

GEN. CHAFFEE VISITS WATERLOO

Says the Allies Clearly Had
The Advantage of Position.

CAUSE OF NAPOLEON'S DEFEAT

It Was a Division of Forces—In Other Battles He Had Always
Bested Them

Waterloo, Belgium, Aug. 31.—Lieut.-Gen. Adna R. Chaffee arrived here this morning and spent the day going from point to point, studying the famous battlefield.

The Belgian ministry of war had wished to assign a distinguished escort to accompany the commander of the United States army over the field, but Gen. Chaffee preferred to go as a plain citizen. He was accompanied by his aides, Capt. Hurdson, Capt. Nolan and Lieut. Crimmins, and also by Mrs. and Miss Chaffee and Congressman William Alden Smith of Michigan and family.

The party was joined on the field by Congressman Burke of South Dakota, Moon of Pennsylvania and Dickerman of Pennsylvania, who, as well as Congressman Smith, were members of the Army committee of the international peace congress at Brussels.

Arriving at the position where Wellington took his stand after Quatre Bras, Gen. Chaffee led the party to the top of the mound where a Belgian bonfire marks the center of the conflict and from which he could see La Haye-Sainte, Hougomont and La Belle Alliance are plainly discernible.

The general showed perfect familiarity with the technical developments of the battle, and graphitically outlined the offensive movements of Napoleon's troops, the counter-movements and the final defeat of the imperial forces. The congressmen pressed the general with questions, which brought out interesting comparisons between past and present military conditions.

"It is a great relief for a battle," said the general, "to look over the vast rolling plain. The allied armies clearly had the advantage of position, for the center of Wellington's lines is high and is screened by that sweeping ridge while the position occupied by Napoleon's forces is on that low ground with no cover whatever."

When Congressman Smith asked what was the main contributory cause of the disaster, Gen. Chaffee replied:

"It was the division of forces. Always before the battle of Waterloo Napoleon's successes had been gained by the massing of all his forces on the front, but Burke, arriving from the east for the first time, commanded a division of forces. That was the fatal turning point."

Congressman Burke asked the general concerning the claims made by some military authorities that had the battle opened earlier in the day than it would have been if different. Gen. Chaffee dissented, saying:

"No, it would merely have brought about the same result, and that much earlier."

Congressman Moon asked how far that 4,000 were killed or wounded in a nine-hour fight compared with the battles of the American civil war and the Russo-Japanese war.

"That is about 35 per cent," answered the general, "which is a terrible percentage, but we did not exceed the 20 per cent. At Gettysburg we had a loss of 30,000 in three days."

Gen. Chaffee then visited La Belle Alliance and carefully inspected the French artillery position. He looked over the old house, where on the night before the battle, Napoleon drew his last battle line, and Wellington and Blucher successfully overwhelmed the battered farmhouse at La Haye-Sainte, with its doorway still riddled with bullets, but the general's chief interest was in Hougomont, where the deadliest fight occurred. Here he inspected the remaining defenses and struck his hands in awe at the huge rents made by cannon balls.

Gen. Chaffee, with his staff and family, returned to Brussels. He will leave for Paris tomorrow to attend the French maneuvers.

UNION TYRANNY

May Cause Trouble in Chicago's Parade on Labor Day.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Conflicting orders issued by the Labor day parade committee and by the Teamsters' and Freight Handlers' unions may result in trouble on Monday.

At the same age the Chicago Federation of Labor declared that all union musicians should wear a uniform of a certain design, and a "flying squadron" has been appointed to see that no musician appears in the parade without this uniform. If one is discovered the orders of the "flying squadron" are to take the musical instruments away from him.

The Teamsters' and Freight Handlers' unions have contracted for bands whose members, although union men, do not wear the uniforms prescribed by the Chicago Federation of Labor, and they assert that any attack upon their musicians by the "flying squadron" will be promptly resisted.

Wanted for Murder

Sacramento, Calif., Aug. 31.—Rebelled this morning from the state of Arkansas demanding a warrant of arrest for a man named Homer Cheaney, who is under detention in Fresno, and who is wanted for the alleged murder of one W. T. McNally.

Homer Cheaney was identified and arrested by a railroad detective, but the claim is made that it is a case of mistaken identity, and that the man under arrest is in reality William Henry, whose mother, brother and sisters all reside in Fresno and are willing to testify to the fact that he never lived in Arkansas during his lifetime. They have retained the services of an attorney and will contest the granting of a warrant of arrest.

Baseballists in Collision.

Kansas City, Aug. 31.—Seven members of the Louisville baseball club were injured in a collision today between a trolley car and a wagonette in which the club was being taken from the ball park to a hotel.

The wagonette had reached Eighth and Olive streets, one block

PAINFUL PERIODS AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

The Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One of Thousands of Cures Made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that menstruation is the balance wheel of a woman's life, and while no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it is not the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely.

Miss Irene Crosby

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It eases the condition which causes so much discomfort and robe menstruation of its kind.

Miss Irene Crosby, wife of 311 Charlton Street, Savannah, Ga., writes:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a true friend to woman. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful menstruation when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with pain from irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that 'bearing-down' feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further advice.

Having devoted several writings thereto, the Russian plenipotentiaries came to the conclusion that an agreement was unattainable on four points, whereupon the Japanese plenipotentiaries declared their willingness to ask for complementary instructions with regard to finding a conciliatory outcome to the serious difficulties that had arisen.

After communicating with Tokio the Japanese plenipotentiaries intimated that they renounced, firstly, the question of the limitation of the Russian navy to forty ships of the far east, and, secondly, the demand for the surrender of the interred warships; but they continued to demand the cession of the island of Sakhalin and especially the port of Petropavlovsk.

In accordance with the instructions they had received, the Russian plenipotentiaries presented their demands to the emperor through Ambassador Meyer, appealing to his majesty's humanitarian sentiments and asking that he consent to accept a new Japanese proposal in order to avoid further bloodshed.

This proposal was that Russia, in view of the actual position of Sakhalin, which had been determined by the two islands, agree to cede to Japan the southern part, belonging to her up to 1875, the northern part to be returned to Russia in consideration of the payment of 1,200,000,000 yen (about $600,000,000).

Expressing his gratitude to President Roosevelt for the efforts made to aid in restoring peace, his majesty said he could not find it possible to accept the aforementioned proposals, which were deemed equivalent to the payment of an indemnity.

The Japanese plenipotentiaries were informed of the emperor's decision by the Russian plenipotentiary and they announced at the sitting of Aug. 29 that according to instructions from their government Japan renounced her demand for the reimbursement of the expenses of the war, but adhered to her claim to the southern part of Sakhalin, undertaking not to take military precautions thereby, nor to construct fortifications, and to keep La Perouse strait open.

Thus after the above had been inserted in the protocol, the sittings of the plenipotentiaries were terminated so far as regards the preliminary questions, leaving the peace which will serve as the basis of a final treaty of peace between Russia and Japan.

There is one particular feature of the Carstensen & Anson company's sale that has added materially to the success we are meeting with, and it is a point that purchasers have noted with much satisfaction. This refers to our system of quick delivery—a small enough thing in itself, but it is a matter that appears to strike many buyers. The stock is kept in such a condition that it is seldom confronted with "Sold" (2) placard adorning the lower-priced instruments—planoes, by the way, that have been strongly featured.

It is based upon our experience that a purchaser wants immediate delivery. His object in buying a piano is to use it—not to have it left in a salesroom for days placed as sold (3) in order to offer some tangible evidence of a salesman's ability. Purchasers at this salesroom seek to have the instruments placed in their homes immediately, and we find it quite satisfactory to do so, inasmuch as it gives the salesroom better conditions for ordinary business, and the purchaser is satisfied. When you are ready to visit this place of business, the feature here noted will appeal to you, for if you are modest in your desires, we will have no difficulty in supplying you, although the stock has materially diminished within the week.

On the other hand, if you desire one of the finer makes, we can offer incontrovertible evidence of the superiority of the instruments we are placing at a reduced price.

It is well to bear in mind these facts; for the sake we have inaugurated this week a new method of production on every piano in the stock, in the terms we are making the young, that is to say, the lowest in the city, and each day marks a greater enthusiasm among the many purchasers who are taking advantage of this offering. Many have shopped around among the various places in Salt Lake endeavoring to locate some that they read about, but seldom find. It has remained for this company to live up to the letter of its advertising, to "deliver the goods." It is indeed gratifying to know that the public can easily distinguish the genuineness from its opposite.

We invite you to call and ascertain the results of our salesroom, whether you have preference elsewhere or not. It is well to know where the real value in pianos can be found.

HISTORY OF PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

Russian Government Issues a Statement Explaining Their Course.

PRESIDENT STARTED THEM.

His Proposition Accepted June 9—Later on He Also Saved the Day—Our Very Grateful.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—The government has issued the following communication explaining the course of the peace negotiations:

In the month of June the emperor consented to accept the proposition of President Roosevelt for a conference of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries in order to ascertain how far it was possible for the two powers to determine conditions of peace. This important mission was entrusted to M. Witte and Baron de Rosen, who received full powers by virtue of which they could, in the event of the acceptance of the Japanese propositions, proceed to the conclusion of a treaty of peace.

After the conclusion of the plenipotentiaries took place at Oyster Bay on Aug. 7, and the conference opened at Portsmouth on Aug. 9. At the second sitting the Japanese plenipotentiaries presented the conditions of peace demanded at Tokio, which, though several of these conditions were absolutely unacceptable, according to the instructions given by the Russian plenipotentiaries and that the wording of the other conditions was interpretable as a derision to Russian interests, M. Witte proposed a detailed discussion of each point separately.
