DEBATE WAS WARM. The debate at times waxed warm, and disclosed the fact that there were some Republicans, in addition to the so-called "insurgents," who were yet to be pacified before they would give their votes on the final passage of the bill. The Democrats held up the ma-jority party to scorn for having, as they charged, violated its ante-election pledges. A feature of the discussion was an appeal by Chairman Payne to his colleagues to send the conferees to the senate unhampered by instructions. He promised to rigidly exact an ex-planation of every amendment made by the senate, in order that the house conferees might report back a bill which would meet the approval bf the majority and the country at large.

by the senate, in order that the house conferees might report back a bill which would meet the approval of the majority and the country at large. His appeal was granted. At 3:26 p. m. adjournment was taken until Monday noon, when the joint resolution providing for the sub-mission to the several states of the income tax amendment to the Consti-tution will be considered. When the house met today its mem-bers were in possession of copies of the tariff bill as it had been amended and passed the senate. The members of the house displayed an eagerness to get to work, in the hope of making an early disposition of the bill, or out or mere curosity, as one member sug-gested, "to see just what the senate had done to it." The committee on rules met after the house took a recess of an hour and decided to bring in an order for the reference, as requested by the senate. the house meantime disagreeing to the senate amendments. When the recess had expired, Mr. paizell (Pennsylvania) of the commit-tee on rules was at once recognized to offer the rule providing for non-con-currence in all the amendemts and agreeing to the conference requested by the senate. He supplemented the rule with a motion for one hour and a half for debate. This suggestion was not entirely ac-ceptable to Mr. Townsend (Michigan), who wanted the time extended to three hours, but Mr. Dalzell's motion was adopted. The bill as it came from the senate was condemned by Mr. Townsend (Michigan). HARDLY RECOGNIZES BILL.

As it left the house, he said, it com-plied, for the most part, with the Re-publican pledges, but now, he declared, "you would hardly recognize it if you met it in the road." He did not be-lieve it was ever intended that the senate should introduce brand-new pro-positions which the house had never discussed. Mr. Townsend created a stir when he declared that in the course course when he declared that in the of the debate in the senate the house and the ways and means committee had been insulted. He insisted that the bill ought to be controlled by the house, subject to such recommenda-tions as the senate rightfully could make and not have senate rightfully. make, and not by a conference commit-The bill, in the opinion of Mr. Fitz-gerald, was about as bad a piece of leg-islation as it would be possible to make islation as it would be possible to make in any legislative body. He hoped there would be aroused throughout the coun-try a resentment such as would make it impossible to put some of the senate amendments into effect. The first open evidence of an intended revolt on the Republican side was made manifest when Mr. Mann (Illinois) protested ve-hemently against the amendments fix-ing the duties on wood pulp and print paper. hemently against the amenaments fix-ing the duties on wood pulp and print paper. There were but two states which would benefit by such a protection, de-clared Mr. Mann. "I give notice now," he exclaimed, amid Democratic and some Republican applause, "that if these two states write the provision in the conference report on print paper and on wood pulp in the interests of their states and against the interests of the consumers of paper and the man-ufacturers of paper in the rest of the nation, so far as I am concerned, I shall swallow my desire to stand with the organization of the house, my de-sire to prove that Republicans are able to write a tariff bill, and voto against the conference report." In pleading for the opportunity to vote separately on the various amend-ments, Representative Bartlett (Geor-gia, Dem.) declared the corporation tax was "a subterfuge, a pretext and a sham," placed in the bill to defeat the income tax. income tax.

PAYNE'S DESIRE.

N. Y.

Mr. Payne expressed his desire for a full conference, "that we may bring before the house finally a bill with which we can go before the people of the United States with confidence or the United States with conndence and disappoint those gentlemen on the other side who are looking so enviously for some of the seats occupied by bet-ter men on this side." When the laughter and Republican applause that greeted this utterance subsided the vote was taken on the metion of Mr. Dalzell for the proving

This vote resulted— yeas, 178; nays, 151; and the amend-ments accordingly were all rejected and the bill sent to conference. The following 18 Republicans in the house voted against the special rule sending the tairff bill to conference: Davis, Minnesota; Good, Iowa; Gronne, North Dakota; Haugen, Iowu; Hi4shaw, Nebraska; Hubbard Iowa; Kendall, Iowa; Kinkaid, Nebraska; will inspect Fort Sam Houston. Mr. Taft, while secretary of war, was deep-ly impressed with this post and was instrumental in building it up to its present importance. After visiting Austin and Dallas, Texas, the presi-dent expects to spend several days on the ranch owned by his brother, C. P. Taft, at Corpus Christi, near Browns-ville. The government geological survey has a force of men scattered along the river for more than 100 miles above the dam, taking measurements of the river's flow to give indications of any sudden rise in the stream that might carry away the dyke and cause a flood. Preparations have been made to dyna-mite the dyke, if the waters carry away the temporary dyke. Arrange-ments have also been made to warn the people living in the valley below in case of danger.

BOYS, TO SAVE A MAN, CON-FESS TO BLACK HAND LETTER

Scatle, Junly 10.-After having sent a "Black Hand" letter as a joke, John Netlson, aged 12, and Willie Yeager, and Herbert Penny, both aged 12, voluntarily confessed yesterday when they learned that an innocent man nad been arrested. The boys told the judge of the juvenile court! that they had written the letter as a joke, having conceived the idea aft-er reading accounts of "Black Hand" threats made elsewhere. Later they read an account of a man being arrested for sending the letter which they drew up, and they at once confessed to their par-ents, who reported the matter to the of-ficers. After receiving a lecture, the boys were released.

CLARK'S COMMENT.

"Great God Almighty, eight hundred and forty-seven amendments!" was the exclamation of Mr. Clark, the minor-ity leader, as he closed the debate on his side. He proposed the idea of voting on every amendment without de-bate, which, he said, would take only 26 hours.

The bill, Mr. Clark said, when it left the house was bad; "the Aldrich-Smoot bill is worse, and, judging the future by the past, the result of the labors of the conference committee will be worse than all,"

Mr. Payne, in closing for his side, pleaded with his colleagues to send the pleaded with his colleagues to send the conferees to the senate unhampered by any vote of instructions.
