

The opening of the clubs and associations of the city has, to an extent, monopolized the attention of many of Salt Lake's enterprisers, so that the week's record of social events is not a large one. The few affairs that have taken place have been of a delightful nature and with the coming of cool weather much interest in social activities is manifested.

Mrs. A. T. Moon entertained at a delightful evening function on Thursday in honor of Miss Plunkett of Waco, Texas. The rooms were prettily decorated, the parlor in pink, the library with the same flowers in white, and the dining room in sunflowers. The amusement was crokinole and the markers were decorated with sunflowers and yellow ribbons. The prizes were won by Mrs. Gray and Mr. Copley. Following the contest a short musical program was given. Miss Olive Gray rendered piano selections, Miss Plunkett and Mrs. Andrews vocal solos, and Mrs. Reed giving the reading of Beethoven's "Mona Lisa" Sonata, accompanied by Miss Galt. Dainty refreshments were served. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. A pleasant affair took place at the Twenty-first ward hall on Tuesday night, the occasion being the first meeting of the Y. L. M. I. A. of that ward. There was an interesting program of songs, readings and piano selections with appropriate addresses by Miss Emma Goddard and Mrs. Donnetta Smith Kessler. During the program Miss May Arnold presented a beautiful bouquet, each flower expressing a sentiment, to Miss May Connolly, who responded with a short speech. There was a large attendance of members and others.

Mrs. F. D. Hobbs entertained at an elaborate reception on Wednesday about 120 guests being present. The house throughout was lined with sunflowers and vines and in the dining room sweet peas were used with artistic effect. Mrs. Hobbs was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. H. King, Mrs. Bowman, and Mrs. Hal Brown. Miss Hatch presided at the punch bowl and Miss Clayton, Miss Morrill, Miss Stewart and Miss Hobbs assisted in the dining room. The affair was a most delightful one.

On Thursday evening Dr. and Mrs. Albritton were tendered a pleasant reception at the First Methodist church, a large number being present to greet them. The church parlors were decorated with the Epworth League colors, red and white, wild asters filling up available niches. An interesting program was rendered after an opening prayer by Dr. Padon, Dr. Waite delivering an address of welcome. Dr. Albritton responding, and Mrs. Davis rendering violin solos. Delicious refreshments were served after the program, and the event was in every way delightful.

On Friday night Mrs. F. D. Hobbs was hostess at a delightful card party. The color scheme was yellow and the decorations, tables and scores carried out the idea. The best lady's prize was won by Mrs. Dr. Mack, and the consolation by Mrs. Whitney. Mr. Hal Brown took first gentleman's prize and Judge Henderson the consolation.

OGDEN SOCIAL NEWS.

One of the most brilliant social events of the season took place Wednesday afternoon, September 12, at the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Harrington, when their charming and accomplished daughter, Miss Mary Emory Harrington, was united in marriage with C. Henry Stevens, Rev. Carver officiating. Promptly at 5:30 p. m. the contracting parties entered the parlor and took their place under a shower of palms and ferns. Miss Emma Stevens, sister of the groom, acted as bride's maid and Mr. Sidney O. Stevens, brother of the groom was best man. After the impressive ceremony was performed a short time was spent in congratulation and the wedding party was ushered into the dining room where a sumptuous repast was served.

The bride wore a beautiful fougled gown trimmed with real lace, and carried bride's roses. The groom wore a conventional black. The bridesmaid wore a pretty costume of green silk. INTERIOR GLIMPSES OF SALT LAKE HOMES.

DINING ROOM IN RESIDENCE OF W. H. SHERMAN.

W. A. Sherman's home on east, South Temple street, is one of the handsome brick structures recently erected on Salt Lake's most popular residence avenue. The parlor is on the east and is most artistically furnished in white and green, a feature of the woodwork being a handsome mahogany mantel, a fac simile of the model which took the prize for the best design at the world's fair. The music room adjoins the parlor on the north, a pretty apartment, done in Georgia pine. On the west side are the library and dining room, a cut of the latter being given above. The library is on the west front, and is finished in birchwood, with red embossed tapestry on the walls. The hall and rooms on the upper floor are done in oak.

EMINENT WOMEN AT HOME.

MRS. LINDA HULL LARNED,

President National Household Economic Association.

The coming convention in October at which is so much a part of Mrs. Larned. Many questions were asked and the talk drifted from Utah's resources to the dominant religion of our state, and its peculiarities and its exalted truths. It was late when we ascended into the private sitting room of our hostess, and where, surrounded with every dainty device to make life luxurious and beautiful, Mrs. Larned spends her leisure hours.

She drew out some of her voluminous correspondence on household economics and gave a glimpse into the busy and useful life which she leads. "A Higher Home for Women," is her constant thought and to this end she labors incessantly.

Invitations to speak at conventions and clubs come daily; and well it is that her means are sufficient to enable her to accept most of these solicitations. Mrs. Larned is a very pretty woman, with the grace and ease of gentle breeding. She is a good speaker, but rather than the gift of eloquence itself, she possesses the tact which teaches her when not to speak and what not to say. With this she knows how to induce others to say and do their best, and thus she moves along untouched by the storms of jealousy and envy which assail so many prominent women.

Mrs. Larned writes for a number of fashionable periodicals, always on her own topics. She published a book about two years ago, "The House of Tomorrow," which has passed its ten thousand edition. As a writer she is the same practical, helpful friend and her book is a necessity to a young, untired and ambitious housekeeper. Mrs. Larned has no children, but her heart is very tender over every child who needs a "mother's love" and "homelike" atmosphere. To make good homes better and to create good homes out of bad or different ones this is the life-work of Mrs. Linda Hull Larned.

SUSA YOUNG GATES.

CLUB CHAT.

The past week has seen the re-opening of club work, the Ladies' Literary club taking the lead, with other clubs of prominence following. The programs of all have been carefully planned, and it is doubtful if any past year—books will be able to show the important subjects in its list, as are shown in those of the present.

With some of these topics and methods of study will be equivalent to a University class course, and the results at the year's end to those fortunate enough to be privileged with the opportunity afforded cannot help but be gratifying. By the end of the month the work of all the societies will be well under way, and will be watched with interest.

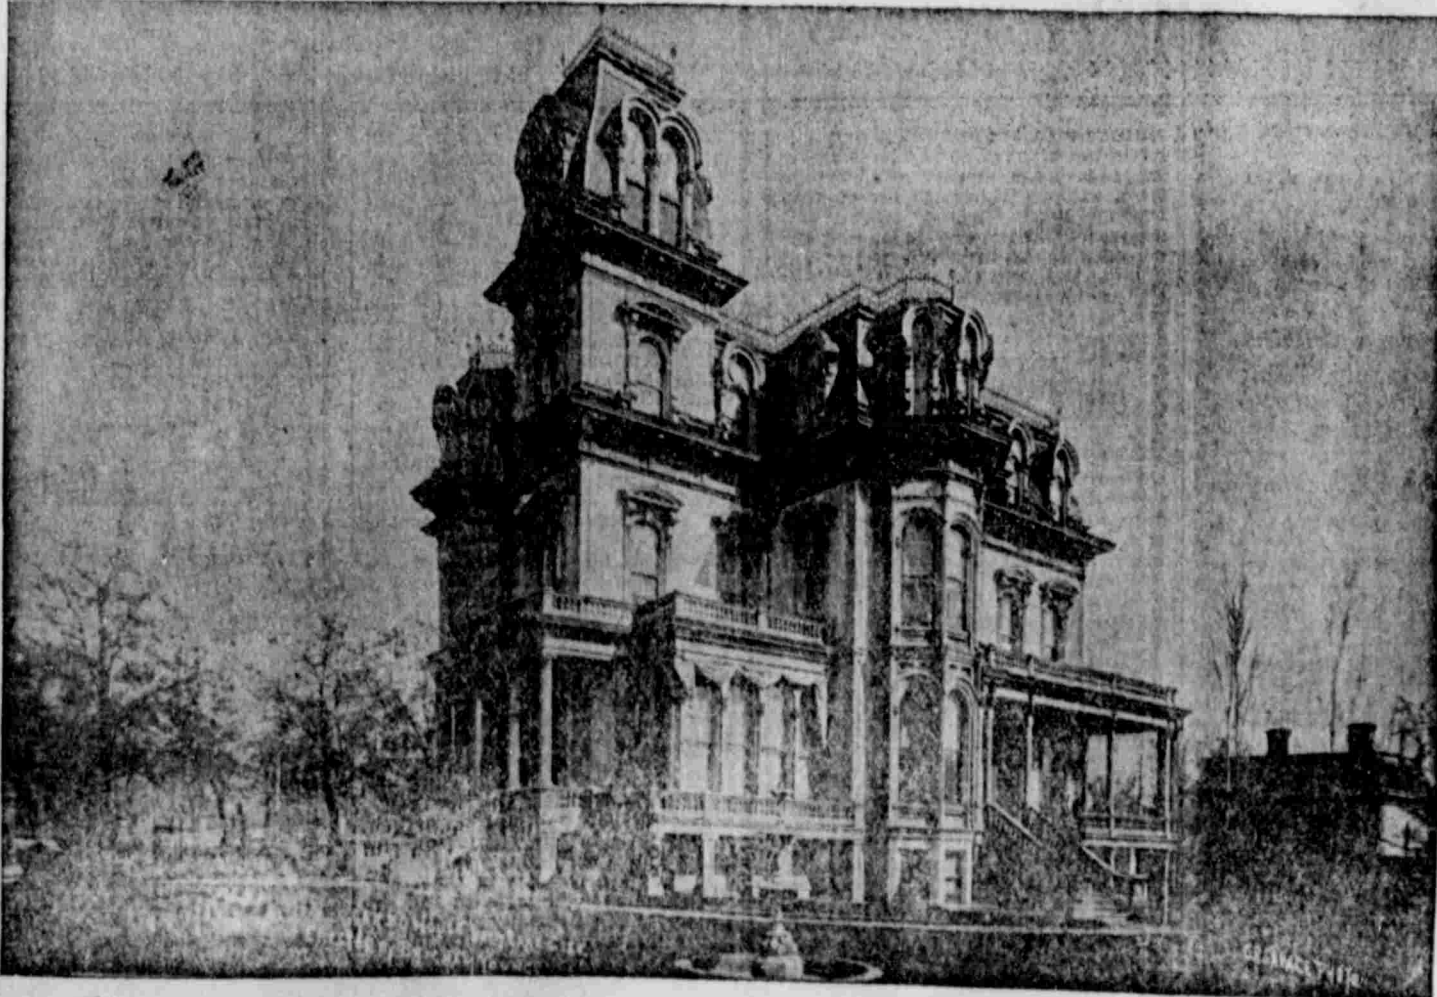

The Ladies' Literary club opened yesterday afternoon at the club house with an interesting meeting. The club rooms and reception hall were adorned with flowers, and a spirit of animation and interest pervaded the atmosphere. The inaugural address was given by Mrs. W. C. Jennings, and reports of officers and committees were made, after which a social hour was spent.

On Monday, the 16th, the Tourist's section of the Ladies' Literary club will meet in the club rooms at 10 o'clock a. m. The program will be: Outline of German History from the Interregnum to the Reformation, by Mrs. Gailger, and the German Fatherland, by Mrs. Crawford.

The Shakespeare section of the Ladies' Literary club will meet on Wednesday at 10 a. m., and will take up the study of the "Taming of the Shrew."

A business meeting of the music section of the Ladies' Literary club was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs.

THE GARDO HOUSE, THE FUTURE HOME OF COLONEL AND MRS. HOLMES.

This notable private residence, inaccurately termed "Amelia's Palace," was erected by President Brigham Young in the early seventies, and was one of the first really modern homes built in Salt Lake City. In architectural style it is fashioned after the Italian villa, and was named the Gardo. It was recently vacated by A. W. McCune and family, on being sold by President Lorenzo Snow to Colonel and Mrs. Holmes for $45,000, for whom it is now being greatly changed as to interior arrangement and finish. It is stated with confidence that it will be the scene of many brilliant social functions in the days to come.
