Great Nations Destroyed by Drink.

h

Great Nations Destroyed by Drink. Th great empires of antiquity might still have been flourishing but for cortain destructive agencies cherished within their own bosoms. Babylon was conquered not so much by the arms of the Medes and Persians as by drunkenness and revelty. Had it not been for the debauchery of her kings and princes, and the general effeminacy of her people, she might long have reared her lofty brow among the nations, with her hanging gardens and fair palaces the admira-tion and delight of all beholders. Per-sia fell not so much by the energy and valor of the Greek armies as by the drunkenness of her kings and people. Had it not been for this, that wonderful people might still have wonderful people might still have been a power in the world. Greece in her turn fell, not so much by the provess of the Roman arms as by her own discord and effeminacy. Save for this, Athens, in art, science and manners, might still have been the world's wonder and example. Rome fell, not so much by the hordes of Goths, Huns and Vandals descending upon her plains and assaulting her cliffes as by the careless ease and sottish indifference of her people. Wine and spoil took away the heart of that empire and unnerved its mights army. But for this, Rome, from her seven hills, might still have been controlling the destinies of the world, or at least leading in the van of nations.—Irish

Gunpowder and Brandy,

As we all know, the evils of drunkenness are not of recent discovery, but the following extract of the bad rethe following extract of the bad re-sults of liquor drinking in general, taken from the American Farmer of June, 1819, is very "up-to-date" in spirit, if slightly antequated in form. "An office in the government of Satan, being once upon a time vacant, "the prince of the power of the air" covered a power when it was pro-

Specialization: Its Benefits

When we sold our lease to our Los Angeles Branch Store we determined to devote ourselves exclusively to furs here in Salt Lake City. We determined to establish ours as the biggest shop in the State with that specialty, we had in mind a more important purpose than to merely brag of our position.

Not only is it our intent and disposition to offer the most diversified and exhaustive stock of the things that concern us, not only will we maintain our regular prices at a most modest level, but we will also share with you material benefits which our position earns for us.

The scope of our shop and its power, now and then create an opportunity to present merchandise that measures up to our standard at generous concessions from the regular prices.

Such is the condition which makes possible the important special offers which we present for Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday.

REVIVAL OF THE SILK WAIST.

1111/11/1/1

O

Fancy slik waists for wear with separate skirts are coming to the fashionable fore. Any color one desires is permissible, with as much elaboration of trimming as fancy dictates. Sleeves, all quite puffed, are long or short, and have their tops supported by small featherbone caps. The illustration shows a dull blue Louisine, having a vest front of cream-colored baby Irish lace. The girdle is of one piece with the waist, but beautifully stiffened with featherbone to keep the bloused portion properly in place.
