

BURLINGTON WILL MEET OPPOSITION

Encounter a Hard Fight in Entering Salt Lake.

WESTERN SURVEYORS OUT

Utah Road May Build to Fort Duchesne, from There to Ashley and Thence to Hohn's Peak.

"If the Burlington, despite the denials of its officers, attempts to push toward Salt Lake City, it will encounter decided opposition in a scheme already hatching to block all its ambitious designs on the Utah capital, unless the Rio Grande Western is consulted."

"A new party of surveyors has left the main line of the Western at Price, Utah, and is running the final survey over what is reported as a passable route to Fort Duchesne. From there to Ashley, and thence to the Hohn's Peak country in northwestern Colorado, is a possibility of the future."

"All last summer the Western surveyors were in the field, and route after route was patiently followed. Natural difficulties in the wild country in eastern Utah interfered, however, in every case. The last route, it is asserted, has been found practicable."

"With a branch line following somewhat the course of the Green river to Duchesne, almost to the Wyoming State line, the Rio Grande Western would be in a position to dictate terms to the Wyoming Southern or any other road that has ambitions of entering into competition with the Salt Lake lines. The sum of the Western's present philosophy is to reach the northwestern Colorado territory before any other line."

"The beginning of the Wyoming Southern, which, it is conceded, will be a feeder to the Union Pacific from Fort Steele, Wyo., to northern Colorado, and the activity of the promoters of three or four railroads to Hahn's Peak, that have not yet materialized, has been capped by the statement that the Burlington is on the eve of building from Longmont across the range, through Middle park to Salt Lake City. In 1889 surveys were made in Middle park, and these have recently been gone over. It is pointed out that the proposed line through Middle park would be 300 miles shorter than any now in existence between Denver and Salt Lake. Although there is no certainty the Burlington will build, the Western is planning to get in ahead, make connection with the Wyoming Southern and the Union Pacific, as a consequence, and checkmate ambitious rivals."—Denver Post.

RAILWAY SAFETY APPLIANCES.

Companies Applied to Commission for Extension of Time to Equip their Cars.

Secretary E. A. Moseley, of the Interstate Commerce commission, has, by order of the commission, issued the following relation to railway safety appliances:

"It is hereby given that numerous railroad companies have applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for further extension of time (for the period of a year, or until January 1, 1901), within which to equip their cars and locomotives with automatic coupling and power brakes, and that the proposed line through Middle park would be 300 miles shorter than any now in existence between Denver and Salt Lake. Although there is no certainty the Burlington will build, the Western is planning to get in ahead, make connection with the Wyoming Southern and the Union Pacific, as a consequence, and checkmate ambitious rivals."—Denver Post.

COLORED MAN'S CRIME.

"Race Horse Dick" Taken in Tow on a Serious Charge.

Yesterday morning Officers Williams and Milner made the arrest of Henry Lewis, a colored porter who labors under the title of "Race-horse Dick" and who does the "heavy" at the Comstock saloon. He is charged with the grave crime of seducing a 15-year-old girl named Amy, a local girl who came to Salt Lake from Mercur, Lewis' arrest is the result of hard work on the part of Sergeant Brown, who has had his eyes on the actions of the two for some time. It is alleged that when the girl came to Salt Lake Lewis struck up an acquaintance with her and they lived together for some time. It is also claimed that the girl has a child by him, but its whereabouts is at present unknown. The birth of the little one was known to Sergeant Brown. Soon after the arrest of Lewis, the girl was located and taken into custody. An effort was made to get her to talk, but at first she refused. Later she told Chief Hilton she would appear against Lewis when the case came up.

"Every Path Hath a Puddle."

The puddle in the path-way of most lives is a defective circulation due to a blood supply that instead of growing clear and strong like a mountain brook, is stagnant and impure. Puddles may be purified, however, and become limpid streams. That is what Hood's Sarsaparilla does with human blood. It clarifies, purifies and strengthens the blood, and when this is accomplished the vital organs, liver, lungs, kidneys, bowels, are all braced and invigorated.

ASTHMA.

"Four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me permanent relief from asthma, and I have had no trouble from shortness of breath since." Edith G. Lane, Vienna, Ga.

PIMPLES.

"I used to be troubled with malaria and pimples; a friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have been free ever since." W. Stewart, 605 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WORN OUT FEELING.

"I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a worn out feeling, and a few bottles relieved me entirely and now I am able to work a great deal." Kitty Allen, Madison, Kan.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Never Disappoints.

Hood's Pills cure liver, bile, constipation and help cathartics to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

WRIGHT HAS RECOVERED.

J. D. Wright of this city, who recently had a narrow escape from death by coming in sudden contact with an electric wire, has sufficiently recovered to be on the streets again. He expects to be able to return to work in a few days.

LOGAN COMPANY INCORPORATES.

Articles of incorporation of the Logan Manufacturing company, of Logan, Cache county, were received for filing by Secretary Hammond today. The object and business pursuit of the company are the buying and selling of agricultural and farm implements. The capitalization is fixed at $24,000, with shares at $1 each. William C. Logan is president; Charles L. Lloyd, vice president; and Lauris Peterson, secretary and treasurer.

THE CORINNE FIRE LOSS.

Home Mercantile Company Loses Heavy But Is Well Insured.

It was learned at the office of the Home Fire Insurance company this afternoon that the loss from fire of the Home Mercantile company at Corinne, as published in another part of this paper, was very heavy. The insurance, however, is also pretty well up, though there will be a big loss over and above the amount insured for. It is estimated that the actual value of the stock will closely approximate if not exceed $15,000. The total insurance is $20,000, divided between the Liverpool & London & Globe, London Assurance, Manchester, Fire Assurance and Home Fire of Utah, the latter carrying $3,000.

ALLEGED BURGULARS ON TRIAL.

Case of the State Against Art Jones and James Clark.

The case of the State against Art Jones and James Clark, two young men, was called for trial before Judge Norrell and a jury today, with Assistant County Attorney Ray Van Cott prosecuting, and J. M. Hamilton and C. W. Morse appearing for defendants.

SET FOR SLANDER.

Miss Selma Jensen Wants $1,500 from Daniel R. Huchey.

Selma Jensen has instituted proceedings against Daniel R. Huchey in the Third district court to recover $1,500 for alleged slander.

LOGAN COMPANY INCORPORATES.

Articles of incorporation of the Logan Manufacturing company, of Logan, Cache county, were received for filing by Secretary Hammond today. The object and business pursuit of the company are the buying and selling of agricultural and farm implements. The capitalization is fixed at $24,000, with shares at $1 each. William C. Logan is president; Charles L. Lloyd, vice president; and Lauris Peterson, secretary and treasurer.

THE CORINNE FIRE LOSS.

Home Mercantile Company Loses Heavy But Is Well Insured.

It was learned at the office of the Home Fire Insurance company this afternoon that the loss from fire of the Home Mercantile company at Corinne, as published in another part of this paper, was very heavy. The insurance, however, is also pretty well up, though there will be a big loss over and above the amount insured for. It is estimated that the actual value of the stock will closely approximate if not exceed $15,000. The total insurance is $20,000, divided between the Liverpool & London & Globe, London Assurance, Manchester, Fire Assurance and Home Fire of Utah, the latter carrying $3,000.

ALLEGED BURGULARS ON TRIAL.

Case of the State Against Art Jones and James Clark.

The case of the State against Art Jones and James Clark, two young men, was called for trial before Judge Norrell and a jury today, with Assistant County Attorney Ray Van Cott prosecuting, and J. M. Hamilton and C. W. Morse appearing for defendants.

SET FOR SLANDER.

Miss Selma Jensen Wants $1,500 from Daniel R. Huchey.

Selma Jensen has instituted proceedings against Daniel R. Huchey in the Third district court to recover $1,500 for alleged slander.

LOGAN COMPANY INCORPORATES.

Articles of incorporation of the Logan Manufacturing company, of Logan, Cache county, were received for filing by Secretary Hammond today. The object and business pursuit of the company are the buying and selling of agricultural and farm implements. The capitalization is fixed at $24,000, with shares at $1 each. William C. Logan is president; Charles L. Lloyd, vice president; and Lauris Peterson, secretary and treasurer.

THE CORINNE FIRE LOSS.

Home Mercantile Company Loses Heavy But Is Well Insured.

It was learned at the office of the Home Fire Insurance company this afternoon that the loss from fire of the Home Mercantile company at Corinne, as published in another part of this paper, was very heavy. The insurance, however, is also pretty well up, though there will be a big loss over and above the amount insured for. It is estimated that the actual value of the stock will closely approximate if not exceed $15,000. The total insurance is $20,000, divided between the Liverpool & London & Globe, London Assurance, Manchester, Fire Assurance and Home Fire of Utah, the latter carrying $3,000.

ALLEGED BURGULARS ON TRIAL.

Case of the State Against Art Jones and James Clark.

The case of the State against Art Jones and James Clark, two young men, was called for trial before Judge Norrell and a jury today, with Assistant County Attorney Ray Van Cott prosecuting, and J. M. Hamilton and C. W. Morse appearing for defendants.

SET FOR SLANDER.

Miss Selma Jensen Wants $1,500 from Daniel R. Huchey.

Selma Jensen has instituted proceedings against Daniel R. Huchey in the Third district court to recover $1,500 for alleged slander.

SALT LAKE STAKE CONFERENCE.

The quarterly conference of this Stake will convene in the Assembly Hall, Salt Lake City, on Saturday, December 2nd, 1899, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.; also at 10 a. m. Sunday, the 10th, and in the Tabernacle at 2 p. m. Officers and members of the Stake will please govern themselves accordingly.

Your brethren,
ANGUS M. CANNON,
JOSEPH E. TAYLOR,
CHAS. W. PENROSE,
Presidency of Stake.

WAS A PONY EXPRESS RIDER

And as Such Made Many Trips to the Missouri River—Also Fought Hostile Utah Indians.

Mr. I. M. Jackman, another of the sturdy pioneers, died at his home, No. 212 east Second South street today. His death was occasioned by general debility, aggravated by an affliction from which he had suffered for years.

Mr. Jackman was born in Genesee county, New York, on February 6th, 1825, and was, therefore, nearly seventy years of age. His father became identified with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.

Mr. Jackman was a member of the Latter-day Saints, within six months of its inception, and when the deceased was eight years old he was baptized into the same body. He was a member of the church until his death, and his faith was a source of strength to him in his old age.