Nephi, Nov. 23 .- The Grand Central-Mammoth litigation will take at least two weeks more of the court's time The Mammoth side of the controversy will occupy nearly all of next week.

This forence two witnesses were on the stand. Mr. J. A. Cunningham and Mr. Sam McIntyre. The testimony of the former was very brief and unim-portant. Mr. McIntyre's direct ex-amination, by Attorney John M. Zane, on behalf of the Mammoth, gave many interesting details concerning the work done in the Mammoth since McIntyre became connected with it, the location of the different ore bodies, the ore tak-Mr. McIntyre's direct examination was in progress this after-

BUSINESS ON 'CHANGE.

May Day Traded In-Star Consolidated Came Down Some.

May Day, Star Consolidated and Silver Shield aroused most interest on the mining exchange today, although trading was dull in the aggregate. So were small and somewhat scattered. Sales Star Consolidated went down, the highest price paid today being 4 cents lower than the highest price paid yes-terday; and the lowest price today was cents lower than that of yesterday, Silver Shield held its own, the highest price of today being % cent less than that of yesterday, but the lowest being 1 cent higher than the lowest of 24 hours before,

May Day at first promised to furnish some excitement, but notwithstanding the fact that there was much gesticula-tion and noisy banter, but 2,600 shares changed hands at figures between the bid and offer on the stock yesterday.

HEAVY REALIZING MARKET

Enormous Sales of Steel Stocks Broke it, Everything Quoted Falling Away Rapidly.

Pressure on Certain Rullroad Stocks Caused Them to Yield-Bonds Quiet and Irregular.

New York, Nov. 23 .- There was heavy realizing at the opening of the stock market, which was most manifest in the Pacific railroads and the steel stocks. Steel and Wire sold at 47% to 47, compared with 47 last night. There were some sharp advances in other stocks. Amalgamated Copper was dealt in for the first time in the unlisted department of the exchange, and the first sales of 4,000 shares were at 99% to 99%. The stock afterwards fell back to about 99. The quotation in the outside market at the closing last night was 981/4. Enormous sales of the steel stocks broke the market, and everything quoted fell away rapidly. Stop-loss orders were uncovered and long stock was brought out freely. The greatest declines were made in the specialties, Tennessee Coal losing 3, and Steel and Wire and Rubber common and preferred 31/2 each, and Metropolitan Street railway, Tobacco and Colorado Fuel over 2 noints. A long list of other stocks, neluding leading railways and special ties lost from 1 to 1½. Amalgamated Copper dropped below 98. There was a relaxation of pressure near 11 o'clock. and some notable rallies, extending to two in Steel and Wire. Prices of a few stocks recovered to above the opening prices, the tone of the market being improved by a rise to $1.4214 in New York Central. A raid on sugar sent ork Central. A raid on sugar sent down to $1.33%, but this manoeuvre did not immediately affect the general market. Pressure was put on Northsern Pacific, and as these stocks yielded easily and a general attack was made against and a general attack was made against the railroad list. Low prices were made all around for the standard stocks, losses running above two points in some cases. Some of the specialties reached the low mark also, but the metal group kept above the lowest. # MRS. GILLITTE HONORED.

This Morning's Brilliant Recital at the Tabernacle.

The organ recital given at the Tabernacle this morning in honor of Viola Pratt Gillette and the Nielsen Opera company, drew out at least 2,000 people; such an attendance, in the face of a drizzling rain storm, was a decided tribute, and Mrs. Gillette stated that she could not sufficiently express her appreciation of it. Mr. McClellan played several numbers, and was at his played several numbers, and was at his very best in such selections as "The Chorus of Angels." "The Lost Chord," —which had a touching interest owing to the death yesterday of Sullivan, its gifted composer—and the always divine Andantino "To My Wife." Mr. Goddard thrilled his hearers by a ringing rendition of Granier's "Hosanna," and was forced to repeal it, the rembers of the opera company the members of the opera company leading in the applause. Mr. Goddard asked whether Mr. Eugene Cowles was in the audience, but there was no response, much to the general regret.

Mrs. Gillette was given a big round as she appeared in front of the organ and shook hands with Prof. Stephens. her old teacher, and the conductor un-der whom she had sung in the Tabernacle choir for so long. She gave a number in Spanish. "Adoni Fatalie," from the opera of "Don Carlos;" it was rendered in fine dramatic style, and being forced to resopnd, she sang a negro lullaby with admirable effect. Her voice, while still not entirely re-covered, was better than it had been the previous night.

At the close of the recital many of Mrs. Gillette's old friends thronged around her to congratulate her and tender her their best wishes in her operatic career. She continues with the Nielsen company up till next June, and the expectation is that the season will be finished in London.

· AMUSEMENTS.

Lummun Salt Lake has had the privilege of listening to all the foremost light operacompanies of the country during the past ten years, but it remained for the Alice Neilson organization last evening to wipe away the memory of the foremost of them all, and, in one bound, to take its place in our estimation, as incomparably the finest organization of its kind that ever visited the city. After witnessing the magnificent complete ness of the whole production, one real Cattle-Receipts. 4,500. Generally when they lost the master hand of very slow; butchers stock good to Frank L. Perley, the manager who left them to build up the fortunes of Alice Neilsen. Probably no manager in the country possesses the secret to a more country possesses the secret to a more complete degree, of what goes to make up perfection in an operatic presentation. He was not content to secure the brightest singing bird in the whole coterie of American light opera stars, but he surrounded her with a cluster of brilliants whose standard acceptance. of brilliants, whose standard as artists of brilliants, whose standard as arrived approach her own, and gave her a chorus, an orchestra, and an entire stage production to the last degree magnificent. He took Eugene Cowles from the Bostonians, engaged an inimitable comedian in Cawthorn, and Imitable comedian in Cawthorn, and put every one of the lesser roles into the hands of people who knew what singing and acting meant. Then he engaged the foremost of our composers, Victor Herbert, to write the opera for the organization. After such preliminaries there could be requested. ganization. After such preliminaries there could be no question as to success. Miss Nellsen and her company have literally swept the country ever since she began her new career as a star, and the crush, the brilliance, and the en-thusiasm of last night's audience, rare as they are to us, are only duplications of what she experiences everywhere.

The company is a veritable gold mine both to Miss Neilsen and her manager.

It would be hard to describe all the charm of last night's rendition. The great enthusiasm of the night was called forth by Miss Nellsen's own exnuisitely arch rendition of her solo "Love is Tyrant." She received any number of thunderous encores, and was quite overwhelmed when an usher stag-gered down the alsle carrying a huge gered down the aisle carrying a huge beshive made of yellow chrysanthe-muns. She had to call for help, and one of the actors ran out from the wings and extended it. Nothing more coquettish or charming than the ren-dition of this number could be im-agined, and the force and brilliance of tones, proceeding from so slight a physique were equally remarkable. Miss Nellsen certainly caused a furore last night from the beginning to the close night from the beginning to the close of the opera. The next interest was feit in the debut of Viola Pratt Gillette, feit in the debut of Viola Pratt Gillette, a Salt Lake girl, who got an ovacion on her entrance. Her friends soon perceived that her voice was not at its best, and the disappointment was general when it was learned that she had recently been suffering from illness which had settled in her vocal organs. Still her sold was well done, and she obtained an en ore and was showered with floral of ferings. There is nothing of the ama-teur left in her work. She presents a charming appearance, and in her second act costume looked thoroughly reg-

Her acting throughout was done with taste and intelligence. She was indispensable in the beautiful finales and in the general concerted work of the opera. Mr. Eugene Cowles, whose work with the Bostonians will not soon be forgotten, also had a great reception, and his two songs were encored. Still it must be said in frankness, that he was not at his best, and the organ-like tones that used to peal forth in his work in "Robin Hood" are lacking. If he would 'unbend" more in his acting, too, Mr. Cowles would increase his popularity His voice was heard to best advantage in the concerted numbers. Mr. Caw-thorn was as funny as ever he was, and aided by Mr. Slavin and Mr. Herbert did some trio work that kept the house in an uproar, and the encores they received must have prolonged the performance nearly half an hour. Mr. Ling is a sweet toned tenor, The chorus, in both singing and acting was admirable; the costumes bewildering and the scenery magnificent. The orchestra deserves special praise. It was al-most doubled by the combination of the home players and Miss Nielsen's extras, and under the graceful baton of Mr. Steindorf, was in itself a treat. There is little question as to the results of the engagement. Today's maunusual for a Friday afternoon, and a stormy one at that; the presentation tonight of the other work, "The For-tune Teller," which is also by Herbert, and the story of which is said to be brighter—as it could easily be—than that of "The Singing Girl," in which it must be said that Mr. Smith, the librettist, was not in his best mood—will be sure to draw out another enormous audience.

Mr. Frank Perley is now visiting Salt Lake for the first time. He bore messages from Jennie Hawley, a member of Miss Nielsen's company last year, to many of her Salt Lake friends, and as she is at present out of the cast of Pete Dailey's company, owing to iliness, he sent a dispatch of sympathy to her in his own name and that of her friends, last night. Mr. Parley says no more perfect ladies and Perley says no more perfect ladies and conscientious artists were ever in his employ than his two Salt Lake girls, Viola Pratt Gillette and Jennie Hawley. He spoke with feeling of the death of Sir Arthur Sullivan, which he had just read in the "News" dispatches, and said he thought Victor Herbert was the only composer who could stand in his shoes. It had been the dream of his life he said, to have W. S. Gilbert, who furnished all the librettos for Sullivan's famous operas, to write the words for a work by Herbert, and he hoped to bring the two together next year in

One would have thought, in looking at the theater audience last night, that the amusement loving population of the town was all there, but down at the Grand it seemed to make no difference Grand it seemed to make no difference, and the crowd was as large and as handsome as the famous old "Trip to Chinatown" is usually greeted with in this city. Few of Hoyt's plays are more popular and the appreciation and applause last evening seemed as strong as though the play were going for the first time. The main eleverness was invested in Harry Glifoil and Miss Montgomery, whose widow made a handsome appearance. The specialties with which the play is crowded are al good and were generally encored. The bill runs for the remainder of the week

The sale for the Grau Opera company is still going on at Daynes' music store In response to a message from Mr. Ashworth, who is selling the tickets, Mr. Grau yesterday wired from Sar Francisco: "We certainly hope to fil engagement in Salt Lake. Wire sales

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT. Miss Herron's Demand for $10,000 is Made in Court Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS."] Provo, Nov. 23 .- Miss Lucy Herron, of Pleasant Grove, Utah county, filed a damage suit in the Fourth district court today, against Warren C. Boley of American Fork, for $10,000 for breach of promise. Mr. Boley is the young man who recently obtained a marriage license to wed another girl, as told in the "News" the other evening.

About two years ago when young Boley was at a party at Pleasant Grove, he left the place, and was followed by Miss Herron's brother and others, was overtaken and beaten, the thrashing having been given, so it is said, be-cause of his treatment of Miss Herron. Several young men were arrested in connection with the assault, and were tried for riot, but were acquited. The case will be aired in the courts now.

A NARROW ESCAPE. Oliver Jensen and Barney Middlemass

Get a Close Call.

Oliver Jensen and Barney Middlemass had an experience last week they will not soon forget, says the Richfield Reaper. They were setting off blasts Reaper. They were setting off blasts in a drift at the Annie Laurie mine, when their fuse "run" on them and explosions followed sconer than they expected. They had put in several charges close together. The one first lighted exploded while they were by it and they were both knocked down. They were not rendered unconscious and got away as fast as they could, shot after shot following closely upon them.

grandon work with such force, howver, as to nearly blind them and cut the skin. Chunks were hurled against their bodies but they managed to escape without serious injury. Their eyes were in bad condition for several days, and they were sore about the body, but they have nearly recovered. Had the biasts been in rocks they would have been killed outright.

TO BE BURIED AT PROVO.

The officers at Provo received a telegram from Anaconda, Mont., this afternoon, from the relatives of C. J. Schmitt, recently killed on the railway track at Provo. It stated that the body could be buried at Provo, there being no necessity of shipping it to Montana. The funeral probably will be held at Provo tomorous.
