EDITORIAL NOTES.

The deepest sea soundings ever made show a depth of 4,655 fathoms. It was made in 1874 in the Pacific Ocean near the mouth of Behring's Strait.

There are no longer any individual diggers for diamonds in South Africa. Companies of capitalists have bought the claims, and not much is being done even by them, owing to the low prices that the stones now command.

Mosquitoes have invaded England, and the mighty warriors of that land are better able to fight Egypt over again than to cope with the aggravating pests. It is amusing for Americans to read the pitiful complaints of newspaper correspondents, "constant readers," and so forth, who ask the intelligent editor what they shall do to be saved from the stingers.

We endorse the suggestion of the Salt Lake Herald that President Arthur call and see the capital of Utah on his trip to the Great West. The people here have seen much to admire in his administration and would give him a most cordial welcome. It would do him no harm to see Salt Lake City and form his own opinion of the community which has so needlessly troubled statesmen and officials of the United States.

The Denver Tribune does not seem to think much of the Exposition, by the following remarks on July 29th: "The Exposition is not a success. It will not be a success until something is put in the building. At present it is an empty fraud, and there is no reason why any one should go near the empty spaces. If the company expects a crowd it should get something for the crowd to see. At present there is nothing at all. There is no reason why any one should visit the barn."

The tusk and tusk tooth of what is pronounced a mammoth mastodon has been found near Syracuse in a gravel pit. The tooth is twelve inches in length and weighs about twenty-five pounds. Dr. John F. Boynton, who exposed the Cardiff giant fraud, has examined the relics and considers that the creature was about fourteen feet high and weighed a third more than Jumbo. He lived anywhere from two hundred and fifty to five hundred thousand years ago. Prof. Brown, of Syracuse University, who has examined the remains, says the tusk must have been originally ten feet or more in length. He believes the tooth belonged to the mammoth, which is more rare than the mastodon. The largest piece of the tusk found weighs 150 pounds.

DAKOTA WILL ASSERT HER RIGHTS.

Some time ago we noticed the expressed determination of the people of Dakota to assume the right of self-government whether Congress was willing to grant it or not. It appears that there is something more in the movement than many people are prepared to admit. Dakota has population enough, and has progressed sufficiently to be entitled to the freedom and privileges of Statehood. Application for admission into the Union has been unsuccessful. Now the people intend to organize a State government with all the necessary machinery for its operation. The Constitution will be submitted to Congress, and if that body acts so as to sustain the motion of the people, all will be plain sailing. If not, the proposition is to go ahead with the State government, pay no attention to the Territorial officers and then see what the Federal authorities will do about it.

This to many has the appearance of rebellion. But the Dakotans have no desire or intention to "rebel." They merely want their rights. Under the Territorial system they cannot enjoy the privileges of citizenship, but are compelled to bear many of its burdens. They object to being vassals. They claim the right to be free men and demand a republican form of government, to which they are just as much entitled as the people of any of the States. They do not wish to secede from the Union, they want to be admitted. They should have the right of self-government in common with all organized communities in this free country. They will therefore organize a State and elect its officers. If Congress will not recognize it and admit the State, they will go on and mind their own business, and it will then remain for the Federal Government to act as it shall see proper, and by such action the course of the State authorities will be determined.

The Dakotans have somewhat of a precedent for this course. Michigan was a State fourteen months before it was recognized by the General Government. Vermont broke off from New York and had a State organization of its own fourteen years before being formally admitted into the Union. It is true that the Constitution says that new States may be admitted and that it rests with Congress to admit them. But at the same time the people have rights which ought to be respected, and the Territorial system is something not only unprovided for in the Constitution, but entirely opposed to the spirit and genius of that sacred instrument and to the general institutions of the country.

The plan proposed is thus explained by Hon. R. F. Pettigrew, Delegate to Congress from Dakota at the last session, to a correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean:

The different counties will elect delegates to the constitutional convention. The convention will frame a constitution and provide for all the machinery of a State—in fact organize and create a State. If it is ratified we shall take it to Congress. If Congress refuses to admit, we shall proceed in the spring to exercise our rights as a State, and Congress can do nothing except to deny us representation on the floor of the National Legislature. We shall elect a Governor and State officers, a State legislature, establish a Supreme and Circuit Court, and go ahead.

We shall not recognize Governor Ordway, because we shall have a Governor of our own, which we have elected. We shall fail to elect a Territorial Legislature, but choose a State Legislature instead. There will be not only no Territorial Legislature, but we shall repeal every law passed during the existence of the Territory. The Territorial Governor, Secretary, Auditor, Treasurer, and the courts will have no laws to execute. We shall appoint the present Territorial Judges, States Judges of our own Supreme Court. No business will be brought before them except in their capacity as State officials. The Federal plunderers who have been sent out here to rob us will simply have nothing to do, because no one will approach them on official business."

We do not propose for Utah to follow the course of Dakota. But that she has a perfect right to do so we do not doubt for a moment. It would be inexpedient in her case for many reasons. But we would like to see Dakota assert her rights and obtain them, as we have no doubt she will if her people are but sufficiently united to carry out the programme prepared.

ANOTHER EXCURSIONIST SPEAKS.

The Tin Cup Miner of July 28th contains a very fair account of the visit of the Colorado editorial party to Utah, entirely divested of that partizan spirit and desire to pander to popular notions about "Mormondom" which is so common with knights of the quill. The writer speaks strongly of his disgust at the penitentiary "enclosed by a high adobe wall from which the guard looks down on 58 dirty, ill-clothed, manacled beings, whose quarters are two dingy houses in the enclosure," and does not think it much credit to the United States Government. He visited the insane asylum about which so many untrue reports have been circulated, and "took special pains to examine it in detail." He and his companions found it, he says, very different to what he expected, "the patients comfortably dressed and clean, the food good and wholesome," but the cell in which persons are put whose close confinement is necessary too small for their convenience. It appears that he visited the city fourteen years ago, and on this occasion is "wonderfully impressed with its growth and prosperity," and says:

"Our party, while using every means to get at the bottom of all detail, were somewhat surprised to find that the great scare-crow polygamy had been grossly magnified, and that the Mormons and Gentiles were living in a harmonious spirit; churches of all denominations grace the city, while the inhabitants all strive to make their city prosperous."

He describes the Tabernacle and makes the following remarks about the services:

"The preaching of George Q. Cannon and John Taylor, who is president of the church, showed that they fully understood how to present their views of the case in an impressive manner that was listened to attentively by our party, who were bent on seeing and hearing everything, tending to a knowledge of a people, who, for years, have toiled to make a desert one of the garden spots of earth."

Tin Cup is a flourishing town in a mining district of Gunnison County Colorado, and the Miner is a live sheet published there by C. S. Nichols.

SUGGESTED INVASION OF UTAH.

The Rocky Mountain News, published at Denver, has the following humorous editorial on the blood-and thunder disposition manifested just now by some writers and stump-speechifiers on the "Mormon" question:

The bloodthirsty editor of our esteemed contemporary, the Times, seems to have had his head turned by the brass bands and military parades of the week. Nothing will do him now but to turn the Grand Army loose upon the Mormons. The believers in that peculiar doctrine will have to be exterminated root and branch before our ferocious contemporary can sleep peacefully again. The sanguinary editor asserts that Mr. Van Der Voort, late commander-in-chief of the Grand Army is of the same opinion regarding the necessity for an application of force to Mormonism.

If this is the fact why would it not be a good scheme for the editor and the ex-commander to mobilize themselves at once and begin the war? We are all agreed that polygamy is pernicious and that some means of prevention should be found. If a massacre of all the Mormons is an absolute necessity it cannot begin too soon. There are two good railroads leading from Denver to Salt Lake. If the heroic editor and the eloquent ex-commander will make two divisions of themselves and move, sword in hand, simultaneously on the city of sin by different routes, the whole matter can be settled in a jiffy. Less ink and more blood is the need of the hour.

Prize Fight.

CHICAGO, 1.—A large representation of the sporting fraternity took hacks at 3 o'clock this morning to witness a prize fight between two ambitious hitters named O'Connor and McCune. The ring was pitched 16 miles from the city. The mill was brought to a sudden termination by O'Connor getting a fall in the first round, by which his arm was broken. The police of this city pursueed the party in patrol wagons but arrived on the scene after the departure of the contestants and spectators.

Shutting Down.

A company of citizens will meet the President's party outside the city and a reception be tendered the President at the rooms of the Union League Club in the evening, and the brigade of State troops will serve as an escort from the railway depot to the hotel on the arrival of the President.

A bill for this purpose passed its third reading in the Commons to-day.

DENVER, July 31.

To P. Lowell, General Passenger Agent C. B. & Q. R. R., Chicago:

I am informed that some malicious person has sent a report to the Eastern press of a frightful accident on our line. There is not a word of truth in the same. We have not injured a passenger for over a year. The only detention on our road yesterday was caused by a slight washout, which has been remedied, and the entire line will be up in No. 1 shape by to-morrow.

(Signed) F. C. NIMS,
Gen. Pass. Ag't D. & R. G. Ry.

Discharged.—Yesterday E. T. Jones who shot his horse, was before Justice Spiers for examination. The statute under which the charge was brought could not, in the opinion of the court, apply to the case, and the ground appeared to be well taken. It is a matter of regret, however, that the Justice was unable to hold a person guilty of such a gross offense on account of a statutory defect. The defendant was simply fined $5 for drunkenness.

THAT SETTLES IT.

Brought into Competition with the World, the Best Carries off the Honors.

At the great Centennial Exhibition of 1876, the leading products of all the branches of the World's industry were assembled at Philadelphia. To carry off a prize in the face of that tremendous competition was a task of no ordinary difficulty. Inventions and preparations for the alleviation of pain and the cure of disease were present in the greatest possible variety, representing the skill and the profoundest study of the age, and it may be of vital importance to you, personally, to know that the highest and only medal given to rubber Porus plasters, was awarded to the manufacturers of BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, by the following jury:

DR. WM. ROTH, Surgeon-General, Prussian Army.
J. H. THOMPSON, A.M., M.D., Washington, D.C.
C. B. WHITE, M.D., New Orleans.
ERNEST FLEISCH, M.D., Austria.

The decision was afterwards confirmed by the medical jury at the last Paris Exposition. Knowing the value of such high and unbiased testimony, the medical profession, both in the United States and in Europe, quickly threw aside the old, slow-acting plasters they had been using, and adopted Benson's in their regular practice. That physicians and surgeons of the broadest reputation did this, distinctly proves the intrinsic merit of the article.

It is no more than just to add that the average physicians of to-day is not dominated by the prejudices which retarded the progress and modified the successes of his predecessors of not more than twenty-five years ago. He accepts hints from all quarters and endorses and adopts demonstrated healing agents wherever he finds them.

The right of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to stand at the head of all external applications whatsoever, for the mitigation or cure of disease, is no longer questioned.

Let the purchaser, however, be on his guard against imitations. The genuine has the word CAPCINE cut in the middle.
