TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

BY TELEGRAPH. PER WESTERN UNION THLEGRAPH LIVE. XLVIII CONGRESS. SENATE.

Washington, 22.—Mergan from the committee on foreign relations, submitted a proposed amendment to the consular and diplomatic bill, appropriating $50,000 to enable the President to open commercial or diplomatic intercourse with the Congo country.

A bill was introduced, providing for the payment of female nurses for services during the war.

The Senate then took up the bill to prohibit malling newspapers and other publications containing lettery advertisements.

Vest objected to its consideration, and the Senate, by a vote of 22 years to 29 nays, decided not to consider the bill, and it goes to the foot of the calendar.

Van Wyck submitted an amendment, to be proposed at the proper time, extending the provisions of the lottery bill so as to prohibit the mailing of newspaper or other publications containing advertisements or notices of sales of milroad. ments or notices of sales of railroad, mining or other stocks of corporations by margins or puts and calls, or any agency thereof, or any notice or report or statement of such sales.

"I desire to say," replied Randall,

the deepest interest in his son's interest. [Appliause on the democratic side and derisive laughter on the republican side] and I stand here witness to the the most careful propriety in connection therewith." [Applause on the democratic side.] "And I want to say further," broke in Blount, "that it is a notorious fact, known by all members on this floor, that this rule has been violated time

Springer made the point that the rule related to a person who was interested in claims pending before Congress. It had reference to pecuniary interest, to hired attorneys coming on the floor, and advocating the passage of claims. It had never been assumed that it had any reference to a gentleman who came looking after the interest of a friend or relation in a contested election case.

Horr said he had made the state democratic side), but because he found the dignity of the House and its honor being violated, and he felt it his duty to call the attention of the House to the fact. The gentleman from Penusylvania said it was natural for a father to feel for his son. So it was, but it was also natural for him, it he had a sense of honor, that he should do what he did in a seemly and becoming manner.

"And so he has," exclaimed Randall.

"And not do it," said Horr, "by outraging this House. If you don't be-

The Utah bill was laid aside, and the Senate resumed consideration of the labor statistics bill.

Van Wyck's proposed amendment was read, providing that the chief of the bureau shall be identified with the laboring classes, etc.

Ingails said every fibre of his being was in sympathy with labor, but this was a bill which he could not support in its present shape. If, however, the bill was properly amended he would support it.

Van Wyck said that the communism of capital was more dangerous than the communism of labor. Six railroad kings could sit in their pariors in New York agency to the increase of debts, rentals, and capital stock of the Western Union pariors in New York were vastly in excess of either the cost or earning capacity of the

the cost or earning capacity of the property acquired.

It was claimed before the committee by the president of the Western Union, that it had from time to time expended out of the experient earnings considerout of its entrent earnings considerable money on construction account. That is to say, in addition to its numerous lines and equipments, over and above their maintenance. This may be true to some extent, but it cannot be true to the extent of justifying the enormous stock dividends which the company have made; nor was the ap-propriation of the current income to the construction account sufficient to the construction account sufficient to prevent the payment of munificent cash dividends to shareholders, who received in that way from 1867 to 1883 (both inclusive) $21,000,000 in advance of the stock dividends of $25,807,190.

"As the prices paid by the Western Union in its own stock do not furnish even an approximate idea of the actual cost of the lines which it has purchased produce lines in every respect equal to those which the Western Union has acquired in all ways. The committee believe it to be a large estimate to assume that the number of miles of wire actually used and necessary to its business of transmitting messages is 350,000. The committee believe also that the average cost of the wires, including the average cost of the wires, including poles, construction and instruments for telegraphing, would not exceed $70 per mile, which would make the $70 per mile, which would make the total cost $24,500,000. The exact excess of the capitalization of the Western Union beyond the actual cost of its lines, and beyond what it would now cost to produce similar lines, cannot be determined. That it is enormous is entirely plain and undisputed. In reference to the inquiry whether this excess of capitalization. whether this excess of capitalization, arising from stock dividends and from purchases of other lines at inflated prices, paid in stock, has operated in-"Because I have not known it," replied Blount.

"Oh, my dear sir, you are a very innocent person," retorted Blount, "I want to add that this rule has been obsolete for months and years. It ought to have been enforced, and the gentieman from Indiana is certainly excusable under the circumstances, when the rule has been obsolete in every other direction."

long and so far as the public has been made to believe that the nominal capital was a real one, it had tended to cause acquisseence in excessive charges, while the exposure of the actual nature of the nominal capital does not diminish the pressure of the motives which impel the managers of the company to keep up the charges, which are essential to the maintendance of the present dividends upon the immense mass of its watered stock.

For the purpose of relieving the country of the burden of charges for telegrams which are too high, as making these charges more equal as be-telegrams which are too high, as making these charges more equal as between different localities, and different classes of telegrams, and of guarding against the mischief and daugers of leaving the control of the telegraphic business of the country in the hands of a private company which enjoys a a practical monopoly, the committee have reported the accompanying bill, S. 2022.

The report says the Constitutional right of the Government to establish a postal telegraph is undoubted, and that there are obvious and sufficient answers to the objection that such a line will operate injuriously upon private telegraphs.

The report asserts that the passage of the postal telegraph bill will reduce the average rate per telegram from 38 cents to 25 cents immediately, and to 20 cents in five years, and secure a uniformity of charge signesspective of the amount
