

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN BY DOCTORS

Some Hypercritical People Suggest That They Do Not Practise Their Orders.

WHAT THE PHYSICIANS CLAIM

Medical Men Interviewed by the "News" Tell What They Do When Visiting Contagious Cases.

An article appeared in the "News" Jan. 1 relative to the prevalence of contagious diseases to a degree, and with suggestions from a number of leading physicians as to what the public might do in many ways to prevent the spread thereof. The article in question created considerable interest, and the hints dropped by the doctors will doubtless be followed by at least a few persons who heretofore have been more or less careless in regard to doing what they could to avoid disease, as well as in trying to preclude its spread once it has entered the family.

There are persons, who, while believing in the advice given by the physicians, are too timid and good to take it upon themselves to criticize some members of the medical fraternity as not always using care and discretion themselves while in attendance at households where there is a contagious disease. It is complained that a doctor will sometimes go from a patient suffering from a contagious disease into the presence of families not thus afflicted, without first having taken the precautionary measures of disinfection.

QUESTION AND THE ANSWERS.

With a view of learning what is the usual practise of physicians in this regard, a number of them were interviewed by the "News" yesterday. In many instances the doctors questioned were frank and straightforward in the statements made. Following are a few answers to the interrogations: "Doctor, is it necessary for a doctor to wear a mask when he visits a contagious case?"

TAKES FRESH AIR.

Dr. E. V. Silver—in visiting a house where there is a contagious disease I invariably wear a mask, or a shawl, or a loose garment, outside the house or in the outer hall. My duties in the sick room over, I wash my hands, remove the temporary clothing, and take as extended a walk or ride in the open air as possible before making another call. That I believe is the rule followed by most physicians.

SOAP AND WATER.

Dr. A. C. Ewing—After giving much the same answer as that of Dr. Silver, Dr. Ewing added: "I always avoid touching anything in the room, unless I positively have to, and I always leave my coat outside the premises. A thorough washing of the hands is very essential after a visit to the sick room."

HAS SECRET DISINFECTANT.

Dr. Field said that he did not know what was the practise of physicians in the matter of treating contagious cases, and as for himself, he did not care to state what he did or did not do in the premises.

STRIPS TO THE BUFF.

Dr. George F. Harding—in contagious diseases such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox, etc., after visiting a patient I go home and in a room which I have provided as a dressing room I change every vestige of my clothing, including shoes and stockings, and disinfected hands, face and hair, before mingling with any member of my family, making your do make another call, professional or otherwise.

LAST CALL.

Another leading physician said his firm has had little practise in contagious diseases and that he has not been called to have his name mentioned in making suggestions to physicians engaged in that line. But a contagious case, he stated, as, if possible, visited by him after all other calls had been made.

SCIENTISTS OBEY LAW.

Press Agent Takes Umbrage at Street Car Incident Story.

Mr. John H. Roe, who signs himself "Christian Science," State Publication Committee for Utah, yesterday handed in a communication in relation to quarantine matters, which speaks for itself. It is reproduced in full:

"In your issue of last evening is a little article entitled 'Dr. Beatty on War Path—Hot on Trail of Alleged Violator of Quarantine Regulations.' To your readers who are not acquainted with the facts, this article would unintentionally create, convey the false impression that Christian Scientists are careless if not neglectful of their observance of our city ordinances and regulations relating to contagious and infectious diseases. For this reason I wish to say that Christian Scientists everywhere are not only cautioned and counseled to strictly observe the quarantine regulations in our official instructions and publications, but the practitioners themselves, and a certain freedom from burden and responsibility, which enables them to accomplish better

You don't really know what's good until you use Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate

Francis Broussais, a noted member of the French Institute, says: "I attribute my cures of chronic dyspepsia to the regular use of chocolate." This is corroborated by the personal experience of thousands who have adopted Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate as a beverage instead of coffee. It is a stimulating, strengthening and sustaining food, which increases the user's capacity for both physical and mental labor. Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate is in every way superior to the out-of-date cake chocolates. It is the original genuine ground chocolate and is prepared by the exclusive Ghirardelli process by which pure chocolate and pure sugar are thoroughly and perfectly blended. It is prepared instantly by the mere addition of boiling milk, and is a delightful accompaniment to any meal. Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate will be found superior to cake chocolates for cakes, puddings, etc., to which it imparts a most delicious flavor as well as tending to make them lighter.

PERTINENT QUERIES.

Some Questions Regarding Sanitary Conditions Prevailing in Salt Lake.

Editor Deseret News: One of the morning papers the other day, had a long article deploring the fact that the death toll of Salt Lake City is on the increase. The time was when we could point with pride to one of the smallest death rates of any city on the continent, and to the climatic conditions that made our city a sanitarium without any boasting. There is some railing at the board of health for its inaction on account of which the public schools have had to close. But with all the admitted shortcomings of the board of health, or rather the personnel of the men directly in charge of this branch of the public service, are they so much to blame, after all, for the prevailing wholesale sickness? To a man not educated up to where he can tell just how much a human being can inhale without injury, this is well, the wholesale contamination of the atmosphere in this city, by smoke, may be the main cause. The water supply is being watched and tested frequently for quite a number of years. But everybody inhales air, yet we hear of no test of the air we breathe. If we did, fear we would stand aghast at the filthy and noxious air which is polluted. It is a true saying by doctors and others to take exercise in the fresh air to retain or regain health. But where can you get it in this city now? Certainly not by going out of doors, where all is black and thick with soot, fumes and dirt.

Another thing strikes me as coming directly in line of duty of the board of health. I don't know whether it is true that filth is the mother of disease. But it seems to be accepted as true. If the germ theory is true, then there are numerous filthy places where the germ of yellow fever, cholera, and many other diseases, are bred. I suppose the sanitary inspector has charge of this. So far as the writer has been able to see, the filth is used as a sponge of what must be the foulest of all filthy matter. If the germ theory holds true, are not these vehicles as they are made, and the filthy matter, a veritable pest distributors on wheels?

There certainly is call for an honest and efficient board of health, and it is to be hoped that the mayor with the new council, will endeavor to give the people such a board, or rather men who do things honestly and thoroughly, and thereby make the city what it used to be—a real sanitarium, where life is joy and every breath a pleasure.

GIROUX MARRIES AGAIN.
Wife Claimed He Was Anxious to Get Rid of Her.

A sequel to the sensational divorce of E. L. Giroux in New York last September was made public today, when Mrs. Giroux's sister, Mrs. G. P. Reynolds, of 1520 Lincoln avenue, received information that Mr. Giroux was married to a Mrs. Smith, a wealthy Ely, Nevada, widow.

E. L. Giroux was in Salt Lake frequently two years ago and became known at all the clubs and cafes of this city where mining men are wont to congregate.

The Giroux's are also well known in Denver, says the Post. Until about five years ago they lived on Stout street. Giroux was a partner of Byron Sherer in the mining business. From Denver they removed to Nevada and Giroux cleaned up $1,000,000 or more in Ely-Nevada mines.

They then removed to New York and the domestic difficulties and subsequent sensational divorce was given wide publicity through the newspapers to the country. Giroux charged that his wife had left him for another man and his wife in turn charged that he wanted to get rid of her that he might marry a widow with whom he was infatuated. His marriage on New Year's day, three months after the divorce, seems rather to substantiate Mrs. Giroux's version of the trouble.

Mrs. Giroux had been married to Giroux 11 years. Before her marriage she was Mrs. Madge Levens, a widow.

COMPLIMENT TO SQUIRES.

Work of Salt Lake Artist Receives Recognition in New York.

To C. Clyde Squires a neat compliment is paid in the issue of Life for Jan. 2. A full page drawing entitled, "To You My Children," shows the winged Cupid which stands for "Life" in the paper's art work, at the head of a banquet board, offering a toast.

Around the table are gathered in characteristic poses, the creations of the more famous contributors to the magazine.

The toastmaster's right are the Pippins family of Mr. Gibson. Next to them, prominently displayed in the foreground, is the Clyde Squires' pair entitled, "The Final Touch," in which the artist is shown drawing a check for his wife's new bonnet, just after

A half page drawing by the same artist appears in the issue, entitled "Safety in Numbers," which shows a large crowd on a veranda during a ball, while hidden on the steps by foliage, is one couple sitting apart, and wholly absorbed in their own love telling. Since his return to New York this fall, Mr. Squires has been busy at work, and a number of other drawings are scheduled to appear in Life during the coming spring.

DEATH OF PIONEER.

William H. Walker Passes Away at His Home in Lewisville, Idaho.

William H. Walker, one of the original band of pioneers of 1847, passed away at his home in Lewisville, Fremont county, Ida., at 10:20 o'clock last evening, according to a dispatch received from that place. His funeral will be held there on Sunday, Jan. 12, at 2 p. m.

Deceased would have been 88 years old on next 28th of next August. He was one of the Mormon battalion boys and for five years prior to the martyrdom of the Prophet Joseph Smith was a member of his household. He came into the valley with President Young's company, but after crossing the summit was dispatched back to meet another company of saints. He was a brother to Mrs. Lucy Kimball, and in company with her has performed work in the temple for over 10,000 people.

Y. M. C. A. FORENSIC CLUBS.

The regular weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Forensic club will convene in the clubroom this evening at 8 o'clock. The program committee has been hard at work during the week, and the result is an interesting program has been arranged, the following being among the numbers: Harry Allen will give a short piano recital, and Ernest A. Hoare will deliver a dramatic recitation, one of Carleton's master pieces, "The Tenement House." Henry A. James of Prof. Chas. Kent's male chorus will render a bass solo, "In the Deep."

An interesting feature of the evening will be a debate the question being:

It seems an opportune time to say that the most nourishing bread in existence is not in the shape of bread at all, but is composed of granules.

That's GRAPE-NUTS.

No bread in the world is so nutritious, for Grape-Nuts food is made of entire wheat and barley and goes through various processes of baking, during which the starch part is turned into a form of sugar to be seen glistening in minute particles on each granule of Grape-Nut. The food is the easiest to digest in the entire list of all foods and it will pay to use it in place of whitebread and observe how well you feel.

The factories are the world's standard for cleanliness and sanitary conditions.

Scores of visitors are escorted thru the factories each day and see just how Grape-Nuts and Postum are made and how immaculately clean every nook and corner is.

Come, you are all welcome.

If you can't come, send a postal with address carefully written and we'll mail free the beautiful illustrated book, "The Door Unbolted."

TOM SHOW REHEARSAL.

Press Club Actors Go Through First Reading: Theater Loaned Them.

The first rehearsal of the Tom show, slated for February 3 in the Salt Lake theater, was held in the Press club's rooms yesterday afternoon and was a thorough one. The newspaper men have been kindly tendered the use of the Majestic theater on First South street for rehearsal purposes by the management, and will take advantage of this offer. Monday afternoon will see another practice at the Majestic, commencing at 4:30 o'clock, and daily rehearsals will be held up until the date of the performance, Feb. 3—paste it in your hat or put this clipping in your purse. This year's show, it is promised, will be the funniest thing yet, but there will be plenty of real clever acting, melodramatic and keen situations, while the Tom show four years ago is a bit of Salt Lake's splendid historic history, this year's event will be better and bigger than ever.

WEDS WIFE SECOND TIME.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cammack Secure License for Temple Ceremony.

Henry Cammack and Ethma J. Cammack of Alberta were married in the Salt Lake Temple yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Cammack were married some time ago and the couple explained when they visited the county clerk's office yesterday that their new license was taken in order that they might be married in the temple. When the oaths were scanned by Deputy Howard King he found that both applicants for a license had been previously married. Before the license was issued legal authorities were consulted and no provision of the statutes was found to prevent a man from marrying his own wife as often as he might choose, and the paper was finally issued with the word "unmarried" stricken out and in its stead the word "married" interlined.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—It was enough to make one rub his eyes in wonderment to gaze on the throng that almost fought its way into the theater last night to see "The Devil's Auction." Like "East Lynne" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," this attraction appears to have a clientele of its own who seldom, if ever, dicker the doors of the theater on any other occasion. They were out in seething masses last evening, many of them bringing up children, to whom the big pantomime is an ever new and constant delight. Audiences like this are never inclined to be critical, for which Manager Pyper may thank his lucky stars, and shows like this limit their coming to one night only, for which all newspaper reviewers are equally grateful.

The famous minstrel, George Primrose, and his big company of comedians, singers and dancers, occupy the theater tomorrow afternoon and evening. The house is dark tonight.

Orpheum—Tonight is "society night" at this popular place of resort and the big business of the week is expected to take an upward bound, though last night's attendance could hardly be improved upon.

Grand—"A Thoroughbred Tramp," a play for the most part on the rollicking comedy order, opened a half week engagement at the Grand last night. There was a well filled house, and the audience enjoyed the doings and misdoings of C. J. Carroll, as T. Rush Thompson, "peripatetic pedagogue," a child, to whom the merits of melodrama runs through the minds of the leading characters of which were Catherine Phillips, Agnes French and O. S. Putnam. The role of Miss Phillips was especially well played, and she is possessed of a very winning personality. Miss French did well in her part and sang two solos in a pleasing manner. The scenes of the play are laid around a Colorado mining camp, with the usual heavy sprinkling of the rough element.

Musicians in Provo—The theater being closed tonight, Prof. Arthur Shepherd will take his full orchestra, supplemented by several other performers to Provo, where there will be a grand concert this evening under the direction of Prof. Lund. A feature will also be the first public production of Mr. Shepherd's new anthem, "The Lord Hath Brought Again Zion."

HUGHES CANDIDACY LAUNCHED AT DINNER.

New York, Jan. 9.—The candidacy of Governor Hughes for the Republican nomination was launched at a "Hughes Dinner" given by the enrolled Republicans of the Twenty-ninth assembly district at Terry Garden, New York. The governor was not present, but sent a telegram in which he expressed the wish that all should contribute in making the Republican party a constantly effective instrument for the correction of abuses and for conserving the rights and opportunities of all by impartial and straightforward administration.

The speakers included Seth Low and Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur and their arguments in support of Gov. Hughes' candidacy were greeted by the 300 diners with tumultuous applause. All of the speakers declared that he should be the Republican candidate for governor. The message from the governor follows: "I thank you for your invitation to attend the dinner this evening. I regret that on account of my engagements here I cannot be present. I highly appreciate your friendly words. The Republican party has been and is the party of progress and of opportunity. It should be the earnest desire of every Republican to contribute so far as he may to making the party a constantly effective instrument for the correction of abuses and of opportunity. So far as I am personally concerned I have no wish to express save that nothing should be left undone to accomplish these ends."

NEGROES LYNCH NEGRO.

Selma, N. C., Jan. 9.—The lynching at Pine Level, Johnston county, of a strange negro at the hands of a negro mob is reported. The negro, purported to be an advance agent of a "big show," induced the negro residents into attendance of what turned out to be a one man performance by the negro himself. Their heads covered with sacks, the mob entered the negro's boarding house early Tuesday morning and took him forcibly to the woods. His body was found at daylight on the southern railroad tracks.

DECIDED DIFFERENCES ON ELASTIC CURRENCY

Washington, Jan. 9.—Decided differences of opinion as to the way of injecting elasticity in the national currency and of increasing the safety of bank deposits have arisen among the members of the house committee on banking and currency, of which Representative Fowler of New Jersey, is chairman. Some of the Republican members of the committee, as well as Democrats, are not in entire sympathy with the plan of Chairman Fowler as embodied in the bill introduced by him yesterday contemplating the immediate and complete retirement of all national bank secured currency and its replacement by a guaranteed credit currency based upon general assets of the banks.

The great differences distinguishing the Fowler bill from the bill introduced in the senate by Mr. Aldrich, which is looked on with favor by some of the members of the house banking committee, are that the former proposes a complete and permanent reorganization of the country's paper money, while the latter attempts only an emergency expansion, and the one clings to national bank assets as only proper security for national bank currency, while the other permits the acceptance of railroad, county and municipal bonds under certain restrictions as security.

REV. E. J. HANNA.

Rome, Jan. 9.—Cardinal Martinelli, chamberlain of the sacred college, has been entrusted with the task of presenting before the congregation of the propaganda, which will meet next week, the matter of the appointment of a coadjutor archbishop of San Francisco. Cardinal Martinelli declares that he is ready to support the nomination of Rev. Edward J. Hanna of Rochester, as he is convinced that the charges of modernism made against him have been exaggerated. Another question, however, has arisen with regard to the irregularity in the selection of the candidates proposed for the coadjutorship. It is pointed out by those who are opposed to the appointment of Dr. Hanna that Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco, instead of leaving the irremovable rectors of his diocese free to select the candidates, selected them himself, sending the list to the rectors for their approval, thus practically discharging them from the exercise of their own free will. Furthermore it is pointed out that he personally took the list to the archbishops and secured the ratification, finally coming to Rome and securing the endorsement of the cardinals of the propaganda for his candidate, Dr. Hanna.

HELEN EUGENIE MALONEY'S TROUBLES

New York, Jan. 9.—Martin Maloney of Philadelphia made known through a formal statement given to the Associated Press tonight that proceedings had been instituted to obtain a court judgment declaring that there was no marriage between his daughter, Helen Eugenie, and Arthur Herbert Osborn, the young New York broker, who, according to the county records, were technically united in matrimony at Mamaroneck, Dec. 28, 1906. Fictitious names were given by the parties to the ceremony, and the two never lived together. Mr. Maloney does not go into details in his announcement, but it is understood that the present court action is based upon the admissions of the young people that the idea of their union was conceived in a spirit of fun, and that the marriage was a mockery.

Subsequent to the "Mamaroneck" ceremony, Miss Maloney accepted the attentions of Samuel Clarkson, a young Englishman, who had been a guest at the Maloney home. On Oct. 1 last Mr. Clarkson and Miss Maloney simultaneously dropped out of sight, and were next heard from in London, where Miss Maloney was found living at a hotel and Clarkson in bachelor quarters. Following the disappearance of the two, and while frantic efforts to locate them were being made by the Maloney family, the situation was further complicated by the published claim of Osborn that he was the husband of the missing daughter.

Mr. Maloney's statement follows: "Proceedings have been instituted to obtain a judgment declaring that there is no marriage between Helen Maloney and Arthur H. Osborn. The statements in the papers in regard to the position assumed by the family of Mr. Maloney and by Mr. Osborn are entirely erroneous. Osborn and his surrounding relations are without foundation, and do him a very grave injustice."
