The Bad and Worthless are never initiated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that theremedy initiated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole World that Hor Bittuns was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations aprang up and began to steal the notices to which the press and the people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induse suffering invalida to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nortrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hope" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bittern. All smele

What They Both Thought. It was twenty-five minutes past seven. The buggy was at the door, to take him to the train. His hand was on the knob. "Good-bye," he called out. There came from somecalled out. There came from somewhere up stairs, through the halfopen door, a female voice, "Goodbye;" then he had gone out into the glad spring a'r, oddrous with the foretokens of coming life and musical with the songs of the nestbuilders. But there was no song in his heart, no spring hope and light in his life, as he took the reins out of his groom's hand spoke to his impatient horse a sharp "Go on!" And as he rode through the royal avenue that led up to his house, this is what he thought:

A woman dropped into a commission house on Woodbridge street to purchase a barrel of apples for famiiy use, but she did net mean to be bitten in the purchase. "Are all the best ones on top?" she cautiously saked. "Ob, no; the contents are allke all the way through." "Will you knock the head out of the other end?" "Certainly, madam," and 'm two minutes the feat was accomplished and she saw the same grade of choice apples. This satisfied her that there was no deception and she would come again, and per-haps a wave of the handkerchief from the balcony. And I should have carried away with me that-smile that is brighter than the sun-shine, as the last gift of her graci-ous hospitality. It is a chance if she ous hospitality. It is a chance if she would not even have proposed to ride to the station with me, to see me off. For she knows, if ever woman did, how to welcome the coming and speed the parting guest. But I am only her husband; and can eat my breakfast alone, as if I were a bachelor; and get my coffee muddy or clear, hot or cold, as Bridget happens to make it; and take eggs hard or soft, and toast burnt or soggy, as it chuncks to come from a careless cook. And nobody cares. And when I go, "Good bye" is flung after me like a dry bone after an ill-cared-for cur. Heigho! What's the use of being married, anyway?

And this is what she thought as she put the last touches to her hair before the glass, and tried hard to keep put the last touches to her hair before the glass, and tried hard to keep the tears back from her eyes before she went down to see that the family breakfast was ready:

I wonder if Hugh really cares anything for me any more. When we were first married he never would have gone off in this way, with a careless "good-bye" tossed up stairs as he might toss a well-cleaned bone to a hungry dog. He would have found time to run up and kiss me good-bye, and tell me would have found time to run up and kiss me good-bye, and tell me that he missed me at his breakfast, and ask was I sick. He is gracious to his friends; a perfect gentleman to everyone but his wife. I believe he is tired of me. I wish I could let him go. It would be hard for me; but if it would be better for him!—Well, well! I mustn't think such things as these. Perhaps he does love me after all. But—but—tit is coming to be hard to believe it is coming to be hard to believe

And so with a heavy heart she sun laughed in at the open windows, and the birds chirped chearly to her all day, and the flowers waved their most graceful beckonings to her in vain; all for want of that one fare-

Oh! husbands and wives, will you never learn that love often dies of slightest wound; that the hus-bands owes no such thoughtful cour-tesy to any other person as he owes his wife; that the wife owes no such attentive consideration to any guest Gen'l Pass. A Safe Game.

The Arkansas judge, as a supporter of the law, knows nothing but the discharge of his duty, or rather what he considers his duty. He is never influenced, unless the pressure be great. The other day a negro charged with misdemeanor was tak-en before a rural judge, who, after hearing the testimony, said: "I shall have to fine him to the full extent of my financial jurisdiction. I shall make an example of him and send him to jail."

A Galveston child, little Charlie, was having a wordy war with his nurse. His father sang out: "Now, Charlie, are you going to be quiet or shall I come with as witch?" "Never mind the switch, papa," responded the youngster; "I can set her right without your help."

"Always," said papa, as he drank his coffee and enjoyed his morning beefsteak, "always, children, change the subject when anything unpleasant has been said. It is both wise and polite." That evening on his return from business, he found his carnation bed despoiled, and the tiny imprint of slippered feet silently bearing witness to the small thief. "Mabel," he said to her, "did you pick my flowers?" "Papa," said Mabel, "did you see a monkey in town?" "Never mind that. Did you pick my flowers?" "Papa, what did gran ma send me?" "Mabel, what do you mean? Did you pick my flowers? Answer ms, yes or no." "Yes, papa, I did, but I fout I'd change the subject."

he thought:

If I had been a guest, Martha would have been up and dressed. She would have had a spray of fresh flowers at my plate. She would have sat at the table and seen that my coffee was good, and my eggs hot, and my toast browned. And I should have had at least a parting shake of the hand, and a hope expressed that I would come again, and perter."-Detroit Free Press.

PLAIN TRUTHS

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible. If disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthen-ing it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache or constipation, and is positively not injurious.

Saved his Child.

17 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, Md. Feb. 12, 1880. Gents:—Upon the recommenda-tion of a friend I tried Brown's Iron Bitters as a tonic and re-storative for my daughter, whom I was thoroughly convinced was wasting away with Consumption. Having lost three daughters by the terrible disease, under the care of eminent physicians, I was loth to believe that anything could arrest the progress of the disease, but, to my great surprise, before my daughny great surprise, before my daugh er had taken one bottle of Brown': ter had taken one bottle of Brown's ignor Bitters, she began to mend and now is quite restored to former health. A fifth daughter began to show signs of Consumption, and when the physician was consulted he quickly said "Tonics were required;" and when informed that the elder sister was taking Brown's IRON BITTERS, responded "that is a good tonic, take it." ADORAM PHELPS.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS effectually cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Weakness, and renders the greatest relief and benefit to persons suffering from such wasting diseases as Con-sumption, Kidney Complaints, etc.
