DECREE ENTERED IN SMELTER CASE

Defendant Companies Are Perpetually Enjoined by U.S. Court.

IN EFFECT AFTER 30 DAYS.

Paper Has Been Filed Relative to Amount Involved in Suit Against Two Concerns.

It will be remembered that at the time that Judge Marshall rendered his decision in the smelter smoke injunction case, recently, the complainants were granted permission by the ourt to file a paper relative to the amount involved in the suit, as pertaining to two of the defendant companies, after the filing of which paper the injunction would hold good and go into effect thirty days from that date. The matter has been attended to by the plaintiffs, and the decree was entered yesterday, as follows:

"That each of the defendants, the American Smelting and Refining company, a corporation, the United States Smelting courses."

Smelting company, a corporation, the Bingham Consolidated Mining and Bingham Consolidated Mining and Smelting company, a corporation, and the Bingham Copper and Gold Mining company, a corporation, with its offisers, agents, servants, and employes, is hereby perpetually enjoined from the future reasting or smelting of sulphide ores carrying over 19 per centum of sulphur, in any form or combination, at its present location, so as to discharge said sulphur into the atmosphere in the form of a gas or acid, or from further discharging into the atfrom further discharging into the at-mosphere of arsenic in any form; provided, that the defendants, or any vided, that the defendants, or any one or more of them, may at any time hereafter apply to the court, upon due notice to the complainants, for a modification or suspension of this injunction upon a showing which the court may deem sufficient, that conditions have so changed that the discharge of such sulphurous and arsenical fumes into the air by them or either of them may be resumed, or otherwise conductplained of. "This injunction shall be in force and effect from and after thirty days from the date of this decree."

JUDGE BROWN HOME.

Chosen to Take Charge of Boys' City For Four Months.

Judge Willis Brown of the juvenile court of this city returned yesterday afternoon from Lake Winona, Ind., where he attended the meeting of juve-nile court workers from all parts of the United States. An organization was effected of a national association of juvenile court workers and one of the objects of the association is to establish a training school for juvenile workers. It was also decided to establish a bars' city at Lake Winny for a pariod hoys' city at Lake Winona for a period of four months each summer. Judge have 400 boys there organize a regular municipal government which will con-trol the affairs of the city. The Pluck boys' band of this city will furnish music at the city next summer, Judge Brown having already closed the contract for its attendance.

Judge Brown has received a request from Oklahoma for a copy of the Utah juvenile court law to be used in draw-ing a law for that state and to be made a part of its constitution. He has also been invited to attend the constitu-tional convention at Oklahoma City and delivered an address in behalf of the juvenile court law.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY

Given Yesterday Afternoon in Hearing Of Jim Donaldson.

The preliminary hearing of "Jim" Donaldson was continued yesterday afternoon. W. J. Casey, cashier of the Salt Lake Turf Exchange, testified that he saw Donaldson on the night of Sept. 19, and that he had changed a $1,000 bill for him. He stated that he did not know that there had been a poker game. Casey was asked as to what he testined to in the Sheets case regarding that point, the question was objected to but the objection was overruled.
"It think I said in the Sheets case that "I think I said in the Sheets case that I cashed a check four or five weeks before that time, it we an ordinary transaction in my business and one such as would not impress my mind." He was not cross-examined.

would not impress my mind." He was not cross-examined.

Max Lambert, a waiter at the Vienna Cafe, was the next witness called. He testified that he saw Donaldson at the Vienna care and that he had a $1,000 bill and some other bills, the amounts of which he did not know. Donaldson said to him, "The men had close to $10,000." He was surprised that they carried that amount of money with them.

William Rodigkeit testated that he knew Donaldson and had seen him in the Vienna cafe on the night of Sept. 18.

"He showed me a $1,000 bill and other bills, and said that he had won the money in a poker game. He said a couple of fellows had about $10,000 on them. He was surprised at the amount of money they had with them."

On cross-examination he said that the defendant had exposed a $1.000 bill from his pocketbook. He did not state how much he had won but said the fellows had about $10,000 with them. Jim said that he had come out of the jungle on the other side of town, and that the fellows who had the money had left town. The examination was then closed for the day, and the case went over until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Counsel for the defense made a motion for the reduction of Donaldson's bond from $10,000 to $2,500 or such a sum as the court might deem sufficient to insure his presence at the trial court. The motion was everula and Donaldson was taken back to the county jail.

BOUNTY THIEVES NAILED

James Rumbsy and John Ruggles Arrested at New Whatcom, Wash,

Echoes of the bounty frauds that caused much stir and excitement here about we years ago are being wafted about wo years ago are being wafted from New Whatcom, Wash. James Rumsby, with many aliases, and his father-in-law, John Ruggles, possessing quite as many names as the other, have been arrested in the northwest, and will be placed on trial for bounty frauds committed in Colorado. The men belonged to the same gang that operated here, and Wyoming, Arizona and New Mexico were also heavy losers by the unlawful operations. Probably not less than $500,000 was filched from the treasuries of the states and terri-tories named, Utah coming in for a goodly share of the loss.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR DENATURING

The Conditions of Competition Prescribed by French Commission.

TREATMENT OF ALCOHOL

Full Latitude is Left to Inventors Conditions to Which Those Seeking Reward Must Conform.

Vice-Consul-General Paul H. Cram, of Marseille, furnishes the conditions of the competition instituted by the French government, with the object of discovering a denaturing agent for alcohol, and a system for the utilization of alcohol as an illuminant. The following is a translation of the official promulgation:

Articles 2 and 3 of the law of Nov. 29, 1905, institute two prizes: One of 20,000 francs ($3,860) in favor of the person who shall discover an agent for denaturing alcohol more advantageous than the dealcohol more advantageous than the de-naturing agent actually known, and of-fering to the treasury every guaranty against fraud; another of 50,000 francs (39,650) in favor of the person who shall discover a system permitting of the utili-zation of alcohol for illumination, under the same conditions as petroleum. The commission of analytical methods has drawn up the following conditions to which competitors must conform:

DENATURATION.

(i). The denaturant must offer an odor and taste which render it repulsive to the mouth; for this reason are eliminated the must of wine or of dates, the assence of thyme, resemary, spikenard, rose-bay infusion, etc.

must of wine or of dates, the assence of thyme, resemary, spikenard, rose-bay infusion, etc.

(2) It must not present an odor too pronounced or so repulsive as to interfere with the domestic and industrial uses of the denatured alcohol, thus excluding the employment of acetylene, of assafectida, or garlic essence, etc.

(3) It must not be constituted by a soluble substance which, by leaving a deposit on the wicks or in the mountings of the lamps, would hinder the combustion of the denatured alcohol—as, for instance, marine salt, sulphate of soda, alum, chlorohydrate of ammonia, ferrocyanide, acid pieric, infusions of wine diegs and residues, tobacco julce, tincture of aloes, etc.

(4) It may not be constituted otherwise than by a substance perceptible more or less volatile than alcohol, which, apart from other drawbacks, would allow of its elimination by fractional distillation. Among the substances excluded from this motive are to be noted, in the first category, ether, sulphuret of carbon, the light essences of petrol or of pit coal, and in the second category, essence of turpentine, cressyl, carbolic acid, petroleum, coal tars, tars of boghead and of birch trees, camphor, naphtaline, etc.

(5) It must not contain any substance capable of attacking the metallic parts of lamps or motors, such as ammonia, nitrobenzine, chlorine, phenoles, sulphuric acid, sulphuret of carbon, etc.

(6) It must not contain of metallic parts of lamps or motors, such as ammonia, nitrobenzine, chlorine, phenoles, sulphuric acid, sulphuret of carbon, etc.

(6) It must not contain not stit contain any poisonous substances, such as the extracts of henbane, aconite, or of digitalis, etc.

(7) It must be sufficiently economial and to be hider the domestic and lathermal tain any poisonous substences, such as the extracts of henbane, aconite, or of digitalis, etc.

(7.) It must be sufficiently economical not to hinder the domestic and industrial uses of the denatured alcohol.
(8.) It must not exist normally in the alcohols of commerce.
(9) It must permit of the easy and certain detection of its presence in denatured alcohol.
(10) Finally, it must, according to the terms of the law itself, be more profitable han the present denaturant, and offer to the treasury every guaranty against fraud.

ALCOHOL FOR ILLUMINATION.

Full latitude is left to inventors, provided that, in conformity with the law, the system presented permits of the utilization of alcohol under the same conditions as petroleum. Inventors should address their propositions, systems or devices, "accompanied by a written description to "Monsieur le Chef du Service des Laboratoires du Ministere des Finances, 11, Rue de la Douane Paris."
