

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

High Council.—Members of the High Council are requested to meet in the Social Hall on Friday evening, July 6th, at 7.30 o'clock.

Immigrants.—By dispatch to President Taylor from H. O. Magle, we learn that the immigrants had arrived at Omaha and were about to start this morning.

Ladies' Societies.—Ladies should remember the special meeting of Presidents of Relief Societies and Y. M. C. A., at Mrs. B. W. Smith's, on Friday, July 6th, at 2 p. m., on business connected with these organizations.

Fire at Farmington.—Yesterday the house of Brother Jonathan O. Wood, of Farmington, took fire. Most of the effects were removed in time to be saved, but the building itself was destroyed, the loss being somewhere between $700 and $1,000.

Notice.—The solicitor, both ladies and gentlemen, who have been engaged to sing at the coming grand concert, are respectfully requested to meet Mr. Stevens at Daynes & Conner's music store on Friday evening next, between 5.30 and 7 o'clock, on particular and urgent business.

Serious Accident.—By special to the News from Brigham City, we learn that yesterday, James Sheffield, while celebrating the Fourth, had his hand and wrist torn away by the premature discharge of a cannon. Dr. Mitchell, of Ogden, performed the operation of amputation.

Educational Committee.—To-day we had the pleasure of meeting Prof. C. C. Painter, corresponding Secretary of the National Educational Committee, whose object is to obtain government aid for the schools of the States and Territories. A part of Prof. Painter's business is also to inquire into the condition of the several Indian agencies.

Bereaved.—It will be observed by a notice in another column, that the hand of death has carried away the little daughter of Brother Joseph Hall, Jr. The funeral of the little one took place to-day. Bishop Tingy conducted the services and Elder C. W. Penrose delivered the discourse. The parents have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

Z. B. B. S.—In order to facilitate business next Wednesday evening, those who wish to subscribe for shares in Zion's Benefit Building Society may do so at once by calling on A. Parsons, at Z. C. M. I. or W. J. Bateman, at the U. C. Railway Office. The initiation fee is 10 cents per share, and the subscription 50 cents per share, per month.

Accidentally Hurt.—A few days ago, at Pleasant Grove, Mrs. M. L. Pratt, while in the act of moving an easy chair through the hall of her house, accidentally fell through a cellar door a distance of seven feet, carrying the chair with her. She broke her ankle bone and otherwise was bruised severely. Dr. R. M. Rogers set the fracture, and Mrs. Pratt is progressing favorably.

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY.

DANIEL FITZGIBBONS RECEIVES HIS DEATH WOUND.

About eight o'clock yesterday morning, a fatal shooting occurred at a boarding house kept by Mrs. Evans, on First East street, (better known as the State Road) between Seventh and Eighth. The facts, so far as we have been able to ascertain them, are to the effect that Redman E. Joyce and Dan Fitzgibbons, boarders at Mrs. Evans', had been out during the night of the third, and returned in the morning. They had a dispute, and a wordy altercation resulted in the two engaging in a fight on the lot close to the house. Mrs. Evans ordered them to leave the place, stating that she did not want them around her premises any more. Fitzgibbons said he wanted his breakfast before leaving, and sat down at the table. Joyce went up stairs to get his clothing, and as he was descending Fitzgibbons went toward the stairway, evidently to get his. The two men met, Mrs. Evans being close at hand, when Joyce pointed his pistol at Fitzgibbons and fired, the bullet entering near the lower part of the left side toward the front, going downward and inward, passing through an entrail and the base of the bladder.

The wounded man rushed out of the house, ran several yards, leaped over a fence and fell by the side of the water ditch. Dr. Benedict was summoned and was soon on the spot. He considered the wound necessarily fatal. Fitzgibbons was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where he lingered until about seven o'clock this morning, when he expired.

Mrs. Benedict and Pike purposed holding a post mortem examination of the body at the hospital to-day. Soon after the shooting occurred Joyce was arrested by policeman John Y. Smith. A representative of the News visited him in jail this morning, but he declined to make any statement about the affair until he had procured and consulted counsel. He is a large squarely built man, of muscular and powerful frame. He is of light complexion and eyes, and wears a mustache. This morning he appeared perfectly cool and collected. The reporter asked him whether the statement that the deceased was a half brother of his was true, he replying that it was not, as no relation existed between them.

There will be little or no regret at the taking off of Fitzgibbons, who had a reputation for being a bad man of the roughest type, Joyce being a character of similar standing.

FOURTH AT THE FORT.

AN ENJOYABLE CELEBRATION.

Before the hour of 10 o'clock on the morning of the Fourth, South Temple Street from the Eagle Gate to Fort Douglas was literally alive with vehicles of all descriptions laden with men, women and children, baskets, umbrellas and picnic—all bent on taking some part in the celebration of the natal day of American Independence. Arriving at the Fort, the visitor's first pleasurable emotion was in experiencing the relief of a well sprinkled road, which the forethought of Gen. McCook had provided, and which, after the dusty ride from the city, was particularly gratifying. Riding up the spacious boulevard past the residence of the commandant, the scene presented to the beholder was picturesque and beautiful. The ample shade of the verdant lawns, the fountain of water, flags, banners and mottoes of various colors floating in the morning breeze, the howitzers and other instruments of warfare and military acquisitions glittering in the sun, the knots of soldiers in immaculate blue tints conversing together or hurrying simply to and fro in obedience to the behests of their superior officers, groups of civilians clad in holiday attire reclining lazily upon comfortable seats or strolling leisurely about the well-kept grounds—all conspired to create a panorama of life and beauty, pleasant to the eye and inspiring to the senses.

Before the commencement of the exercises of the day, Presidents Taylor and Cannon, Counselor Wells, and other authorities of the Church visited the Fort and paid their respects to General McCook, and upon the latter's invitation, they also partook of an excellent lunch including some of the barbecue meats, which, prior to their leaving, President Taylor had the pleasure to enjoy.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the Sixth Infantry Band struck up an animated strain and the people flocked to the Fort Douglas. This address of welcome was responded to by Mayor Jennings, who thanked the General on behalf of the people of the city and Territory for the superb accommodations on every hand and the kind attention shown to the comfort and enjoyment of the guests. A fitting speech expressing his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him, the Mayor declared that the Declaration of Independence was then read by Mr. H. M. Wells and the Fort Douglas Glee Club sang "The Star Spangled Banner." A fitting patriotic and one which served to incite the people to the national salute at high noon, which was a rather emphatic but none the less appropriate accompaniment to the national anthem. After that the band played "Yankee Doodle" and the crowd drew away for the moment to see the guns fired, came surging back to the vicinity of the speakers' stand and then came the oration by W. J. Wanner, Esq., which was short as it was sweet and full of poetic flights and expressions of patriotism.

At the termination of the address was loud and prolonged, and Judge Wanner was the recipient of numerous and hearty congratulations. A melody of inspiring melodies by the band—then came the hour which was severely made by Governor Murray, and responded to by the following gentlemen in the order named: the President, by Col. Pettigrew, of the Utah Com. Sec.; "The Army and Navy," by Lieut. Carter; and "Utah," by Professor T. B. Lewis. The latter was an extemporaneous address, fervid and masterly, and the many expressions of eulogy which were enunciated, from all who heard them, both ladies and gentlemen. The closing sentence of his speech was a glowing tribute to the soldierly hospitality of General McCook. A vote of thanks and three rousing cheers for General McCook were then vociferously shouted by the multitude and on the suggestion of the General, being made applicable to the officers of his staff and others who were instrumental in arranging the details of the affair, the cheers were again sounded louder than before, and the crowd adjourned to the scene of the picnic, a short distance eastward, where long and substantial tables were erected in a shady place of the good things of life. The barbecue was the chief feature of interest, and every one was clamorous to taste thereof and a far from known all were accommodated. After this came the games and sports, band playing, etc., and a very pleasurable and harmonious celebration—participated in by about three thousand people—came to an end about four o'clock, when the celebrators folded their tents like the Arab, and silently stole away.

The sports of the day were excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators. The base ball match between the Olympics of Salt Lake and the Athletics of Ogden, occasionally created a great deal of excitement. The playing was excellent on both sides. Cander compels us to state that, although the result does not appear to bear out the opinion, the Ogden team appears to be the more expert players, and if they had the endurance of the Salt Lake boys the latter would have but little chance in the competition.

WASHINGTON SQUARE.

A LARGE CROWD ENJOY THE SPORTS.

Yesterday Washington Square and the streets adjacent were alive with a large throng of people. It is estimated that from ten to twelve thousand were on and around the grounds. The sports of the day were excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators. The base ball match between the Olympics of Salt Lake and the Athletics of Ogden, occasionally created a great deal of excitement. The playing was excellent on both sides. Cander compels us to state that, although the result does not appear to bear out the opinion, the Ogden team appears to be the more expert players, and if they had the endurance of the Salt Lake boys the latter would have but little chance in the competition.

F. Pierce and J. Groesbeck were the first couple, Mr. Groesbeck getting one heat out of the three, leaving Mr. Pierce as final competitor. Next came W. Woods and F. Jennings, the former winning. It was, however, a well contested run, Mr. Jennings, who is quite young, showing excellent qualities. C. Howe and F. Brooks were the third pair, Mr. Howe winning. Mr. Brooks showed splendid pluck, and would have stood a fair show of winning had not the rear part of his machine got out of order, being quite loose.

The final contest was between Woods, Pierce and Howe. Mr. Pierce sailed on ahead at the start, but Mr. Woods soon flew past him like a bird, and kept the lead easily to the close of the race. At one point some one called out to him, "Look out Billy, Howe is close behind," when he shot on ahead nearly half a lap, Mr. Howe getting in second. We learned the reason why Mr. Pierce got unusually far behind was because he thought the race was through at the completion of the sixth lap and slackened. Mr. Woods won the gold and Mr. Howe the silver medal.

The best time was made by W. Woods in the heat run with W. Jennings, the mile being accomplished by him in three minutes and a half. There was a 100 yard foot-race. There were four entries—McCormick, late of Denver, Reed, of Ogden (one of the Athletics), Hyrum Steadman, of West Jordan, and an Ogden man whose name we did not get, but as he never started it is of no special moment.

McCormick is one of the prettiest runners we ever saw, and he is a mense on starting, which he does by a long bound. There was some trouble about getting a fair start, McCormick getting several times too much ahead. Finally he and Steadman let loose and went over the distance, McCormick getting in ahead easily. They were called back, and the race was then between McCormick and Reed. At last they started, McCormick being slightly on the lead for fifty yards, when Reed, who is a tremendous runner, started and got a yard ahead and kept it to the end. It was a contest between a professional foot-racer and a farmer boy, the latter winning.

The chief attraction among the many, was the balloon ascension of Prof. Van Tassel, which took place at fifteen minutes to four o'clock. It was intended for Mr. Stone to ascend with the professor, but it was found that the condition of the balloon and the atmosphere would not admit of the additional weight. This was a great disappointment to Mr. Stone, who almost insisted on being allowed to enter the air. The only living companion of the Professor was "Jack," Mr. Geo. A. Meers' monkey.

The aerial vessel sailed up into mid-air almost on a perpendicular line for a great distance, when it inclined toward the northwest. Suddenly, however, it appeared to enter another current and sailed away east by north toward the Wasatch mountains, and was watched by many thousands of eyes besides those of the people on the square, the entire population of the city, and adjacent places being on the look out for it. It reached an elevation of 15,000 feet above sea level, the highest point attained being between the city and Fort Douglas.

The conditions were not favorable for a flight over the Wasatch Range, and it was decided to turn back. The ascent being a complete success, the ascent being the universal verdict, this was understood was the 19th serial trip made by Mr. Van Tassel. The first persons who reached Mr. Van Tassel were F. Pickering, David Archibald, Miss J. Snowball, Miss J. Shepherd, and Mr. J. Shepherd, a picnic party, who assisted him all in their power. Quite a number proceeded to the top of the mountain and in carriages, among the latter being Messrs. H. J. Stone and O. P. Arnold, the latter bringing him to town.

Several citizens have spoken to Mr. Van Tassel regarding an ascension on the Twenty-fourth. It would certainly be a popular spectacle, judging from the effect of that of yesterday.

COURTESIES TO OLD AGE.

SPECIAL VISITATION EXCURSION TICKETS.

The old folk's committee take pleasure in announcing that, through the kindness of the Utah Central R. R. D. & G. R. R., and Utah Utah & Nevada R. R., all persons of seventy years and upwards may ride over these respective lines at one quarter the usual fare, from July 7th to the 20th instant. On the Utah Central from Juab (to Ogden), on the D. & G. R. R., from Pleasant Valley to Ogden; on the Utah & Nevada R. R. the length of the road. This privilege is granted solely to persons of the above ages to enable them to visit their friends.

The grand excursion to Provo of the old folk's from Salt Lake Valley, will take place July 11th, so that the old folk's living south of Provo may be enabled to meet with their friends on that occasion. All persons entitled to enjoy this privilege must wear the badge of age, namely: a red badge on left breast for all between 70 and 80 years; a blue badge for all between 80 and 90 years; and a white badge for all over 90. The relatives of aged persons must see that they are properly sewed on, the badge being a pledge of good faith in the matter, and as many of the old folk's cannot speak English, their wants when presenting themselves at stations will be better understood, as also the claims for reduction in rates.

Messrs. Tanner & Richmond, agents for the Schoemaker Lightning Cable, have located in this city, with their offices in the first basement south of Postoffice, Wasatch block, and are prepared to do work on short notice. The public will please observe that this cable is in all respects far superior to any lightning rod used here before.

This cable is made of nine separate tubes, the inner surfaces being of zinc and the outer of copper, which gives this cable a combination of two of the best metals known as conductors. Then the nine tubes are twisted together by machinery, which gives it strength and stability. It is also continuous, which completes its perfection. Above all, these gentlemen construct all work on the circuit system, which is strictly in accordance with scientific principles, as laid down in the Agricultural Report of 1859, which will give absolute protection to both property and human lives.

These gentlemen come well recommended. Below is a list of parties whom they have worked for in Laramie City, Wyo.

We the undersigned had work done by Messrs. Tanner & Richmond, and cheerfully recommend the cable as the finest we ever saw, and heartily endorse the system of construction.
