IMPORTANT LETTER errivals and Bepartures of Mails. From a Distinguished Physician. From a Distinguished Physician.

No single disease has entailed more suffering of hastoned the breaking up of the constitution than Calarth. The sense of small, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind, one or more and sometimes all yield to its destructive influence. The position it distributes throughout the system stacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored because but little understood by most physicians, impetantly assailed by theirs and distributes throughout the system of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of his textible disease by tweedoes within the reach of all passed into hands at once competens and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Santord in the preparation of his Rapicoan Curan has won my hearty approval. I believe it likely to succeed when all the usual remedies fail, because it strikes at the root of the disease, viz., the acidified blood, while it heals the nicerated membrane by direct application to the nasal patages. Its action is based on certain fixed raises, and unless the uttal faces are too far azheasted music, in the great majority of cases, effect a curs.

As it is a long time since we have seen any items published from this southwest corner of our great basin, I take the liberty to write a little. The people, generally, are in the enjoyment of good health; the prespects before us are good. Heprospects before us are good. Hepron is a very peaceable, quiet little town—good people, and comfortably situated to live. The stock, the dairy, and the farming are all prosperous. Schools and meetings

Our fathers helped to establish the United States government and fought to free it from the rule of a foreign king, that liberty might be enjoyed upon this goodly land. But where is that liberty for Latter day Saints? Wherever has a person been punished according to law for robbing, driving, or even murdering a Latter-day Saint? All have been determined, from the justice of peace to the governor and the President, that there should be no protection.

I have been a witness to these doings from the State of New York to the Rocky Mountains. Extermination was the order, and no State or Territory, when petitioned to, would promise us any protection. And the great chief of the nation said, "Your cause is just, but we can do nothing for you." So the case was appealed to the great Judge of all the earth. We are willing to leave it in His hands. Accordingly, I left New York, and came to Perth Amboy, New Jersey, on December 13th, where I staid one day. I had expected to find, collected there, certain old records of the State that would have afforded genealogical information, but on inquiry I learned that no such records were there. I was disappointed, as I wanted to trace two or three New Jersey families, Elder once more. In days gone by the region round about Cream Ridge has resounded with the tes-timony of the servants of God, and timony of the servants of God, and has produced a rich harvest of souls. But there remains a number of sheaves who have never yet been and still others who style themselves, or are called "dry land Mormons," i.e. "Mormons" in faith ut not in works.

I have spent the times since m rrival, in endeavering to convinc the latter that "faith without work is dead," and to inspire those who have and those who have not been baptized, with the spirit of gathering. How successful my puny efforts have been the Lord knows. But I have long since learned that nothing short of an inspiration from heaven can induce men to sacrifice home, property, friends and reputation, and join the poor despised Saints of God in their distant mountain home. However tant mountain home. However earnest may be the labors; however solemn the testimony of an Elder, the hearts of the people will not yield except God be with him in his work.

I have held two meetings in a private house in Hornerstown, a small village near here, which were both very well attended. On both occasions a goed spirit prevailed. On the last, by special request, I preached upon the subject of baptism for the dead. The announcement of the subject drew a full house, and all listened very respectfully.

house, and all listened very respectfully.

On December 30th I visited Freehold, the county seat of the county, and obtained some names from the private record. Next day I proceeded to Trenton, the capital of the State, but arrived ico late to the State, but arrived ico late to transact business. On New Years day I went to the State House, and called on the Secretary of State, to ask if certain records in his office were accessible. He informed me that they would be on the next day, that being a holiday. Next morning I was again in the office where, to my great attenction, found collected, records of great consequence for my purpose.

the State were filed or recorded there. These records are now in the office of the Secretary of State. So far as I can learn, there has been no provision, till within a few years, for preserving records of births, but the will of a parent usually mentioned all the living children, and often other near relatives. Thus the names, but not the dates of birth, are obtained, if the parent made a will as was a widely prevalent custom.

dairy, and the farming are all prosperous. Schools and meetings are well attended. Our holiday smusements have been really a time of rejoicing and feasting—all without money or price, the Relief Society taking a prominent part. The young people's associations should not be forgotten. The house was as well filled on such occasions as at other meetings—no great amount of dancing, but a good, oldfashioned reunion, singing, speeches, toasts and sentiment, which were enjoyed by old and young Among the number was our aged mother, Mary Pulsipher, who has stood firmly 47 years of the persecutions and ploneering of the Latter-day Saint life, and yet she was only 79 years old the 2nd of last March, and can see four generations of her children.

There has been one death here, which were the selections and a school-house at my service. There has been one death here, which occurred on the 6th inst., viz., Zerah J., son of the late Zerah and a school-house at my service.
