

MUSIC AND DRAMA

The week just ending, has been almost devoid of interest in theatrical circles. We have had Miss Eliza and the Hopkins Trans-Oceanics at the Theater, two nights of Canfield at the grand for the benefit of the Fourth of July Carnival Fund, and the Lyceum has produced fare-well during the week; but the attendances at the theater were the effects of the warm weather as all eyes now turn to the lake resorts where a dip can be had, and in the end of the evening people can mingle in the airy air. These rather advanced cause local falls in the interest to indoor amusements in summer, and the theatrical manager was surprised here at the end of the year either has an extremely busy company or surprising has he no place to play his little scenes.

Next week will see the close of the season at the Bay Lake Theatre, a glorious and appropriate wind-up to a successful season being given by John Drew and his company of players, including Maude Adams. The two plays to be presented here have been the success of the season, and Mr. Drew and his company have added new laurels to their numerous others, in their presentation. It is promised that Christopher Jr. and the Fly Girl of Dame will have the trans-lanterns go to spin off the warm weather.

Brigham Young's company of players, having come to rather a sad end and the grand will not be closed now for the summer, coming again in September. Manager Rogers says he will continue the large stand and the performances will henceforth have commenced that the produce themselves and that the company players to be engaged for the season of 1898-9 will be equally good if not better than the old company.

Manager Gates of the Lyceum has just closed his season and is preparing to produce some comedy, farce and musicals during the summer months.

As mentioned elsewhere in these columns a new venture of drama will be the movable ship upon which will be put to give a series of light opera productions. This should be a great success if well managed.

The Lyceum will photons for the week commanding Monday June 15th the matinee matinee 8 P.M. on the line of the musical comedy, "The Girl from Paris," "Vita Signe," "The House," "Jean Werner" and others. It is a single production.

John Drew will make a short trip of three nights to the Bay Lake Theatre during his brief western tour, Monday and Tuesday nights he will appear to Christopher Jr., which he played for three weeks at the Empire Theatre, New York, and will include a comic and tragic side. Wednesday night he will be seen at Mr. King's in The Empire of Dame, which means a season for a year over three months and need not have left New York this year.

The two pieces which Mr. Drew has this year added to his repertory are the best vehicles for his art that he has had since the famous Charles Froehling days. His handlings have improved greatly and he is now in full sympathy with results that Miss Maude Adams, the most charming title lady in the theater, can offer him.

Bobby Taylor will be a member of Weber and Erben's company next season. John Karsell will also be a member of the same company.

Miss Margaret Hall, an American girl of Scotch descent, has made her debut in London as Nedda in "I Pagliacci." She is very pretty and has a sweet voice.

J. M. Harvey's American and European Minstrels, consisting of 80 performers, begin their regular season August 1st, under the management of Al. L. Davis. They travel in ten pieces and are the most noted show of the larger cities and in first class theaters.

Miss Tracy, Miss Henry, Mr. Barker and others of the Grand Stand company complete a cast at the theater during the performances of J. M. Harvey's Minstrels and comedies Wednesday evenings.

Jennie Keeney and her husband, Bert Lutkin, leave for the East Coast on Friday evening to accept an engagement. Mrs. Keeney has been a consistent favorite in the theater, appearing in comedies and farces, with the exception of the last three years of her marriage.

On the 22d of May the news came that John D. Gardner, who had married the day before to Zelma V. Deems at the Deulen Hotel in Indianapolis, Indiana, had died.

He signed out his wife, He does not know her name, and has cause to be charged because her father has died and she has no money. They fall in love, win the confidence of the man, and accomplish all of their aims in time, until the two fall in love on the stage and continue to work with them.

The story of The English at Dawn, Mr. Kitter, is based on another's life story. He is interested in this, and has done some quite well, but there was a certain lack of originality in the story. Mr. Kitter, who is in search of a young man, chooses, among the young girls, a woman whom he describes as a prima donna, but she is not quite up to his idea of a prima donna. After a few scenes, however, he finds some real beauty in the girl, and decides to marry her.
