WISCONSIN CENTRAL BREACH.

88 People Killed and Many Wounded.

MADISON, Wis., May 30.—The Wisconsin Central, which was constructed by the Wisconsin Central, by which about 4,000 people lost their lives and several were wounded, was seriously damaged yesterday.

On a passenger train, with engineer and fireman, the engine ran off the track near Antigo, about twenty miles west of the town.

Just as the engine reached the upper switch at Madison, and while going down grade at a terrific rate of speed, it jumped from the track, and after going a short distance, came to rest against a slight embankment, with the tender on top, turned bottom up, two sleepers and one rail broken, and the engine hanging over the embankment.

One thing, at least you may rely upon—you will not find the Wisconsin Central, party among the other class, as these Democratic gentlemen do. For the time being, the train is to be used as a friend of silver, and because you people in England think the Indians must put a duty on silver bullion, those weaknesses in the bags, while others, railroad men, are inclined to believe the Indians had been compassed with.
