

PRENTICE MILFORD. The Life Story of a Philosopher.

FORCES OF THE UNSEEN.

Romantic Career of One of the Most Remarkable Men of the Century - Founder of The White Cross Library.

This is the life story of one who formulated a philosophy. His name was Prentice Milford. He began the personal publication of The White Cross Library, in which his theories of life and conduct are set forth, some 25 years ago. His death occurred about five years later. The title of The Library, at that time moderate, has since then gradually increased, until now, according to the New York Sun of a recent date, its members are in "all most or great demand as Trinity was a year or two ago."

Though chiefly devoted to moral and intellectual development, some members of this library deal largely with material affairs. The president of a prominent insurance company was so impressed by the perusal of "How to Finish Your Business" some time since that and agents of his company were led to study the book. It was not only a book but a philosophy, and such was the influence of a copy.

PRENTICE MILFORD.

For some years prior to his death he was in the habit of making addresses at definite intervals, in which he elucidated his theories with reference to specific questions. To-day meetings of those who have accepted his philosophy are being regularly held in many cities. In fact, thousands are now interested in the material thought and philosophy, in place of hands on when he died.

Milford was born at Sag Harbor, L. I. His family was one of the oldest on all the island, but while Prentice was yet only a lad he came to see that he could never win a place in the world worth having at Sag Harbor. This was borne in upon him with great vividness when he stood upon the wooden pier at home and watched a shipload of Long Islanders sail for California, and after that had there been long.

It was not till 1835, however, that he left Sag Harbor, believing that there had been little in life for him, either actually or prospectively. A few years elsewhere had been his lot, but for years elsewhere he had been a failure, and he had seen that his existence was but a succession of hardships and disappointments, of disappointments after disappointments, of humiliations and humiliations, of humiliations and humiliations, of humiliations and humiliations.

The visitation that had befallen of San Francisco. The thought struck knowledge about its streets without anciently much. Then he stepped ashore from the ship, and found himself in a strange land, where he was to spend the remainder of his life. He was to spend the remainder of his life in a strange land, where he was to spend the remainder of his life.

When this voyage was over, he left off following the sea for the second time, and went to the police station. This course was not taken without a struggle, for he had been on a boat on another vessel, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf. He had been on the boat for the purpose of the voyage, but was discharged before the vessel had reached the wharf.

that his work was recognized by a publisher. His work was recognized by a publisher. His work was recognized by a publisher.

Milford's absence at this time was not a failure. It was not a failure. It was not a failure.

It was through his struggles to right himself, that he discovered the true nature of himself. It was through his struggles to right himself, that he discovered the true nature of himself.

Two Royal Jubilees. The important jubilee that glows this year. One is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession to the throne of King Albert of Saxony, which will be celebrated in April, while the other is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession to the throne of Emperor Franz Joseph, which occurs the early part of December next.

That all the guests who will visit Dresden in April, the most welcome undoubtedly will be the emperor of Austria, who is the oldest and most illustrious personage of the world. There is a good deal in common between these two jubilees, which have been celebrated in Saxony, and it is not unlikely that the emperor will attend, while on his way back from Copenhagen, where he is due in days previous to the start in the celebration of the eightieth birthday of his grandfather, the king of Denmark, and of the marriage of Prince Christian of Denmark, with the young Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, which is to take place at the same time.

That of all the guests who will visit Dresden in April, the most welcome undoubtedly will be the emperor of Austria, who is the oldest and most illustrious personage of the world. There is a good deal in common between these two jubilees, which have been celebrated in Saxony, and it is not unlikely that the emperor will attend, while on his way back from Copenhagen, where he is due in days previous to the start in the celebration of the eightieth birthday of his grandfather, the king of Denmark, and of the marriage of Prince Christian of Denmark, with the young Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, which is to take place at the same time.

That of all the guests who will visit Dresden in April, the most welcome undoubtedly will be the emperor of Austria, who is the oldest and most illustrious personage of the world. There is a good deal in common between these two jubilees, which have been celebrated in Saxony, and it is not unlikely that the emperor will attend, while on his way back from Copenhagen, where he is due in days previous to the start in the celebration of the eightieth birthday of his grandfather, the king of Denmark, and of the marriage of Prince Christian of Denmark, with the young Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, which is to take place at the same time.

That of all the guests who will visit Dresden in April, the most welcome undoubtedly will be the emperor of Austria, who is the oldest and most illustrious personage of the world. There is a good deal in common between these two jubilees, which have been celebrated in Saxony, and it is not unlikely that the emperor will attend, while on his way back from Copenhagen, where he is due in days previous to the start in the celebration of the eightieth birthday of his grandfather, the king of Denmark, and of the marriage of Prince Christian of Denmark, with the young Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, which is to take place at the same time.

That of all the guests who will visit Dresden in April, the most welcome undoubtedly will be the emperor of Austria, who is the oldest and most illustrious personage of the world. There is a good deal in common between these two jubilees, which have been celebrated in Saxony, and it is not unlikely that the emperor will attend, while on his way back from Copenhagen, where he is due in days previous to the start in the celebration of the eightieth birthday of his grandfather, the king of Denmark, and of the marriage of Prince Christian of Denmark, with the young Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, which is to take place at the same time.

cent. It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

It will also be an element of interest to the people of New York, who will be glad to know that the city of New York is the only city in the world that has a public library.

MARDI GRAS CARNIVAL. An Annual Festival of Frivolity. THE SEASON AT NEW ORLEANS. Extensive Preparations Making for the Celebration Soon to Take Place in the Crescent City.

This is the initial announcement made to the people of New Orleans of the Mardi Gras Carnival, which will be celebrated in the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, on Monday, Feb. 22, and the promise is made that this year's celebration will be more brilliant than ever. Northern cities have little of the carnival spirit, but in the Crescent City the people have taken up the idea with enthusiasm, and in recent years the Mardi Gras has become a great festival.

The beautiful city of Louisiana, on the lower Mississippi, has long been famous for its magnificent carnival, which is celebrated in the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, on Monday, Feb. 22, and the promise is made that this year's celebration will be more brilliant than ever.

THE GRAND BAL MARQUE.

ing about 10 o'clock and winds its way through the streets of the city. The night parade is more of a masquerade, given largely to frivolity, the music being of the kind which is popular in the Crescent City.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

As a rule, some active members of the order of the parade are the king and queen, who are elected by the people. The king and queen are elected by the people, and the king and queen are elected by the people.

INTERESTING PLANTS.

While there has been for a number of years a growing interest in the study of plants, the study of plants has become a popular science. The study of plants has become a popular science, and the study of plants has become a popular science.

are in more danger than other trees of being struck by lightning. These trees, on the contrary, are not good conductors of electricity. The danger of these trees being struck by lightning is not so great as is generally supposed. The danger of these trees being struck by lightning is not so great as is generally supposed.

recruited exhibited in London. It was a white bird with a long neck and a long tail. It was a white bird with a long neck and a long tail. It was a white bird with a long neck and a long tail.

ster. In fact, however, it will probably be found that the bird is not so common as is generally supposed. The bird is not so common as is generally supposed, and the bird is not so common as is generally supposed.