HITCH IN SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION.

About two months ago a vote of the residents of the southwestern part of the county was taken to decide as to whether certain school districts in that section should be consolidated into one. The vote showed the majority of the voters to be in favor of the consolidation, and the board of county commissioners, after canvassing the vote, declared that the following districts should be consolidated into school district No. 1: Roy, Kaneville, Hooper, Taylor, West Weber, Garland and Wilson. On the part of some of the residents of that district an effort is now being put forth to break up the consolidation.

An action has been filed in the Second district court by Henderson and MacMillan as attorneys for the Roy school district of Weber county against C. R. Hollingsworth, county clerk. The application for a writ of mandate, alleges that John C. Child, Charles A. Roundell and Lorenzo Stoker, were the duly elected trustees of the plainiffs' corporation, and further alleges that the said trustees met last June and passed resolutions providing for a 5 mill school tax levy, to raise funds to pay the expenses of running the schools for the coming school year. That this month the said trustees were notified by the county auditor that the said five mill school tax would not be placed upon the tax rolls, on account of the Roy district having been consolidated in the school district No. 1. The affiant John C. Childs alleges that the said consolidation is void and null, on grounds that the resolutions of consolidation, passed by the commissioners, did not contain an enabling clause nor were they entered in the ordinance book or published or signed by the chairman of the board and attested by the clerk. It is further alleged that the auditor's refusal is unlawful, because the Roy school district had never been abolished and school district No. 1 created according to law. That without the five mill levy the school cannot run this year. Wherefore the affiant prays for a writ of mandate compelling the auditor to place the five mill levy on the assessment rolls.

The labor union parade and formation of the same for Labor day, Sept. 7, promises to be one of the finest parades ever seen in Ogden. Elaborate preparations are under way.

LABOR DAY PARADE.

The board of education held its regular session last evening with all members present.

The teachers committee reported that it will report upon the assignment of teachers to the next meeting, so that it will be able to report on the teachers examinations which were completed last evening.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The resignation of Miss Bertha Lesseur as teacher was accepted. The application of Mrs. Brown for position as teacher was filed.

One thousand dollars was ordered paid the contractors on the high school annex.

A letter of condolence was sent the mother of Miss Eugenia D. Smith, expressing the board's sympathy to her in the death of her daughter, who was formerly an esteemed teacher in the Ogden public schools.

The following janitors for the various schools were employed for the ensuing year:

Central, Eli Blafsky; Pingree, Albert Bell; Washington, Robert Unsworth; West Ogden, W. F. Smith; Grant, Henry Bell; Grant annex, Mrs. J. O. Williams; Mount Fort, Isaac Farley; Five Points, L. W. ENCOURAGING LETTERS.

The board of control of the Irrigation congress continues to receive encouraging letters from all sources, in which the writers congratulate the board on the outlook and praise all the assistance possible to make the congress one of the most successful yet held. A letter was received this morning from Henry Altenbrand, president of the Manhattan, Mont. Mining Co., in which he asks for space for an exhibit of barley and oats raised under irrigation.

This company grows the celebrated Siale barley and hopes to be able to land the $500 prize offered by Capt. Paul of Milwaukee. Mr. Altenbrand is also president of the West Gallatin Irrigation company, one of the biggest of such concerns in the west. Letters have also been received from the Union Sugar Co. of San Francisco, which will make an exhibit, and from Governor John Sparks of Nevada, who names 20 delegates to the congress, also from

W. D. Burford, manager of the Provo, Utah, who died in New York a few days ago.

Haworth played last season with Richard Mansfield in "Julius Caesar," succeeding Barry Johnston as "Cassius." Later he was the leading man to Blanche Walsh in Foote's "Resurrection." Haworth came to Cleveland a week or two ago on a vacation.

Nowhere outside of his own home, will the news of Mr. Haworth's death cause a greater shock than in Salt Lake. The weeks he spent here in preparing for the role of "Coriolanus," his distinguished success in that part, and his connection with the play when it went on the road, all brought him very close to our people. In addition he made a large number of friends in a social way. He felt a deep interest in the people of Utah and in the "Mormon" doctrines, and carried with him to his home, quite a number of the leading Church works. Among his closest friends here, outside of the Corianton management, were Messrs. B. H. Roberts and O. F. Whitney.

After leaving the "Corianton" company, Mr. Haworth went east, where he continued his successful career by playing "Cassius" to Richard Mansfield's "Brutus." Next he acted with Blanche Walsh, having the leading part in her production of "Resurrection."

He was full of enthusiasm over his plans for the coming year, and to the

JOSEPH HAWORTH IS NO MORE.

The Distinguished Actor Died of Heart Disease in Cleveland Last Night.

A SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

He Won Local Fame for His Fine Impersonations of Corianton Last Year.

Cleveland, Aug. 28.—Joseph Haworth, the well known actor, was found dead in a room in the Kingsley hotel at Willoughby, O., a small village a few miles east of this city, tonight, aged 48 years. The discovery of Mr. Haworth's death was made by his sister, Miss Kate Haworth, who went to his room to call him, as they were to go together to the family home, a mile or two from the hotel. The discovery was made at 8 o'clock. Death is supposed to have been due to heart disease.

Joseph Haworth has been prominent in the theatrical world for 25 years and was one of the first actors to come under the guidance of the veteran John

Wilder, who died in New York in January last, that he hoped to have a company of his own in the near future, and one of the spots he would look forward to visiting with fond anticipation, was Salt Lake.

Mr. Haworth had a beautiful home near Cleveland where his family resided. He was an unmarried man. He was wonderfully popular both in and out of his profession, his handsome face, charming disposition and cultured instincts all winning friends for him in whatever circle he moved.

At 7:25 the meeting was adjourned. Elder Geo. M. Cannon offering the benediction. Those present then retired to the assembly room of the B. Y. memorial building, where a meeting of the stake board and ward superintendents had been arranged for 7:30.

"Redeemer of Israel" was sung, and prayer was offered by Asst. Supt. Chas. B. Felt.

The roll was called by the stake secretary, all but two of the stake board, who were excused on account of sickness, responding, and 34 of the 41 schools being represented.

REMARKS BY SUPT. TANNER.

After a few words of welcome by Supt. Burrows, Asst. General Supt. Jos. M. Tanner took the stand. He spoke of the value of a meeting with the superintendents prior to the conference as it offered an opportunity of talking over matters of vital importance. The speaker said that one of the superintendents' duties was to look after the physical condition of the school, that the room should be warm, comfortable and well ventilated. All cleaning should be done the day previous. The speaker advocated light breakfasts for both teachers and pupils, but especially the former, as hearty meals served only to disqualify persons for the labor of teaching, even though they are experienced in the work. Much depends on the teacher's frame of mind, therefore superintendents and teachers should be in a happy mood themselves and seek to enliven and uplift them by words of encouragement and welcome, then their teaching thought will be gathered and their minds concentrated on the Sunday school lessons.

Inasmuch as the aesthetic nature is associated with the religious, efforts should be made to inspire the child by a brief reference to some interesting emblem as will appeal to the former. Flowers and appropriate pictures, said the speaker, serve to introduce sunshine and life and light into the Sunday school and arouse the aesthetic nature of the child. The appearance of the teacher before his class also has much to do with the interest, therefore particular attention should be paid to neatness in dress without undue attention to the latter.

Superintendents should familiarize themselves with the lessons, as by so doing they may often arouse interest by a brief reference to some interesting topic that is to be considered by one of the departments. Also every effort should be made to increase home preparation and attendance.

Supt. Tanner spoke of a showing of hands to indicate the number of superintendents who follow the subject matter in the Juvenile Instructor and received a very good response. Answering questions he said that as the value of a story is in the conclusions, continued stories are not desirable, and when in doubt as to the value of lessons assigned confer with authority on the subject. Do not substitute.

ELDER GEORGE M. CANNON.

Elder Geo. M. Cannon of the general board spoke briefly on the card playing evil and solicited the aid of Sunday school superintendents to suppress it.

He called attention to the counsel of the Prophet of the Lord on the subject and admonished all to heed it. He said that not only does President Joseph F. Smith speak very forcefully and pointedly on the subject, but President Taylor has counseled against card playing as also other Church leaders, and it is now desired that the Sunday schools put forth an effort to correct the evil.

SECRETARY PYPER SPEAKS.

General Secretary G. D. Pyper next spoke, offering some good advice in regard to music and marching. He said that children could do better marching to music if they are familiar with their strange music, therefore he urged Sunday school music entirely. He also suggested more attention to teaching the children the words of the songs as they will catch the tune more readily afterwards.

SUPT. JOSIAH BURROWS.

Supt. Burrows spoke of the improved working made by the schools this season in the matter of holding the 9:45 prayer meeting, the superintendents' council meetings and annual conferences, also the favorable reports of benefits derived from the use of the lesson statements, and made an especial appeal to those not in line to at once introduce these features that they, too, may advance with the majority and get the benefits to be derived by so doing. He said our Juvenile subscription is open and unprovoked. All Sunday school workers should be subscribers and search its columns for the counsel and instruction they contain.

"Lord Dismiss Us" was sung and an adjournment was taken until Sunday at 10 a. m. in the Tabernacle.

TOMORROW'S MEETINGS.

The conference proper convenes in the Tabernacle at 10 a. m. tomorrow, when it is expected upwards of 10,000 Sunday school workers, the greater part of them children, will assemble and take part in the exercises. As hitherto announced the schools will march from their respective districts in a body and will take their places in the Tabernacle in the order of their arrival, the early schools getting the best seats. There will also be a meeting at 2 p. m. and an officers' and teachers' meeting in the Assembly hall at 4 p. m. During the conference all Sunday school officers and teachers will wear badges, the general and stake boards a white badge, the superintendents and assistants a blue one and other officers and teachers a red badge. The full program for the day is as follows:
