Whither Has Justice fled?—A "Windsor," writing to the Omaha Bee from this city, Jan. 3, says—

"The suit of Young vs. Young has again been postponed for a third time. More postponements are now in order."

That Quarantine Case.—We learn, by letter, dated at Kamas, Summit Co., from Joseph Mitchell, who, with his family, was placed under quarantine in this city, last week, that he did not arrive here till twenty-seven days after the death of his child from small-pox, and eleven days after quarantine had been raised from his house by the officers. He states further that after being liberated by the officers, having done all they required of him, he considered he was at liberty to go where he pleased. He states that although these facts were represented to the quarantine officers here, still he was placed under restraint, and he deems his statement due, in justice to the officers of Summit Co., as well as to himself and those who were with him when he visited Salt Lake City.

Making it Solid.—The Utah Southern Railroad Company are making a heavy fill on their line, between Cottonwood Station and the Geyman Works. They are filling up with dirt under the long bridge at that point, so that it will, instead of a wide span, be a solid grade. This work is being done without removing the bridge timbers, so that the job progresses without any impediment to the traffic. A rock culvert will be constructed for the creek to pass through. The company intend to have no Ashabula come on their line, if the greatest care, good management, and a most substantial road will prevent.

Mutual Improvement.—Under the sanction and advice of the authorities of the Church, a missionary system has been organized, in connection with the Central Committee of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association, to visit the several societies throughout the Territory. A number of appointments, of members of the societies, have been made to the various Mutual Improvement Associations in this city and adjacent settlements, and are being filled.

The missionaries are mostly young men, and besides their labors being of benefit to the societies visited by them, they are also conducive to their own advancement, giving them opportunities of becoming proficient in public speaking, and making it necessary to store their minds with useful knowledge, in order to acquaint themselves with credit to the cause they are engaged in.

In this labor Elder Junius F. Wells, President of the Central Committee, has recently been on a visit to some of the settlements of Davis County, and lately taken part in organizing an association at Kayville.

These missionary labors among the young are for the purpose of increasing and maintaining an interest among them regarding religious, moral and intellectual culture. We look upon it as a good work, promising most excellent results.

Theatre.—Considering the times and the sharpness of the temperature, there was a large house at the Theatre last night, to see and hear the Tennessee Jubilee Singers in one of their original and unique entertainments.

They were very well received, and all of the pieces were encored, some of them more than once, Miss Lulu Henderson's particularly so. There was tremendous applause over the few comic songs sung by the troupe, but to our mind they were the greatest in their own "legitimate" range, that of the religious negro songs and choruses of the South. The odious, comicalness, and grotesqueness of many of these, were only intensified by the sobriety of spirit with which they were sung, and evidently designed to be sung.

This evening the troupe appear for the last time previous to their departure for California and Australia, for which occasion a larger amount of light comic songs is promised. The troupe presents a very interesting entertainment, which can hardly be sufficiently well described to one who has never heard them.

Schools.—Orderly.—Under Bonds.—Coal.—Parties.—Public Lands.—Fire.—Our Kanab correspondent, W. D. Johnson, Jr., writes under date of Jan. 2d—

"On the 15th ult., in company with Brother C. H. Oliphant, I visited the school-house in Lone Valley, in the interest of the schools of this county. At Glendale we have an excellent school-house; at Orderville a good school, but as yet no perfect harmony and they have a power 'to do' that cannot be found in any other place among the saints. They are working out a problem that all the community are watching with much interest, and so far they have made a success of it. Their carpenter shop, blacksmithing, shoe-making, school, tannery, and many other industries are carried on energetically and harmoniously, and the quality of the products are bright indeed. The feelings and good will we found with this faithful little band of saints are something very pleasant to think of."

At Orderville at Mount Carmel we learned that Young's school had been put under $350 bonds to appear at the next term of the District Court.

"Through the kindness of Bro. Engstrom, who has been in the coal mine half a mile west of Mount Carmel, which has been worked by some of the citizens, and yields a good article of bituminous coal. I obtained fossils in this valley while full of interest."

"Our new school-house being so far completed, we could assemble in it a committee of six ladies gave us four parties during the holidays, which passed off quite pleasantly. A yet no winter had no winter weather, it being more like a mild sunny spring."

"The mines down at Leeds are of no particular benefit to us, as they are filling the country with 'tramps' and other auxiliaries belonging to mining camps that are not agreeable."

"The U. S. surveys are among us, laying out public lands, ready for market."

"A very unfortunate calamity befell one of our townsmen last evening—Brother Elijah Porter's house and all it contained were entirely consumed by fire. The loss is estimated at about $1,500. The house was built entirely of timber, and burned down very quickly. Bro. Porter was at home, and was in the mail. His wife left a fire in the fireplace while she stepped into her sister-in-law's for a short time. Just after dark her brother-in-law saw a light shining in the door, and on going out to ascertain the cause he saw the house of Brother Porter enveloped in flames. The wind was blowing furiously at the time and human aid was of no avail. It is supposed that the fire started from the fireplace and burned the inside before it was discovered."

"Brother Porter is a young man with a wife and child, and much sympathy is felt for them. A movement is being made for their relief."

NEW ORLEANS, 13.—Gen. August states that there has been no change in the situation or his orders in relation to the rival parties.

Superior Court Opened.—Judge Shaw has opened the Superior Court in the State House building, and has the seal and minute book of the Court.

Unfounded Reports.—The Washington special declares that all the reports that the Senate committee are unfounded, and the claims telegraphed from Washington, purporting to be the basis of agreement, are condemned alike by the democrats and republicans in the committee. The democrats are especially indignant at the report from Louisiana that the President will recognize Nicholls.

BOSTON, 13.—The steamer Semino, which sank the steamer Montgomery, recently, has been hauled; the damages are laid at $60,000.

declaration from the Senate and House of Representatives, the President of the United States, and the electoral votes for President and Vice President. The President expressed the opinion, to-day, in case no declaration should be made before the 4th of March, the President of the United States, and will be recognized by the Senate. This, he believes, will be in accordance with the act of 1872. If this is not the proper interpretation of the law, then there would be an interregnum, because there will be no Speaker elected until the 4th of March, and no body meets and organizes. He does not think he can call an extra session, and he does not believe the Senate would agree to a law of interregnum providing for one. In case of an interregnum, the President says the members of the cabinet, with the exception of the Postmaster-General, would exercise the executive office in their stead. While this state of affairs continued, the President thinks there would be no authority to suspend elections, to the laws, for no cabinet officer could exercise authority except upon the officers of his own department. The inevitable tendency of such a condition of affairs would be to exercise political influence, and the President said it is quite evident, taking all these circumstances into consideration, that the claim that the President of the Senate cannot assume the executive office would not be entitled to recognition, and he does not believe such a claim would ever be seriously entertained. With these considerations, there is nothing to be done in the President's mind as to the person designated by the constitution and laws to be entrusted with the executive power in the event of no election by March 4th, and to him will the executive authority be transmitted.

Grant Smears Over the Whole Picture.—The Tribune's editorial says the unexpected has happened again as usual. Just as Grant seemed to have put away a partisan consideration from his public acts, and was judged by his private bearing the respect and admiration of the men who have criticized him most severely, and even of those who have maligned him, he smears over the whole picture, and with one sweep of his pen, he has placed Murtagh again at the head of the Washington police board, although that gentleman is residing now under the charge of his friends, and is a convicted conspirator against the republic of a member of Congress, and although Congress sent to the President, only three days ago, a bill abolishing the board, which both Houses have unanimously passed, and after the medicine some two months, I find myself entirely cured. If this statement of my case can be of any service to you in bringing your medicines to the notice of a suffering man, I am writing this note will be attained, for I firmly believe my life has been saved by your treatment.

DR. FRAZIER, Dear Sir: I feel it a duty I owe to suffering humanity to write you, stating the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of your Life Syrup and Strengthening Root Bitters. For some time I was severely afflicted with a cough, raising bad stuff, with every symptom of being a confirmed consumptive. I tried different medicines and cures, without finding relief. I also consulted three of our most prominent Cleveland physicians, the last one of which pronounced my case serious and informed me I could not live more than a few months. At this time, hearing of your wonderful success, I commenced taking your Life Syrup for the lungs, in connection with your Root Bitters, and at once was benefited, and after taking the medicine some two months, I find myself entirely cured. If this statement of my case can be of any service to you in bringing your medicines to the notice of a suffering man, I am writing this note will be attained, for I firmly believe my life has been saved by your treatment.
