Has Twelve Baby Fiancees.

This Young Man is Training Himself a Wife—Will Select a Bride When They Are 17.

SERGE ROSTSHUYA, one of the wealthiest men in all Russia, will be married in 1920 or 1921 to the most beautiful, the healthiest, the most perfect woman in all the Russian says the Chicago Tribune. His bride now is between two and three years old, and when she is 17 she will become the wife of the millionaire who has begun what perhaps is the strangest and most scientific courtship the world ever has known.

Rostshuya, now 28 years old, has selected 12 girl babies, and from among them, when they reach the age of 17, he will choose his bride. Meantime they will be raised, cared for, educated, trained, and made beautiful by his money. They will remain under the care of their parents, while Rostshuya supplies money, clothes, food, nurses, doctors, and caretakers, surrounds them with every necessity and every care, and all with the object that one of them shall develop into a perfect wife—the most perfect specimen of womanly beauty, grace, and health in the world.

The millionaire, who resides in Jaroslav, and who has relatives both in St. Petersburg and Moscow, has inherited an estate of 90,000,000 rubles from his father, and that vast fortune, added to that of his mother, which already was his, has made him one of the wealthiest men of the czar's domain. Despite his immense wealth and the fact that he is young, he is serious, and brilliantly educated, and that, in his father's time the St. Petersburg house was a center of party among the gayest set of nobles and millionaires in the capital. Rostshuya has cared but little for society and has since coming into possession of his money, shown a tendency toward the student's life, and a vast interest in the sciences. When he came into possession of his father's fortune, shortly after his twenty-fourth birthday, he was regarded as the best match outside of the nobility in Russia, because of his excellent family connections and his immense wealth. He was popular, too, among his fellows at the university. The beauties of the capital and of Moscow honored him with smiles, and mothers, even of high born daughters of the nobility, encouraged him. But, after three years they despaired, for Rostshuya seemed ad-parents a certain amount of money each year until the children reach 17. Physicians chosen by himself are to visit the children regularly and direct their care and nutrition, while tutors of his own choosing and nurses appointed by himself or his physicians are to have charge of the children at all times. These guardians are to have sole direction and power to say whether or not the influence of the mother upon the child is for good or evil, and if not to the best interests of the little one the mother is to be kept apart from the child, except at intervals, when she may visit it.

Furthermore, when the children reach the age of 17 years, Rostshuya and his advisers are to choose among them, selecting the most perfect as his bride and mistress of his millions. The other 11 girls are to receive 10,000 rubles each and be free to wed as they choose. The 12 baby fiancées of the millionaire all are children of good families, and in three instances the families are wealthy, while in the other cases the parents are in moderate circumstances.

Physicians and scientific men throughout Europe are interested in the experiment, but scarcely to such an extent as the gossips of St. Petersburg.

Not a Horseless Age.

substitution of electricity for horsepower in streetcars and elsewhere, we are still a long way from the "horseless age." In fact, it appears that the equine tribe is increasing rather than otherwise. The aggregate of horses in the United States on Jan. 1, 1906, stood at 18,718,578, against 14,364,667 at the corresponding date of 1897. Their total value increased from $452,649,394 in 1897 to $1,510,883,906. This startling rate of increase in value is no more marked than that of mules; according to the same government authorities. There were 2,215,654 mules in 1897 and 3,404,061 in 1906, and the values were respectively $202,030 and $331,680,526—Lafayette Weekly.

DR. FINN'S TESTIMONY INTERESTING.

Dr. Thomas Finn of Boston, Mass., who has practiced medicine for 27 years, says he has used every preparation known to the profession for treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, and says he has never found anything so effective in both chronic and acute kidney and bladder trouble as Foley's Kidney Cure. It cures irregularities and builds up the whole system. For sale by F. J. Hill Drug Co.

AN IDEA OF THE BARGAINS POSSIBLE HERE NEXT WEEK.

WOMAN FIGHTS U. S. 40 YEARS; WINS $75,000.

Mrs. FLORINE ALBRIGHT

After a struggle which has extended over 40 years, Mrs. Florine Albright, New York woman, will receive from the United States government a final settlement of a claim for $75,000, which will compensate her in part for the losses sustained by her family at the hands of Gen. McPherson's command in the Civil war.

Mrs. Albright is the daughter of Sterling T. Austin of Louisiana, who was assassinated in July, 1873, in Lake Providence, La., because of his expressions of loyalty to the government. His son, Sterling Austin, Jr., was shot down in the same street while attempting to go to his father's aid.
