Arens, Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3.-Bat. ting Nelson deliberately fouled Joe Gans in the forty-second round of the best and longest fight seen in many years. Both men were tired when the fight ended, but Gans was apparently the stronger. He was away ahead on the points and had smashed and cut Nelson all through the fight without being badly hurt himself.

Jack Clifford knocked out Boh Lundie in two reunds in the preliminary. Lundie was Nelson's sparring partner and Clifford worked with Gans.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

ROUND TWO.

Both were up quickly, with Nelson the aggressor. Gans uppercut twice with his right and left, which jarred Nelson on the jaw. He followed it with a straight right to the jaw. Nelson seemed impervious to punishment and came in at all times. Gans measured his distance and time and again shot his short arm right-to the Battler's face. They went to close quarters and Gans uppercut Nelson twice to the jaw. He chopped Nelson on the jaw again with stiff rights. Nelson fought him to a clinch and landed a terrible right to the face. In a mixup Gans rocked Nelson's head with two wicked right punches to the face, and followed it with a short arm jolt to the ear. As the gong rang Gans worked a hard left to the jaw. Gans had a good lead and outboxed and outgenerated his man throughout.

ROUND THREE.

Nelson tried to get in close and Gans whipped his right to the ear. At close quarters Gans uppercut twice with right to the chin and as they fought at close range Gans swung right over the eyes. Gans hooked a wicked right to the stomach and Nelson shot a straight left to the face. Several of Nelson's swings went wild. They went to a furious mix in the center of the ring in which Gans drew blood from Nelson's nose with a straight left. Nelson got in a good right to the face as the bell tolled. Nelson is being outpointed, but he never gives ground and seems to thrive on Gans punches. It was Gans' round. punches. It was Gans' round.

ROUND FOUR.

Nelson missed a left for the body. Nelson chased Gans about the ring but his blows invariably fell short. In a clinch Gans worked his right and left to the face. Nelson went after Gans body and bored in with his head, the black man backing steadily away, but at the same time peopering his man with right and left stabs to the jaw, and Nelson, cutting loose, drove Gans against the ropes, land ing both hands to the side of the head. Nelson, bleeding from the nose, kept after Gans, but this time Gans shot a straight right to the face, which he duplicated a moment later. Gans then put a right to the stomach and the bell rang. Nelson moment later. Gans then put a right to the stomach and the bell rang. Nelson brought the great crowd to its feet as he went to his corner with a faint smile on his face. Nelson had a shade.

ROUND FIVE.

Gans quietly shot a left to the nose as Nelson rushed in and they went into close quarters. Nelson swung his right to the ear, forcing Gans about the ring. Nelson drove his right to the kidneys, but the black man rocked Nelson's head with a series of left and right punches. Nelson swung back wildly and Gans smashed Nelson's sore nose with a terrific right drive. Gans brought the block afresh from Nelson's nose with stinging left, punches to that organ. In a mix afresh from Nelson's nose with stinging left, punches to that organ. In a mix Gans uppercut with right to the jaw. Not for a moment did Nelson break ground. He swung heavily to Gans' face with left, for which he was rebuked by a stiff right to the face. The gong clanged and Nelson went to his seat spitting blood. Nelson was badly punished in this round. Betting now 2 to 1 in favor of Gans.

Nelson rushed Gans, but the colored lad smashed him on the face three times with the right and easily avoided Nelson's attempts to land. Nelson bored in forcing Gans to he ropes. The crowd objected to Nelson's boring tactics, especially with his head against Gans, breast. After head against Gans' breast. breaking from a clinch Gans planted a right to the law and followed it with sev-eral terrific right drives to the face, sending the blood from Nelson's mouth stream. Gans beat Nelson's head hammering him almost at will. Nelson fought back desperately, but could not locate his shifty antagonist. Nelson was in bad shape when he took his chair. His face was cut into ribbons. Gans has a big lead and looks like a sure winner unless Nelson should get in a chance blow.

ROUND SEVEN.

As usual, Nelson forced Gans about the ring, Gans contenting himself with watching for an opening. Gans pecked away with left and right blows for the face. Nelson missed two right swings and Gans met Nelson with a fusilade of right and left punches to the face that staggered Nelson. Gans received a right punch in the body as the men worked into a corner, Gans swung his right twice to the face and Nelson swung back wildly. Gans nearly ducked two right swings again and kept up a merciless hammering on Nelson's face. The bell rang and Nelson went to his corner with blood streaming from his mouth and nose. In spite of all the punishment Nelson did not break ground at any time. As usual, Nelson forced Gans about the Gans had no trouble in avoiding Nelson's onslaughts and met Nelson with a right swing over the kidneys. He then swung right and left to Nelson's face and found no difficulty in keeping away from Nelson's swings. Gans played with the Dane, sending a raking right to the law and then working a left shift to the face. Nelson swung desperately for the face, but seldom if ever found the black man's anatomy. They closed in, mixing it roughly. Gans swung his right and left with fearful force and Nelson slipped to his knees. He got up in a Jiffy and Gans went at him like a demon and landed almost at will. The gong was a great relief to Nelson, and he appeared groggy when he fell into his seat. ROUND EIGHT.

ROUND NINE.

They stood shoulder to shoulder in the center of the ring. Gans walloped the Dane with right and left to the face. Nelson tried desperately to work in two hard right swings to the body and for his pains received two wicked short arm right to the jaw. At close quarters Nelson swung his left twice to Gans' jaw and a moment later swung right to the same place. They mixed it furiously, Gans landing two punches to Nelson's one. Nelson's swung right and left hard to Gans' jaw, but Gans more than evened up matters, sending the Dane back with rapid-fire rights and lefts to the jaw. Gans bled slightly from the mouth as the bell rang. It was Gans' round.

ROUND TEN.

Gans met Neison's rush with straight left to the face. "Stay with him; don't get away," was the injunction from the Battler's corner. They went in close and Gans smothered Neison with two rights and a succession of lefts to the face. Neison bored in and whipped his right and left to the negro's jaw. Nelson then brought blood from Gans' mouth in a stream with a succession of rights and lefts to the member. A horrible mix resulted at close quarters. The arens was in a shamble. Both men fought at a fearful pace. Nelson having the best of a most heart-breaking raily. The men bled copiously. The bell rang with Nelson having a shade the better of a most vicious round.

Gans looked a bit worried as he was and requesting of Referee Siler that Nelson stop butting with his head. Nelson apparently realized that his only chance was to fight breast to breast, and judging from the preceding rounds he is the better man at this game. Nelson started a stream of blood from Gans' mouth by two wicked right uppercuss. They broke from a clinch and Gans immediately whipped in two rights to Nelson's jaw. Gans was cautioned to keep away by his seconds, but Nelson kept at close quarters. Nelson finally swung a light left to the mouth as the beli raug. If anything Nelson had a slight lead in this round.

ROUND TWELVE.

ROUND TWELVE.

Nelson rushed in and they fought shoulder to shoulder for an advantage. Gans, getting Nelson away from him, whipped a suff right to the face. Nelson forced Gans against the ropes and Nelson shipped to the floor. Gans held out his hands and assisted him to his feet and they immediately renewed hostilities. Gans rested himself and seamed content to permit Nelson to do the leading. They fought breast to breast like two bulls. Nelson butted Gans on the jaw with his head. They bent very low, head to head, in monontonous fashion, each seeking to fight according to the way best adapted to his different style. Gans had a slight lead of a tame round. Siler said he believed Gans was resting up.

ROUND FOURTEEN

Both men fought to close quarters but very few blows were from the shoulder Nelson tried to find Gans' body with left and right hooks and incidentally butted the negro with his head. Nelson sent Gans against the ropes by sheer force of his weight. Nelson fell back through the ropes and Gans chivalrously pulled him back to the ring. As a reward for this act of courtesy the Dane smashed Gans on the body and the crowd yelled its disapproval. At the close of the round Nelson kicked at Gans and the latter promptly retallated in kind. They had to be separated by their handlers.

ROUND FIFTEEN.

The round opened with a clinch and Nelson elbowed and butted Gans plainly. He was warned to desist by Referes Siler and the second yelled foul in unison. No attention was paid to the claim and the men roughed it at close quarters. Nelson forcing Gans against the ropes. The men fought at such close ropes. The men fought at such close quarters or rather wrestled, that little execution could be accomplished. Nelson, in a breakaway, was sent to the floor with a right straight to the face. Nelson looked a bit shaky as he got to his feet and immediately went to close quarters to protect himself from further long distance swats. The crowd cheered Gans lustily as he went to his corner.

ROUND SIXTEEN.

ROUND SIXTEEN.

Nelson missed a left and right swing, Gans dancing away. Gans tried to keep Nelson at a distance, but Nelson followed Gans about the ring, trying to land some vicious right swings. Gans whipped his right to the jaw and Nelson wrestled Gans about the ring, Gans holding on. Nelson scored with a stiff right to the face and once more they landed against one another. Gans wrestled Nelson clear through the ropes, and in falling Nelson pulled the negro after him. They were pushed buck into the ring, and immediately resumed their wrestling tactics. In a mix Nelson drove his right twice to the face and a right to the mouth at close quarters, sending Joe to his corner with blood streaming from his mouth. Nelson had the better of the round, which was full of wrestling.

ROUND SEVENTEEN.

Nelson landed his right on the mouth and they went to a clinch. Siler cautioned Nelson for hitting low. Nelson swung his right to the kidneys and they wrestled about the ring, Gans working in a left uppercut to the mouth and a sent the Battler back with two hard short arm chops to the face, and a moment later shot his right to the wind. Both men rested for some time and the round ended with honors a bit in Nelson's favor.

POUND FIGHTEEN

ROUND EIGHTEEN.

Gans rushed in with a straight right to the face and Nelson swung two lefts to the negro's face. Siler again warned Nelson about using his head. Gans blocked Nelson's leads cleverly and they again bent down, fighting shoulder to shoulder. Nelson sent in two left swings, but Gans retailated with two stinging rights to the face. They wrestled about the ring and Gans drove Nelson against the rones with two right smashes to the face, Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away, and at the end of the round Gans got in another right punch to the Dane's face. The men did not hear the gong and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round, with no advantage.

ROUND NINETEEN.

ROUND NINETEEN.

Siler warned Nelson once more for butting, and laid his hand on Nelson's head twice as a reminder that the Dane should cut out this kind of work. Nelson continued to butt and Siler stepped in and pulled Nelson from his reclining position. The men remained in a locked position, Gans resting and Nelson wrestling. Finally Gans sent Nelson back with right and left joits to the jaw, staggering Nelson a bit. Just before the gong rang Gans sent a left and two stiff rights to the jaw, and Nelson put in a right on the head. There was more wrestling than fighting in this round and derogatory comments were passed around the ring-side.

ROUND TWENTY.

ROUND TWENTY,

The men rushed together and Siler grabbed Nelson by the head, indicating that the Dane should cease boring in with his head. Gans straightened Nelson up with two lefts to the jaw and Nelson landed several lefts to the body. An exchange followed, both landing lefts to the chin. Nelson pushed Gans almost through the ropes and then missed a left for the face. In a clinch Nelson landed a severe left uppercut to the jaw and they mixed it. Gans putting right and left to the jaw. He followed his advantage and sent in a volley of rights and lefts to the jaw as the round ended. The gong apparently came just in time to save Nelson from defeat. Gans had the lead.

ROUND TWENTY-ONE.

ROUND TWENTY-ONE.

Nelson came up as though nothing had lappened. His left eye was badly wollen and his right was discolored. They ought to a clinch and Gans poked right and left to the face. Gans then sent in a and left to the face. Gans then sent in a stiff uppercut over the Je. Nelson sent in two right body punches, and at close range Gans hooked his left to the mouth. They then stood off and Gans trimmed Nelson beautifully with two straight rights to the face and a left straight to the law. Nelson missed two vicious swings and Gans shot in a straight left to the face as the gong rang. Gans had a shade the best of it.

ROUND TWENTY-TWO.

Gans sent a straight left to the face and Nelson retaliated with a left hook to the stomach. Nelson drove a straight right punch against the ribs and closing right punch against the ribs and closin in, wrestled Gans to the ropes. Mixing is Gans worked in two right uppercuts t the body. They again leaned shoulder t shoulder and did little more than wres Nelson pushing Gans almost through ropes. This thing continued with notonous regularity. Finally Gans nonctoneus regularity. Finally ushed Nelson away and smashed wice with his right to the law enewed this with two left joits to have's head simultaneously with This was the only time during und that the men had fought and he round that the men Jans had the advantage.

ROUND TWENTY-THREE.

ROUND TWENTY-THREE.

They rushed to a clinch and Siler warned Nelson constantly about boring in with his head. Gans then crossed with his right to the jaw. Nelson drove his left twice to the eye, after the colored lard had put two lefts to the face. At close quarters Nelson put two good rights over the negro's heart and then tollewed the usual course of wrestling. They broke away and Nelson staggered Gans with a succession of hard left swings to the law, and several hard rights ty the law. Gans did not resuond and Nelson staggered. ing Gans to his corner with a right at the end of the round and yelled "Nel-son," "Nelson." It was the Dane's

Nelson drove Gans back to the ropes and put in two lefts to the hody before Gans clinched. They both missed left swings and a raily followed, Gans landing repeatedly on Nelson face. Noison had a shade the better.

BOUND TWENTY-FIVE.

Nelson rushed at once and swung his right to the ear. They fought and wreatled at close quarters and Nelson, breaking away, sent his left tothe stomach and then drave his right to the jaw. Nelson then sent two short arm left joits to the face and a moment later whitnes. jaw. He followed this with two rights his apparent somnolence and more than evened up matters by hammering Nelsons' face viciously with right and left punches. They then went in close and just before the bell rang Gans shot his left to the face. Gans was a bit worsted early in the round but had the better of the closure rally. of the closing rally.

ROUND TWENTY-SIX

Nelson forced Gans to the ropes but could not penetrate Gans' marvelous defense while in dangerous positions. They wrestled again about the ring, Gans resting up. Nelson landed a hard right swing on the head but two left swings for the same place went glimmering. Then they boxed and Gans landed a left swing over the mouth and followed it with three straight lefts to the face. Then followed the inevitable clinch emerging from which Nelson uppercut Gans on the jaw which Nelson uppercut Gans on the jaw with left. Both men appeared tired at this stage of the contest, it seems hard to predict the winner at this time. ROUND TWENTY. SEVEN.

Gans sparred, while Nelson wasted his Gans sparred, while Nelson wasted his vitality with useless swings. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and the latter, working himself free, sent his left to Nelson's mouth. Nelson missed a hard left swing and in a mix Joe put in two light rights to the face. Nelson sent two straight lefts to the face, the last one sending Gans' head back. Gans then out loose. He drove his left to the stomach and left to the Jaw. Nelson, maddened, fought back viciously and gave the negro more than he had received as the round terminated. It was an even round with both men tired.

ROUND TWENTY-EIGHT. Gans labbed Nelson on the mouth wit iera san, acasson on the mouth with left san, acasson butted the resioned man with his head. Nelson then put left and right to the Jaw and shortly afterward awing his left to the stomach and right to the jaw. Then they closed in and Nelson drove Joe to the ropes with a left hook to the face. The men westled to the center of the ring and Gans sent two light waters. the center of the ring and Gans sent two right swings to the face Nelson Iried to wrestie Gans to the ropes but Gans like a rejuvenated mad arove Nelson back with several fearful clouts to the jaw, the first of which sent Nelson to tottering half across the ring. Gans kept at his man, who was greggy, and the bell's slang was a welcome sound to Nelson, as he went to his corner. It was Gans' round, TWENTY-NINE.

Nelson rushed to close quarters, apparently as strong as ever. He followed Gans about, but failed to land on the negro. Nelson's recuperative powers are almost superhuman. The men wrestled and roughed if in the center of the ring and exchanged right swings to the law. Gans then eut loose again and merchlessly be pered. Nelson's fare and law with right and left. The Dane merely shook his head and wrestled the blark champion to the ropes. Gans rested, permitting Nelson to waste his energy typing to land swings. Gans was against ing to land swings. Gons was against the ropes as the bell sounded. Gans' round.

ROUND THIRTY.

They fell against each other and Siler agained warned Nelson to cease fighting with Na head. They then locked head and fought at close quarters, Netson doing all the work, but not landing. Gans then put in two right uppercuts and then stalled and rested apparently with a view of saving his strength. It is in this manner that Gans displays his great generaliship. Gans then put in a right uppercut to Nelson's mouth and the Dane missed several victous left and right swings for the jaw. As the bell rang Nelson deliberately hit Gans 1 at 1 forcest. Some one started three cheers for the negro which drew forth a rousing response.

Gans eleverly blocked Nelson's attempts to land wild swings and again rested, permitting the younger man to do all the work. Again Siler told Nelson to quit using his head and they went to close quarters, wrestling and stalling. The men wrestled for fully a minute without a blow being struck. They stalled and both appeared to be tired. In a mix Gans landed several uppercuts with left to the face and then sent Nelson's head back with a straight left to the face. The ways were looked in a clinch as the bell with a straight left to the face. The men were locked in a clinch as the bell rang. The fight apparently has settled down to a question of the survival of the Gans danced away from the Dane's leads and as usual closed in, mostly on Nelson's initiative. Siler again and again spoke to Nelson about using his head on the negro's chin. Again came the almost interminable clinching and wrestling. Finally Nelson swung a hard right to the jaw and quickly followed it with a left swing to the same place. Nelson's left eye is badly swollen and almost closed. Gans sent Nelson back with two straight lefts and three rights to Nelson's sore eye. Gans caught Nelson a terrific clip on the jaw with a right hook and then sent in a dazing left to the face. Again the gong brought relief to Nelson and saved him from almost sure defeat. Nelson did not look very cheerful as he took his seat. his seat.

ROUND THIRTY-THREE. They closed in, Nelson butting with his eac. Gans peppered Nason's face to a jelly with terrific right swings. Nelson's left eye is entirely closed. Nelson punched Gans to the ropes and they fought at close range. Gans resting and saving his strength. Nelson bled profusely as the men worked to the center of the ring and was a sight to behold Gans rested again as Nelson bored in and partly wrestled and stalled. Gans sent Nelson back against the referee with a left clip to the jaw. Both men were very weak as the gong rang. Nelson for the first time showing great weariness. It was Gans' round.

ROUND THIRTY- FOUR.

and received right and left swings on the head. Nelson worked in two short arm lefts to the stomach and both men wrestled. Gans nearly put Nelson through the ropes. Joe was the fresher of the two as the round ended. Nelson appeared very tired.

ROUND THIRTY-EIVE.

is the same old story-wrestle, stall It is the same old story—wrestle, stall and rest, without a blow being struck Gans finally ripped a straight left to the jaw and again they rested each other's head against one another's shoulders. Gans put in a right upperbut that lacked force, and they went quickly to a clinch Both men tottered about the ring, not landing a blow Nelson, at close quarters, worked two left short arm blows to the face and the bell closed a very slow and tiresome round.

ROUND THIRTY-SIX.

Both sparred and their Gans started Both sparred and their Gans starred something with a straight left to the face. Again the wrestling. Nelson missed a forceful uppercut intended for the faw, and for a brief moment it looked as if the men were going to fight, but such was not the case. Gans eleverly ducked a right swing and then ran into a right wing and then ran into a right work over the heart. Nelson booked a left to over the heart Nelson hooked a left to the stemach and at close quarters got his right lightly to the law. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and Gans just did step out of the way of a right upper-ROUND THIRTY-SEVEN.

Nelson was again told to step fighting with his head. Gans vigorously objecting to Referee Siler against his style of scrapto Referee Siler against his style of scrapping. The men went again to the wrestling style and Nelson swung a left to the jaw, but missed its marke three feet. They leaned up against each other and little attempts to strike a blow were made. Then Gans whipped a powerful left to the wind and they climched. Both men are very careful. Gans won the crowd by catching Nelson at long range and putting several straight lefts to the face. Then came the bell and a rest. ROUND THIRTY-EIGHT.

Nelson rushed in and Gans backed quickly, trying to keep the Dane at distance and force him to sper at le range. Gans complained later about N range. Gans complained later about Nelson resting on his (Gans) chin and shoulders. Nelson swung a left to the jaw and after a clinch Gans.put in two rights to the Dane's face. Both mass were leg, weary and stalled and clinched as much as they could. It was next to impossible to get the Dane to fight at long range and he realized that his only hope of windres less than the country of the later was the country of the later was the country of the later was the l wrestling. Gans likewise seemed perfectly centent to rest.

ROUND THIRTY-NINE.

Gans Jabbed his left twice to the face before Nelson could get to close quarters. Then followed stailing and wrestling, which was broken up by Gans punishing Nelson viclously over fine heart with the right. Gans followed this with two straight rights to the face, and again it looked as if the deadlock would be broken, it was only a flash in the pan, however, and the men resumed the thresome stalling, Nelson being the chief oftender. Nelson, by way of variety, sent in a hard left to the jaw and Gans came back with two lefts to the jaw. Nelson's left eye is closed entirely now, and he appears to be tiring rapidly. ROUND FORTY.

They started in at a lively pace. Gant landing his left to the ear. Then they stopped. In a clinch Gans drove a left to the jaw and Nelson retailated with a left upperent to the jaw. The men did very little fighting. Gans got Nelson at arm's length and took advantage of this concession by sending his left twice to the Dane's sore head. Gans complains again about Nelson's head and sent Nelson's head back with left uppercut to the law. ROUND FORTY-ONE.

They came up slowly and clinched. Gans asked Billy Nolan face to face, "What time is it?" They then resumed the clinching contest. Gans got a straight right to the mouth and Nelson rebuked him with 'two lefts to the stomach. Nelson whipped his left to the face and the men ceased fighting entirely. Buddenly Nelson landed a hard left hook to the law and Gans fought him away, landing two lefts to the face and a right to the body. Both men were wrestled about the ring and it was hard to tell which was the more tired of the two as the men went to their cerners.

ROUND FORTY-TWO.

Gans started the round with a straight teft to the face and they clinched. As the men broke out from a clinch Nelson deliberately struck Gans low and the colored man slowly sank to the floor. The blow was clearly observed by everyone in the arena and there was not a murmur of dissent from the spectators as the long drawn out battle was terminated. Gans was given the decision on the foul.

WHAT NOLAN SAYS.

Declares He Was Jobbed by the Referee As Result of a Plot.

cree As Result of a Plot.

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 2.—In answer to the report that he had instructed Nelson to hit low, Billy Notan said tonight:

"No there is absolutely nothing in the report. Why, Nelson was as 22 ong in the forty-second round as he was in the fifth. Gans was contenting himself thoughout with tosting and resting and Nelson finally decided to do the same thing. Gans was all in at the time and would not have lasted another five rounds. I think I have been jobbed. You remember my statement to the press last night in which I told why I believed there was a job on foot to give the fight to Gans. I told you about the cilque of San Francisco. ight who had in his custody thousands of oldars to be placed on the colored man at my old price. The significance of these place is now explained. I do not make my charges against Siler but I know that leison did not foul Gans. I don't care his says that he did."

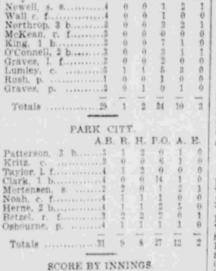

One of Nelson's seconds stated tonight hat Nelson was dizzy when he was called or the forty-second round, and this may are had semething to do with the foulge of Gans.

shape and would not talk. His left ever was entirely closed and his face badly marked up.

Nelson was seen tonight but he was bad

EUREKA DEFEATED. Park City Has Oceans of Joy on Its Big Holiday. At Park City on Labor day the fans had the opportunity of ending the season just right. There were 2,000 of them at the baseball game with Eureka, and the home team played rings around their op-ponents, making a score of 9 to 1, Rush went out of the box in the second after Park City had made five runs, and Os-bourne for Park City remained in all the way through allowing only 29 men to face him in nine innings. WHITE MEN MIX IN FIGHT.

Losers on Gans-Nelson Fight in Chicago Take it Out on Negro

Chicago, Sept. 4 .- Violence and in one instance murder, was the result of the race excitement that developed while the returns from the Gans-Nelson fight were being received in Chicago last night. The levee district was aflame with the spirit of lawlessness that broke out at frequent intervals as the partisans of one or the other of the fighters ventured an opinion.

In one case a drunken negro, over-hearing a remark from two others of is own race that did not suit him, whipped out a revolver and killed one of the men and wounded the other. In other parts of the city negroes were the victims of betters who had lost money on Nelson. In South Chicago a fight between blacks and whites re-suited in the severe bearing of four negroes and the arrest of 40 men. another instance a negro on his way home was pursued through the streets and attacked as he fell exhausted on the steps of the house where he is employed.

Bike Riding Game.

The fact that John Held was away up in Boise, and the fact that all the out-of-town resorts were doing their last day's business yesterday combined to slump the attendance at the Sait Palace saucer. There was a good program of races, and those who came enjoyed them to the full. Lawson rode a successful race against the bunch in the five-mile handicap, following McFarland to a final sprint for home in which he went around him. Samuelson finished sixth after being hopelessly passed in the sprinting. Hume took the half-mile open amateur in his usual "show "em up" form.
