

HIS COMMITTEES PLEASE SENATORS

Country Members Get Large Proportion of Appointments in Upper House.

NEW MEMBERS RECOGNIZED.

Some of Them Get Important Positions on Committees Which Will Handle Difficult Problems.

To most people it looks as if the legislature would be a busy body for many weeks, and then a bunch of idle legislators would sit around a table and pass bills, all in a rush at the end. This is because people generally do not understand the incubating process through which bills go before they are ready for hatching at the session's end. In the senate the committees are now appointed. They will have charge of the bills, each and every one of them, and it is these committee headquarters far away from the eyes of prying citizens that the really fine legislative trimming will be done. When the popular measure comes out dead on a vote will ever know if it died from suffocation, old age, or strangulation, and if the latter those who were at the time of its death will know.

General satisfaction is expressed in the committee appointments. It is not radically different from the list of the last session. Where the senators of the last session were for the most part given their old appointments, and vacancies are made up from the new timber.

Head of the judiciary committee Lawrence brings to the place much prestige from a former successful estate agent at that post. He is the experience of the legislature, and is known to show heat, or to let a measure pass under his eye without looking at every word and every line in each word, including the commas and periods sometimes occurring between them.

Senator Bullen is the first senator on the list to get a chairmanship, and his committee is that on insurance, to which some important legislation may be submitted. Gardner inherits the agriculture committee from Senator McKay of the last session who had this subject very near to his heart. Gardner comes from Utah county, and is much interested in the Strawberry valley project. John Y. Smith gets the banks and banking committee, as his plum. Hulaniski gets the federal relations post, while Walton will do the honors for the protection of fish and game.

The committee list is as follows:

Agriculture and Irrigation—Gardner, chairman; Clegg, Walton, Callister, Brinkhoff, Hulaniski.

Appropriation—Callister, chairman; Williams, Rasband, Bullen, Seely.

Appropriations and Claims—Williams, chairman; Miller, Lawrence, Gardner, Callister, Walton, Hulaniski, Bullen, Seely, Park, B. X. Smith, Brinkhoff.

Contingent Expense—Johnson, chairman; Rasband, Walton.

County and Municipal Corporations—B. X. Smith, chairman; Hulaniski, Rasband, Clegg, Callister, Seely, J. Y. Smith.

Education—Park, chairman; Johnson, Walton, Callister, Lawrence, Bullen, Hollingsworth.

Elections—Rasband, chairman; J. Y. Smith, Miller, B. X. Smith, Brinkhoff.

Engrossed and Enrolled Bills—Hollingsworth, chairman; Miller, Callister, Federal Relations—Hulaniski, chairman; J. Y. Smith, Park, B. X. Smith, Brinkhoff.

Fish and Game—Walton, chairman; Hulaniski, Park, Bullen, J. Y. Smith, Clegg, Callister.

Forests and Forestry—Brinkhoff, chairman; Miller, Clegg, Gardner, Seely.

Highways and Bridges—Seely, chairman; Hulaniski, Brinkhoff.

Judiciary—Lawrence, chairman; Hollingsworth, Hulaniski, B. X. Smith, Johnson, Gardner, Walton.

Labor—Gardner, chairman; Miller, Brinkhoff, Rasband, Williams.

Livestock—Clegg, chairman; Walton, Seely.

Manufactures and Commerce—Williams, chairman; J. Y. Smith, Johnson, Callister, Rasband.

Military Affairs—Park, chairman; Williams, Hulaniski, Rasband, B. X. Smith.

Mines and Minerals—Rasband, chairman; Lawrence, B. X. Smith, Bullen, Gardner.

Private Corporations and Insurance—Bullen, chairman; Gardner, Williams, Lawrence, Hollingsworth.

Public Health—Walton, chairman; B. X. Smith, Johnson, Park, J. Y. Smith.

Public Institutions—Hollingsworth, chairman; Brinkhoff, Lawrence, Gardner, Bullen, Williams, Miller.

Public Lands—Walton, chairman; Johnson, Seely, Rasband, Hulaniski, Clegg, Callister.

Public Printing—Bullen, chairman; Clegg, Gardner.

Railroad—Johnson, chairman; Lawrence, Seely, B. X. Smith, Hollingsworth, Clegg, Park.

Rules—Park, chairman; Hollingsworth, Bullen, J. Y. Smith, chairman; Bullen, Rasband, Brinkhoff, Miller, State Affairs—Callister, chairman; Williams, Johnson, Seely, Park.

Ways and Means—Miller, chairman; Lawrence, Hollingsworth, Gardner, Williams.

the beginning of each session, or submit a reasonable excuse. These two rules will have the effect of facilitating legislation to a marked degree, as the experience of previous years will amply attest. In case of absence of members for reasons other than sickness, the permission of the house is required.

The number of committees has been reduced to thirty-seven in place of forty, as formerly. The insurance committee has been merged with the banking committee, the mining and smelting committees have been consolidated, and any committees heretofore handling state property of any kind have been relieved of this responsibility, and the same given to the committee on public grounds and buildings.

"Another rule calculated to expedite business is that limiting the time for the introduction of bills to the first thirty days of the session. No bill may be introduced after the thirty day limit, except by the special recommendation of a committee. A mileage of members will be allowed at 20 cents per mile.

SENIOR WATSON'S FISH AND GAME

New Chairman of Senate Committee Has Had Previous Experience.

ADVENTURE WITH BOUNTIES.

He Became Convinced That no Law Could be Framed up Strong Enough To Prevent Fraud.

Senator Wesley K. Walton, the new chairman of the committee on fish and game, qualified for the position in a peculiar way. A session ago he told some live stories in an hour or so about his hunting up near his home at Woodruff, and one of these fairly outdid the exhibits of the bounty people then on file in the county clerk's office.

Then when this bounty fraud business got fairly well under way, Senator Walton sought the limelight again, in a way that fairly made him the logical candidate beyond any hope of an ouster from a more ambitious shot-gun man.

"I believe," he said with that quiet smile and low tone that is characteristic of him on the floor, "that you can't make a bounty law which can't be beat. Now for instance, I was once in the bounty business myself. It was all because the ground squirrels were ruining my ranch out at Woodruff, and I decided to get rid of them. So I offered a bounty.

SQUIRE TALES.

"The test of death was that I would pay 25 cents each for every squirrel I delivered to me. I was then very busy in short order and pretty soon the tails began to come in so abundantly that I was rapidly being bankrupted. The one day when I was riding over the ranch my eyes were opened to as gross a bounty fraud as this honorable body ever had to consider. That ranch was simply alive with bob tailed squirrels.

WHERE FRAUD OCCURRED.

"Those boys had figured there was more profit in a second crop of tails than in a first. I had to do away with bounty promotions as a means of killing off the animals.

Senator Park is the other hunter of the senate besides Walton. Park has a private house down at the Jordan river mouth, and his ambition runs along the line of killing a limit per day of green head marmots when the snow flurries are favorable, and the weather is not too cold for comfortable hunting. Park will look at things more from the state of the professional hunter, while the other member will look on fish and game as food products to be used for useful and pleasant eating.

Year a powerful society is working for better laws to make it harder to kill game except for sport, the argument being that market hunting will soon devastate the supply, and Utah will lose a great opportunity to provide wonderful play grounds for her overworked office forces and professional sportsmen to whom the spring weather smells of fishy streams and the winter snow of duck flights.

MARKET HUNTING.

The assault on market hunting of two years ago failed because too many senators liked a duck or two for dinner and preferred to get it from the short keeper rather than from a sportsman's friend as a gift.

Walton was neutral in that fight. Chairman Barber of the committee was a staunch supporter of the market hunter and a relative foe of the "mercé dudes" who want to dress up and go forth in the sloughs to lord it over the game that make their home there. The fish and game fight of the session will be one of the most interesting, and but for the two big problems of consolidation and railroad commissions would make a bid for the center of the stage.

Coffee King's Record.—"Fin." Brooks, the Madia king or coffee kid has just closed another record breaking year as traveling salesman for a large eastern coffee firm. In his territory, comprising Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and Idaho, he sold over 1,000,000 pounds of coffee during the past year. His company hangs up a prize every year for the superior seller of the most coffee and "Fin." has captured the award twice in succession. In 1905 he won a large diamond elegantly mounted. He had his office of a trip to Paris or several thousand dollars. He chose the latter. "I don't know anybody in Paris," he explained the night of the trip. "I preferred the money so I could move around with the boys in Utah. Mr. Brooks or as he prefers to be called, "Fin," is known from one end of the continent to the other among traveling men as the "Madia king" or "coffee king." He was born and raised in Salt Lake and makes his home here. Years ago before going into the drumming business "Fin." was an attaché of the local Wells-Fargo Express offices. When it is taken into consideration that "Fin." has four states in his territory which are not anywhere near as thickly populated as the states beyond the rivers and he has 59 competitors in the field against him, his record is wonderful.

"You see lots of coffees advertised as Mocha and Java products. There is very little real Mocha and Java coffee sold in America," says Mr. Brooks. "All the Mocha and Java coffee raised would not supply the crowned heads of Europe and the rich men of New York. Some is used in mixtures to obtain a blend of different used in the better qualities of market products is what is known as 'interior' products, raised in the interior portions of tropical countries. The Mocha and Java plants are transplanted and it is this coffee the world drinks. Transplanted flowers can be called the same thing, but the young and parent plants are as different as black and white. Now that the pure food and label law is effective, coffees heretofore labeled 'Mocha and Java' will be marked 'high grade' or 'something similar.' Mr. Brooks is resting in Salt Lake before going out again.

ing hour of 6 p. m. This car is loaded to its full visible capacity; I was just looking for the sign."

Commission Is Unnecessary.—E. C. Harris, of Chadron, Neb., is the Kenyon, whose proprietor, Don C. Porter, is an old acquaintance. Mr. Harris is widely acquainted in Salt Lake and Ogden, having been division superintendent of the Union Pacific between Ogden and Cheyenne some years ago. Mr. Harris has now quit railroad work and is a baker and cattle raiser of Nebraska. Mr. Harris does not favor a railroad commission in Utah although, admitting some states need them. He says a state commission would do nothing more than the interstate commerce commission can do now and would only discourage railroad building towards this state. He is a member of the Utah legislature. The visitor has become quite heavily interested in the mines of Mexico and has made a number of trips to that country. He explained Mr. Harris is rich in all minerals and its mine districts are attracting American investors.

JUDGMENT AFFIRMED.

Supreme Court Upholds Action in A. C. Contract Case.

The supreme court has handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the district court in the case of E. P. Smith, doing business as the E. P. Smith Wire & Iron works, appellant, vs. J. H. Bowman and Fred Hodder, as Bowman & Hodder, and H. G. Wilson and P. E. McGurrian, sureties. The action was brought to recover the balance due plaintiff for material furnished by Bowman & Hodder in the construction of the Agricultural college building of Logan. In the lower court Wilson and McGurrian objected to the introduction of any evidence as against them on the ground that the complaint did not state a cause of action against them as sureties on Bowman & Hodder's bond. The lower court sustained the objection, and rendered judgment against Bowman & Hodder in favor of the sureties. The plaintiff then appealed.

It is contended by the respondents that the bond given to the Agricultural college and for its benefit and not for the benefit of persons who were not entitled to a lien against the building. It was contended that the plaintiff has not brought himself within the class who are entitled to liens and therefore he cannot maintain the action against Wilson and McGurrian, the sureties.

The supreme court holds that plaintiff must be bound by the strict terms of the surety bond, and its terms can not be applied to his claim or his benefit, the lower court committed no error in finding the issues in favor of the sureties and against him. The judgment of the district court is therefore affirmed. Justice Straup wrote the opinion of the court and it is concurred in by Chief Justice McCarty and Justice Frick.

GETS DAMAGES AT LAST.

Echo of the Big Fire in Short Line Building.

In an opinion by the supreme court the judgment in the case of Mrs. T. G. Smith against the Mine & Smelter Supply company, appellant. The action was brought to recover damages for injury to plaintiff's house and personal effects caused by an explosion of giant powder stored in the company's store at the time of the fire which destroyed the Short Line building on West Temple street several years ago. Plaintiff's house stood directly south of defendant's store and was damaged as a result of the explosion of giant powder in the lower part of the store. The lower part of the store was rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff whereupon the defendant appealed.

It contended that the lower court erred in admitting evidence as to the force of explosives stored in defendant's store and also as to the quantity of powder necessary to keep a sack for the demands of its trade for several days at a time. It was also urged that the court erred in its instructions to the jury with reference to the negligence of defendant in having the powder stored. The supreme court holds that the lower court committed no prejudicial error in admitting the evidence and in its instructions to the jury. The judgment is accordingly affirmed. Justice Frick wrote the opinion of the court and it is concurred in by Chief Justice McCarty and Justice Straup.

COURT NOTES.

The case of the State of Utah against L. T. Martin, which was set for trial yesterday, has been continued by Judge Armstrong to a date to be hereafter agreed upon. Martin is charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do bodily harm upon Edna Prescott.

Judge Morse has rendered a decree by default in favor of plaintiff in the case of Carrie Watson against Charles Baynam et al., correcting the description of certain property contained in a deed executed by the defendant in favor of plaintiff. The property involved is a part of the southeast quarter of section 34, township 1 south, range 1 east, Salt Lake meridian.

Suit for divorce has been filed in the district court by Florence Rickards against Homer C. Rickards on the ground of failure to support. They were married at Anaconda, Mont., on Jan. 3, 1903, and it is alleged that since March 1, 1905, the defendant has refused to support plaintiff although he has been earning $200 per month.

M. PLEASANT HAS LOWER COAL RATE

So Data Received by M. & M. A. Shows—"There's a Reason."

Say Officials Wisely.

DISCRIMINATION IS HINTED.

Salt Lake is the Same Distance From Mines But Pays $1.50 More Per Ton for Its Fuel.

The M. and M. A. has another round of ammunition for the fight it is directing against discrimination and other offenses which it lays against the railroads. Data was received at the association's headquarters last evening which shows that Mt. Pleasant, Utah, is paying but $3.50 per ton for coal from the Sunnyside mines. This information is surprising for the distance between the Sunnyside mines and Salt Lake is no greater than the distance between many southern states. Prominent Democrats here hastened to represent to the head men of the movement in Oklahoma that such action would be a mistake. Indeed, prove to be a calamity. Persons in Washington who are well acquainted with conditions in the territory that is soon to become the forty-sixth state say that sentiment in favor of putting the "Jim Crow" provisions in the constitution is strong there and that it is difficult to say what the result will be. It is pointed out here that if the Oklahomaists insist on making such an arrangement they can accomplish their object better by laws enacted by the state legislature.

COMMISSION IS FAVORED.

"Where a rate's good to strangle a mine, with it is good to aid in establishing big industries. What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. The M. and M. A. is receiving many responses to requests for views on the railroad commission affair and many letters are being received from persons desirous of airing their opinions on the much discussed subject. All of the letters are favorable to the creation of a commission, the writers believing this the only solution to present difficulties.

VISCOUNT AOKI'S CAT.

Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador to the United States, has a huge Maltese cat, named Peter, of which he is very fond. At the embassy Peter sits in state on a large silk upholstered settee close by the ambassador's chair and is duly presented to all callers. He has probably traveled as much as any cat in the world, having lived in four widely distant capitals with his master. Peter's most cherished possession is a heavy silver chain which he wears around his neck and to which is attached a plate bearing his name in French. He likes French particularly, but also seems to understand Japanese and English with equal ease. He is a very exclusive feline and steadfastly refuses all advances made by Washington cats regardless of their degree. He never leaves the embassy unless accompanied by his master or Viscount Aoki.

SOME IDEAS ON IMMIGRATION

Educational Test or Inspection For All Landing at Foreign Ports.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The subject of immigration is being seriously considered in Congress. Before the first session of the present Congress closed last June both senate and house passed immigration bills, the title of which were exactly the same, but which differed radically as to contents. Now an effort is being made to recur to the subject of the conference committee which was entrusted with the task of reconciling the two measures. The principal feature over which a difference of opinion exists is the provision for an educational test of all immigrants landing at American ports. This is in the senate bill, but not in the house bill. The house favors the elimination of the educational test and the substitution thereof of an authorization for the stationing of physicians and inspectors at foreign ports to determine who are qualified under our laws to come to the United States. In this way it is hoped that the deportation of undesirable immigrants from United States ports may be entirely done away with. There is a good deal of talk just now about a compromise based on these lines, and it is not improbable that the conference committee will agree on a bill which does not contain any reference to an educational test and does provide for the inspection at foreign ports.

WAR ON GARDEN SEEDS.

The old war against the distribution of common garden and flower seeds by congressmen is to be renewed with unusual vigor this winter. It is almost universally admitted that the present system is unsatisfactory since the value of seeds given by a congressman to any one individual is usually too small to make the transaction worth while, because the science of growing plants is not advanced in any way by the distribution of the common seeds and because it is asserted that in permitting the distribution through members of Congress the government discriminates unjustly against concerns which deal in seeds. Dr. Beverly T. Galloway, chief of the bureau of plant industry, department of agriculture, has a plan to abolish the old system and to substitute for it the distribution of rare seeds, experiments with which naturally would have the effect of benefiting the farmers of the country. Dr. Galloway has outlined his scheme to the house committee on agriculture, by which it is now being considered.

It was intended, according to reports received here, to so frame the constitution as to make necessary separate cars for the white and black races, separate schools and the suffrage restrictions which are usual in many southern states. Persons in Washington who are well acquainted with conditions in the territory that is soon to become the forty-sixth state say that sentiment in favor of putting the "Jim Crow" provisions in the constitution is strong there and that it is difficult to say what the result will be.
