SHARPERS CAUGHT HIM.

Young Man from Iowa Easy Prey for a Pair of Smooth Grifters.

Thomas Rouke, a young man on his way home to Iowa, was fleeced out of $175 and a ticket to his home state yesterday afternoon by allowing himself to be roped into a "brace game" of draw poker by a couple of smooth grifters.

Rouke came in from the west yesterday morning and as he had a few hours to spare, concluded he would take in the night.

He wandered up to the Temple grounds and there fell in with a couple of well-dressed "tourists."

They, too, were taking in the sights and prepared to take in anything else that was up and down the Temple grounds.

The three men strolled about the grounds for some time, and began to discuss religion. The question of whether card playing was right or wrong was discussed, and it developed that Rouke's view on the subject was that card playing was all right, whether on Sunday or Wednesday.

He accepted an invitation to play a game of cards with the limit at $5. Rouke played in good luck but when he was about $20 to the good, one of the men became angry and wanted the limit raised to $25.

Rouke and the other man were willing, and the game proceeded. The windup came when Rouke put up his Iowa ticket for $25 worth of chips. In a short time he was out of tickets and $175.

He left the place and walked out into the Temple grounds, thinking before long a great light broke upon him and he made a race against time to the police station.

He told the police of the little game and the officers accompanied him to the room where the game was played but the affable strangers had quietly departed. No trace of them could be found. Rouke will probably have to send home for funds.
