohol, averaging from six to eight degrees. But it can be fortified. Five kilos of sugar per hectoliter will make the green wine similar to that of the later vintage. If the practice of using sugar were confined only to the early vintage, there would be little room for complaint, but it is not. The later vintage is diluted with water and treated with sugar, and enormous quantities of the same are sold on the market at a low price. But this condition is not the worst. An ingenious chemist has discovered that water and sugar can be produced which could be produced very cheaply. Two hectoliters of sugar water alcoholized to ten degrees and properly treated with tartaric acid, glycerine and so forth, will make a wine which will return 20 francs to the manufacturer. Another way is to mix a hectoliter of Algerian wine which is heavy in alcohol, (twenty-fourteen degrees) and 10 francs in Paris with other ingredients, so that three hectoliters of wine are produced at a cost of 35 francs, or 11 francs 5 centimes per hectoliter. This is supposedly a good wine, having 10 degrees of alcohol. In contrast with this wine compare that borne by the simple vineyard which is selling for 10 francs in Paris. Unless he can sell his wine at 18 francs he loses money—James Westfall Thompson in The World Today.

SOME RIGHTEOUS CORPORATIONS.

Among the corporations that have been far-sighted enough thus to undertake the training of their skilled men a few have had remarkable success, and their systems deserve the thoughtful attention of all who are interested in industrial education.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, for instance, takes apprentices to the industry of locomotive building in all its branches. There has been some form of apprenticeship in these works since 1855, but the present system was adopted only in 1904, when it was made a distinct department, with its own superintendent.

The General Electric company of Lynn has two classes of apprentices, a scholar apprentice, who has to serve a period of four years. Beginners must be 16 years of age and have a grammar school education. In addition to the shop work they have passed a course of work in mathematics, physics, technology and mechanical drawing. The wages are graded from $14 to $20 per week, with a bonus of $100. This apprentice becomes foreman, master mechanic and superintendent. This company also takes high school graduates as draughting apprentices.

The Westinghouse company of Pittsburgh has a special foreman of its apprentice department, who has general charge of all apprentices and who outlines the course of work the apprentices are to follow. Six months' work in the drawing room is required of each apprentice and a daily report throughout the year. If it is not in character and the Commons.

PITTSBURG PARTY VISITS TWIN FALLS

Representatives of $200,000,000

Gain an Eye Opener as to Possibilities There.

Special Correspondence.

TWIN FALLS, Oct. 24.—Never before in the history of this place have so many wealthy men walked its streets as on Monday and Tuesday of this week. During that time the town could boast of having within its confines more than 20 multi-millionaires, in addition to its own many prospective ones. Representatives of over $200,000,000 were here, and most of them intended to increase their wealth by investments hereabouts.

The visitors were headed by Messrs. J. and William Kahn of the Twin Falls North Side Land & Water company, and all were the guests of S. H. Hays of that corporation. The personnel of the party was as follows: James S. Kahn, William S. Kahn, John B. Jackson, president of the Fidelity Title & Trust company of Pittsburgh; William A. Shaw, president of the Bank of Pittsburgh; John Bonawit, president of the Diamond National bank of Pittsburgh; James S. Kahn, president of the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings; H. M. Lardis, president of the Federal National bank of Pittsburgh; W. Frederick Plummer, vice president of the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings; F. A. Griffin, vice president of the Columbia National bank of Pittsburgh; John Bonawit, president of the Northern Trust company of Philadelphia; Frank Batteas, banker of Philadelphia; J. M. Young, cashier of the Second National bank of Pittsburgh; John Bonawit, president of the Washington Trust company of Washington, Pa.; D. McK. Lloyd, president of the People's Savings bank of Pittsburgh; John P. Black, president of the City Savings bank of Omaha; E. R. Scull, Dr. R. W. Stewart, F. S. Carmack, A. N. Vogtley, J. W. Miller, John W. Fulton, F. D. Glover and L. L. McCalland of Pittsburgh.

The Pittsburgh party were simply astounded at the possibilities of this part of the country. To see the vast acreage already yielding enormous crops of grain, fruit and vegetables, and to note the thousands of acres just as good and just as available as to be brought under cultivation, was a revelation to the easterners sufficiently impelling to cause nearly if not all of them to make extensive investments.

Gov. Gooding and other prominent Idahoans met the Pittsburgh party and did everything possible to entertain them while they remained in the Gem state. Various places of interest were visited, including the great canals and dams that cause the waters of the mammoth Snake river to flow to the north and to the south for the reclamation of hundreds of thousands of acres.

Boise confidently expected to receive a visit from the Pennsylvania financiers, and doubtless such would have been the case but for the illness of one of the party, which necessitated the early return home of the party.
