The purport of this contract was that the company agreed to pay to second class machin-ists 30 cents an hour for all work done from the date of their arrival in San Francisco. It furthermore set forth that noile but sober, industrious men would be engaged. What seemed the stumbling block to those who applied was that the applicant was asked to deposit a guarantee of $35 to help defray expenses of transportation from here to San Francisco, this sum to be refunded to the employe after six months of faithful service. Several of the leading labor men among the iron trades of the city thought it highly improbable that the company could get men to engage with them under the conditions imposed.

Will Not Have Deep Waterway.

New York, Aug. 6.-The executive committee of the Canal association of Greater New York has just reached an important conclusion in regard to its future work, says the Journal of Commerce. The committee has been waver-ing on the question whether the promise of a deep waterway from the lakes to the seaboard, entirely under national control, did not offer better prospects of prompt attainment than a 1,000 ton barge canal. The cause of the wavering was the publication of the de-tailed report of the deep waterways commission. This report has now been thoroughly digested and studied by the committee and it has been formally decided that the interests of New York will be better served by a 1,000 ton barge canal than by the larger project.

His Last Experiment.

Alameda, Cal., Aug. 6 .- Dr. Charles Hampden Field, committed suicide to-day by inhaling illuminating gas. He was formerly a surgeon in the United States army at Fort Wayne. He was also an ex-surgeon of the pension bu-reau, and at one time surgeon for the Union Pacific railroad.

Bibulous Competition.

San Francisco, Aug. 6 .- Representatives of California viticultural interests have learned that French exporters propose to enter into active competition with the wine makers of this state. It is asserted that in the Perigord district of France the crops of grapes has been so enormous that wine has fallen to less than one cent a gallon. The French growers, according to the Chronicle, do not intend shipping wine to this country, owing to the tariff, but they propose to send over condensed must. This is unfermented juice of the M. I salt water for her boilers although it is injurious to the pipes. The Winslow will probably be laid up at the yards for repairs for a week. The Cushing is expected to leave at once. The crews of both boats were completely farged out. The duty on must is only 20 per cent ad valorem, it coming under the head of "unenumerated articles" in the tariff schedules. The wine interests of Cali-fornia will at once take steps to have the omission of must from the tariff rectified by Congress, and it is likely that the measure to that effect will be placed in charge of representative Kahn on his return from the Philip-pines. pines.

bedside of his dying grandmother at Osborne last January. It was 2 o'clock at night before the announcement of the empress' death was posted at Mariborough house and Buckingham palace, and the news guickly spread throughout the metro-polis, at once changing the joy of the holiday makers into sorrow. The Em-press was not well known, except by repute, to the present generation of the English people. Germany had been her home for 43 years and her public appearances in her native land, especially during the last decade, were rare. But she never forgot she was princess royal of Great Britain, ad uthis fact endeared her to Englishmen. She was by far the most clever and tactful of all Queen Victoria's children, and a great judge of character long ago described her as the cleverest woman in Europe. In many respects it is said she greatly resembled her mother.

It is generally admitted that she had only one enemy. Prince Bismarck never forgave her for being English by birth and nationality, and he pursued her with intrigue and resentment It is an open secret that even state papers, emanating from the German foreign office during Bismarck's chancellorship, contained the grossest and most insulting allusions to her. All social features in London will for the presen be abandoned or postponed, and it is probable that throughout the United Kingdom mouring for king's sister will be of six months d

Strikers and Employers Will Now

San Francisco, Aug. 6.-Negotiations for a settlement of the labor troubles having resulted in failure, the indications now are that the strike will not be ended until after a bitter and protracted struggle. Mayor Phelan's closing statement of his services as mediator presents both sides of the con troversy. It shows that the vital difference now existing between the contending parties lies in the fact that the Employers' association declines to re-employ their men unless they agree not to go on sympathetic strikes or use sympathetic boycotts. As an affset, the employers say they will not discriminate against employers of union labor or against union employes. Neither side will yield either of the points at issue, and the mayor, therefore considers the negotiations closed. That the San Francisco labor council entertains the same opinion is evidenced by its ourse in entering the contest for the first time and calling out the sand It was expected by many teamsters. that the council, which controls about 25,000 union men, would order a general strike, but this will not be done at present. Many Rumors.

New York, Aug. 6.-The Journal of Commerce says: While considerable surprise was expressed over the fact that several large interests identified with the American Cotton Oil company has asked for deposits of stock of that company, with the privilege of selling the same, it does not appear that the current report of a consolidation of that company with other cotton oil interests is well founded. By some the move-ment is regarded as indicating that the securing stock is to bring object of about an immediate consolidation with the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company. The latter company has already secured the Southern Cotton Oil Co., the chief competitor of the American, and has also purchased in the neigh-borhood of a score of other cotton oll properties. One report is that a $100, 000,000 consolidation is contemplated Apparently, however, such a deal is not under way at this time. A person closely connected with the American Cotton Oll Co., is authority for the statement that the proposed deposit of the stocks of the company in the First National bank of New York was merely to prevent control from passing other interests. This sthatement, however, was given with the reservation that it was impossible to tell what the future might bring forth, and that if the new combination offered a tempting a stop to many of the dental "diploma mills," which are said to exist through-out the land. the control of the American Cotprice, ton Oil company might pass.

Some additional light may be thrown on the situation today when the direc-tors will hold their usual meeting. It is understood that the proposition to deposit the stock at the First National bank will come under discussion, and it is possible that a statement will be made, fully explaining the reasons for its issuance. This statement will probits issuance. This statement will prob-ably show that the pooling of the stock is for community of action. Giving Details.

New York, Aug. 6 .- The Herald correspondent at Cronberg gives the fol-lowing details regarding the death of the bowager Empress of Germany. The mounful intelligence soon spread from the tower to the town where flags were placed at half mast, and the inhabitants of Cronberg met in small groups to discuss the tidings of the death. The village of Oberursel is the half-way house between Homburg and Cronberg, and, therefore, from the news point of view, is of strategical importance.

All day, in fact since the kalser hur-ried through it, the place has been filled with troops.

Late at night it is still teeming with the blue hussars with long lances, on which black and white pennants flutter. It is a great military demonstra-

The order has just come in for the entire road to be patrolled the whole night, and the almost famished officers and men are rushing about trying to find food for man and beast, both of which have had a hard time. They looked pretty exhausted after having been on duty for 18 hours. Up to a late hour the entire road from Oberusel to Cronberg was full of people watching for the kaiser and they unanimously interpreted ominously his non-return. The officers of the hussars were greedily eating supper at the local schutzenhof hotel, and what with troops everywhere appearing unexpectedly out of strange corners and from between trees and the continual tramp of patrols one might easily be leve it was a time of war and that the little village was occupied by the enemy.

In the sick chamber during the last hours of the empress, the nursing dutles were taken alternately by Princess Christian, the empress' sister, and the Princess Victoria (Princess Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippe), the empress second daughter.

Those who saw her say the empress was much changed. She had become at utter wreck, and instead of looking 20 years younger than her age, as was her wont, she looked 20 years elder. The awful pains which racked her for months at last reduced her splendid physique to a complete wreck. Fully aware of this, the empress had refused for some time to see her friends, even her faithful marshal of court, not wishing to be seen in her changed con-dition. She prayed constantly that the end might come Extreme weakness followed the intense agony of excruci-ating pain, but, mercifully, this gradually lessened until death relieved her.

Saw Their Mistress in Death.

London, Aug. 6 .- The London Mail's correspondent in Cronberg states that last night the servants of the deceased empress were allowed to look upon her in death. She lay most peacefully amid in death. She lay most peacefully amid a mass of white flowers, her hands fold-ed on her breast and her head inclining a little to one side. All lines of pain had vanished from her face, and in their place was a smile of happiness. One by one the servants passed through the bedroom paying their little tribute.
