Compelled by Circumstances. THAT IS what the makers of bicycles write when they say that their new wheels will be lighter for $5. The 'circumstances' mean just this: 'The Strassers that make road wheels, that strong wheel with lots of heavy and grace in every detail: the wheel that has passed the experimental stage and demonstrated to the whole world that one maker at least knows how to give in a job-bound wheel, has compelled the other makers to write their trade that they will have at least road wheels that 'go.' Only one year behind the Strassers with their promise. Can they do it? No, they can't. They can't make a wheel that is as good as that which they sold. They can't. Now, we don't think conditions have changed with them. We believe they will fail. We don't think they know how to handle their material so as to make the light wheels that will stand road work, and we believe their promise will be a barren one, but as their statements that their wheels were 23 pounds this year were not true, their wheels will be 23 pounds this year, and they will be 23 pounds this year.
