EVENTS OF MORMON EXODUS

ive I nteresting Story to a Nebraska Newspaper About the Settlement of a Portion of That Great State.

The Niobrara (Nebraska) Pioneer, under date of June 28th, contains the following account of the visit of Isaac Riddle, of Provo, to Niobrara, mention of which has previously been made in the "News," Mr. Jesse Knight, for whom Mr. Riddle is making the investibation referred to, has not yet heard from Mr. Riddle. The Pioneer says: "Isnac and John H. Riddle, accom-panied by J. W. Townsend, of Crete, panied by J. W. Townsend, of Crele, arrived in town Friday. They were here to locate the remains of Newel Knight and fifteen others, mostly children, who died during the winter of 1846-7, while the Mormons were in Winter Quarters on the opposite bank of the Niobrara river. The Riddle brothers are Mornions and were with the first party that ever crossed the Missouri river on their way to the 'promised land.' They are here at the instance of the son of Mr. Knight, who proposes to erect a hand-some monument. Secretary Fry, of the L'Eau qui court cemetery, offered in behalf of the association a plot of in our cemetery if they would ground exhume the remains and erect such a monument as they say will be erected, which is under consideration. "The early history of Nebraska is very vague as to this settlement of Mormons and the arrival of these gentlemen has settled some points of his-tory not known before, Isaac Riddle is from Provo, Utah, and was 16 when his father and family came here in the fall of 1846. "'My father was the vanguard of the Mormon pioneers,' said Mr. Riddle. 'We first struck up the Missouri in 1845 with thirty other families. A little be-low of Fort Formilies. South Dako low old Fort Vermillion, South Dako-ta, we fenced in over 2.000 acres of bottom land along the Missouri-the south line being fenced by the Big Muddy itthe winter of 1845-6. Word came that the winter of 1845-6. Word came that the Prophet Joseph Smith and his brother had been killed and we were ordered down the Missouri to Kanesville, where we were to meet the exodus from Nauvoo, Illinois, which we reached three weeks in advance.' Here Riddle described the persecution under which these ploneer families had passed from the hands of the Gentiles.

* Being at Niobrara was an accl-dent, continued Mr. Riddle. We were ordered away in the spring to the Rocky Mountains-150 wagons. The first wagon wheel that ever made its mark where Omaha now counts its hundreds of thousands was made by our party. We were the pathfind rs. We left the Missouri river in the month of July, 1846, after the president had issued a call for troops to fight Mexico, and 500 of our people responded. Our main camp was at Kanesville (Council.

SUCCESS! harvest of the former season an turned to Kanesville. We went down to Five-mile (Bazile) creek, going to Creighton is now, then struck southersi, "How does it come, Mr. Riddle, that what is known as 'the Mormon trail' goes west of Creighton?" asked the Pioneer interviewer. "This was due to the high water in 1850, when the main camp moved. The water was very high that season, and the Piatte and Elkhorn impassable. Our old trail was taken to the point where the trail bore easterly, and we then started due west in order to head the Elkhorn, going into the Black Hills and then onward. We crossed the Niobra-river at the 'big falls' with a good rock bottom "Isaac Riddle is an old white-headed man. He said that he is the husband o three wives and the father of twenty children, twelve of whom are still living. When the hour came to give up my wives or go to the penitentiary, continued Mr. Riddle, 'I chose the lat ter and am in the eyes of the law an ex-convict. Peace came to two of my wives and I have but one now.' "During the winter of our camp at the mouth of the Niobrara Newel Knight made two mill siones out of the drift boulders found on your tops with which we were to grind our corn by horse power. There is no such thing as a Mormon canal as you suggest. This was here the same as now, except perhaps it has been en-larged by the elements. These old mill stones we should like to embrace in our proposed monument of their maker. our proposed monument of their maker. We have trailed them pretty close, but whether they can be found or not we cannot say now. The son of Newel Knight is what we call a lucky miner, and counts his income with six figures. His tithe to the Church is $1,000 per month, has leisure and is liberal heart-ed. He has sent us out to locate the grave which we have succeeded in dograve, which we have succeeded in do-ing, exhumed some of the ashes buried 5 years ago and found remains of the fire brick. The buildings were built as stockades against the encroachment of the Sioux warriers, and what we found was, of course, only a small portion of the enclosure that held 65 families. The graves are about sixty rods from there on Buffalo Chip's lands overlooking the Niobrara island, and your Running Water. We shall return probably in the fall and begin operations.

"The Pioneer had photographs taken of the old gentlemen, which will appear later.

The remains of William Trezise will arrive in Sait Lake on Friday. The arrangements for the funeral will not be made until then.

Bishop Neff sent a couple of boxes of dewberries from his fruit farm at East Mill Creek this morning to one of the county officials. They were the finest specimens of the dewberry he ever saw. most of them being about an inch long, juley and fine flavored. The Bishop says that he has ripe peaches in his orchard already.

County Attorney Christensen today filed a complaint against saloon keeper Campbell of the Midway saloon at Murray for selling liquor to minors. The offense was selling an eight-gal-lon keg of beer to Shurtliff and the others who were with him when he shot Mrs. Wilson, a week ago Sunday. Mr, Campbell today was up in the county attorney's office today and said that they were, or appeared to be, of age.

Bluffs) as a supply and outfitting point midway to the land of promise. We proceeded up the Platte, and while in camp at Pawhee station, a courier arrived with orders that we should proceed no farther, as it was feared we could not reach the end of our journey before winter. Soldiers were stationed here and the government had put in a crop of wheat, oats, potatoes and corn. The Pawnees were troublesome that spring Pawnees were troublesome that spring and frightened the farm laborers out of the country. When we arrived, this crop was abandoned and we contracted to harvest it for half the crop. After this had been garnered, orders came for us to hunt winter quarters. About a dozen Ponca Indians were on a visit to the Bawnees who second to could to the Pawnees, who reported we could get excellent winter quarters with them. They piloted us from the Platte along about the route of the Elkhorn railroad. There was motive, however in the desire for our company. We had a small cannon along with us, and they had seen us shoot it. Having had much trouble with the Sioux at the west of them, this cannon was con-sidered a "heap big Indian killer." Our company went out with the Poncas in their winter hunt, going where the pine was quite heavy. The woods were full of wild turkeys, and all along the bench land where your town now stands were Iudian camps-from the mouth of the Niobrara to about halfway to the Five Mile creek (Bazile). The whole prairie was alive with buf-faloes then, and there were large quantities of timber skirting the two
